VIOLENT BATTLE FLARES IN DESERT

Allies Are on Road to Victory

Hard War, Sacrifices Are Ahead

Principal Effort Is to Be Against Nazis, Italians; to Hold Japs in Check

End Is Obscure

Defeats for Allies Are Likely Before Final Victory

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP) — Axis forces that for many dark months could fight the war when and where they chose are at last being forced on the defensive along all the world's battlefronts, military authorities said today, and the United Nations, with armed might growing to overwhelming proportions, are on the road to victory.

Yet, these experts agreed, final victory is still long months, if not years, in the future. The bloodiest campaigns—invasion of Nazi Europe and the conquest of Japan—are still to be fought. The greatest sacrifices by the people at home are yet to be made.

These were regarded as the main elements of the situation in which America found itself as the first year of a war born in treachery at Pearl Harbor closed and the probable pattern of the year ahead began to take shape. Here are the main lines of development anticipated by authorities:

The principal effort will be directed at crushing Germany and Italy. The conquest of North Africa is but a preliminary to the big push which may be launched from several directions once the Allied high command decides the time is ripe and their forces are ready.

Because of the wisdom of concentrating strength at the main point of attack, operations in the Pacific-Asiatic theatre will be designed largely to hold the Japanese in check and possibly to furnish jumping off places for final operations there when sufficient forces become available.

Despite the demands of our own armies, the Russians who started the tide turning against Germany, the Chinese, who have been battling the Japs for five years, and other Allies must be given increasing quantities of supplies.

America, which lost its rubber resources when the Japanese conquered Malaya and much of its east coast petroleum supplies when U-boats infested the western Atlantic, probably will find it necessary to draw its economic belt tighter and tighter—due not to the achievements of the enemy but to the requirements of our own and Allied Armies and Navies.

May Bring Victory

Barring some unforseen internal crackup of Germany, the campaigns to be fought this year may bring victory in sight by the time the second anniversary of Pearl Harbor rolls around. On the other hand, the United Nations forces may encounter some defeats as well as victories in the months ahead and it is certainly not out of the question that the end of the war may still be obscured by the future a year from now.

The important fact to keep in mind, qualified but unquotable officials said, is that from here on the development of the war is in the hands of the United Nations' high command rather than those of Adolf Hitler and the war lords in Tokyo. This is exactly the reverse of the situation up to a few weeks ago.

While America was marshalling her strength, Japan's first campaign ended victoriously in Java. To this she added victory in Burma. When her tentative thrust at India met stiff opposition, Tokyo was hemmed. Japanese armies in China suffered new reverses.

Thirteen Men Are Sent Home As 83 Others Go to Albany

Seven Enlistments Also Are Noted When Contingent Leaves in Buses; Names of 13 Men Not Available

The first anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor was marked in Kingston today by the departure of a contingent of 83 men this morning for an army induction center in Albany. Originally the contingent was to have numbered 103 men, but of that number seven have already enlisted, and 13 were not sent because they were 38 years of age or over.

Today was the first the new ruling that no man 38 years of age or over could be inducted into the armed services went into effect with a contingent sent by the local draft board.

It was also stated at the draft board office today that all enlistments in any of the armed branches of the service have now been frozen in the age group of 18 to 38 years.

The 13 men who had reached the age of 38 and over, who reported at the draft office to take the Albany trip this morning were notified by the board that they would not be sent and could return to their homes.

The contingent that left in three buses at 10 o'clock this morning were in charge of Howard Stephens, Jr., who had been appointed leader by the draft board. His three assistants were William Evans, Victor Alcon and Robert D. Stenson.

The members of the contingent who pass the physical tests today will be immediately inducted into the U. S. Army and will be granted a week's furlough before reporting to an army training camp.

As the contingent who left this morning were only going for physical examinations there were no ceremonies marking their departure.

It is expected that when those accepted leave for training camp next week that the usual farewell parade will be held and the new soldiers presented with parting gifts of cigarettes and candy.

The names of the 13 men who were 38 years and over was not made public as the draft board said it was confidential information.

Japs Lose 394 Ships

By MURRAY ROSE

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Japanese started it a year ago at Pearl Harbor, and today they find themselves facing a mightier American naval power than ever before, while at least 394 of their own ships lie at the bottom of the Pacific.

Several hundred other Nipponese naval and merchant vessels have been damaged, United States and allied reports show, since that day at Pearl Harbor.

American surface forces, submarines and planes, operating from the Aleutians to the Solomons, have dealt tremendous blows at the thinly spread sea forces of Japan.

The U. S. victories in the battles of the Coral Sea, at Midway, in the Solomons and in the fog-shrouded Aleutians have hit the enemy hardest in the class he can least afford—the fast, quick-maneuvering cruisers and destroyers he needs most to protect his long lines of communications.

Against a total of 86 American vessels lost in the Pacific, Japan has lost 101 ships alone in the battleship, aircraft carrier, cruiser and destroyer categories. Two battleships, six carriers, 37 cruisers and 56 destroyers have been reported sunk.

The U. S. has lost one battleship, the Arizona, and the capsized Oklahoma may not see service again. Four American aircraft carriers, seven cruisers and 23 destroyers also have been destroyed.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox has hailed the American comeback with the statement:

"We have a larger and more powerful navy measured in tonnage, air power or anything else than the day before Pearl Harbor—or the day after Pearl Harbor."

Based on official announcements by the navy and allied headquarters in battle zones throughout the Pacific the following compilation presents an over-all picture of comparable American-Japanese Pacific losses since December 7, 1941:

Battleships	2	1

Wooden Nickels Gag Might Become True

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—That old gag about accepting wooden nickels may derive some meaning from legislation which the House coinage committee hopes to get before the chamber this week.

The measure, which has been passed by the Senate, would authorize the Treasury to put just about anything it fancies into the nickel, the penny or the proposed new three-cent piece.

There is no present intention of coining wooden nickels, Treasury officials said, but with metals becoming increasingly scarce, there is no telling to what lengths they may be forced to go to keep up the supply of jingling money for the public's jeans.

Officials who testified before the committee "guessed" that common, every-day steel, possibly coated with zinc to prevent rust, would be used to make new nickels and pennies if the legislation is enacted.

The same material, they said, probably would be used for the three-cent pieces which the bill would authorize to relieve the pressure on pennies.

Officials of the mint estimated that more than 5,600 tons of copper and 300 tons of nickel would be saved annually if the legislation is enacted.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The position of the treasury December 4: Receipts $98,433,162.73. Expenditures $355,428,222.15. Net balance $5,212,312,765.89. Working balance included $4,449,778,561.05. Customs receipts for month $3,187,487.66. Receipts fiscal year (July 1) $5,327,944,912.94. Expenditures fiscal year $29,543,561,555.10. Excess of expenditures $24,223,616,642.16. Total debt $103,413,897,410.57. Increase over previous day $276,315,769.30. Gold assets $22,743,167,729.29.

Desert Is Alive With Men Getting Ready to Fight

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

With the British Eighth Army in Libya at Bengasi, Dec. 7—This lull in the fighting on the Libyan front should not be taken as indicating any slackening of the Allied effort to oust the Axis from Northern Africa, for it is merely a period of intensive preparation for resumption of what is one of the decisive battles of the whole war.

Marshal Erwin Rommel knows that, and he is straining every nerve to get set at El Agheila to meet the fresh onslaught which is inevitable. His operations are quite apparent to us on this side of the line for in these days of aerial magic the sky is one huge Cyclopean eye which sees pretty much all that passes beneath.

This whole great desert-splotched zone on both the Allied and Axis sides is swarming with activity like one of the myriad anthills which dot its surface. I have been crossing and recrossing hundreds of miles of this inhospitable territory—a killer desert of hills and deep cut gorges which the natives call jebeis and waddies—and can testify that the war is moving apace.

The present lull is a perfectly normal thing. In the short period of about a month the Eighth Army chased the fleeing Hitlerites like rabbits across some 700 miles of desert. Now, that is a terrific per-

18-Year-Olds Will Register for U. S. Selective Service

Dates Are From December 11 to 31; Order Is Given by State Draft Leader

Registration of men who have become 18 on and after July 1 of this year will begin on December 11 and end on December 31, in accordance with the proclamations of the President and of Governor Poletti, Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, stated today.

Men who become 18 on and after January 1, 1943, will be required to register on their birthday, General Brown said. If the birthday falls on Sunday or on a holiday, registration will be required on the first succeeding day that is not a Sunday or holiday.

Instructions sent to the local boards in New York state require the registration to be consummated in the following order according to the birthday of the registrant:

July 1 to August 31, 1924, inclusive, December 11 to 17, inclusive.

September 1 to October 31, 1924, inclusive, December 18 to 24, inclusive.

November 1 to December 31, 1924, inclusive, December 26 to 31, inclusive.

"Unless public announcement is given that the local board having jurisdiction over the area in which they live will have additional places of registration," General Brown explained, "registrants should go to the office of the local board for the purpose of registration. They

Tributes were paid Sunday afternoon to a gold star mother and a four star mother at the ceremonies attending the dedication of the service flag for the boys of the Seventh Ward who are now in the armed service of the country. The exercises were held in Cornell Park, following a parade through some of the streets of the ward.

The gold star mother is Mrs. Judson Libby of 24 Spruce street, whose son, Robert Libby, was killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, while the four star mother is Mrs. Richard Smith of 109 Abeel street who has four sons in the services of the nation.

The service flag, which is 15 x 25 feet, is stretched across Wurts street, near Hunter street. It contains the words "7th Ward" at top and in the white field in the center of the flag is a circle of 13 stars with the figures 140 in the center, signifying the number of boys in the service from the ward, while at the bottom of the flag are the words "Honor Roll."

Since the flag was purchased by the committee from the ward approximately 14 more boys entered the armed service of the country.

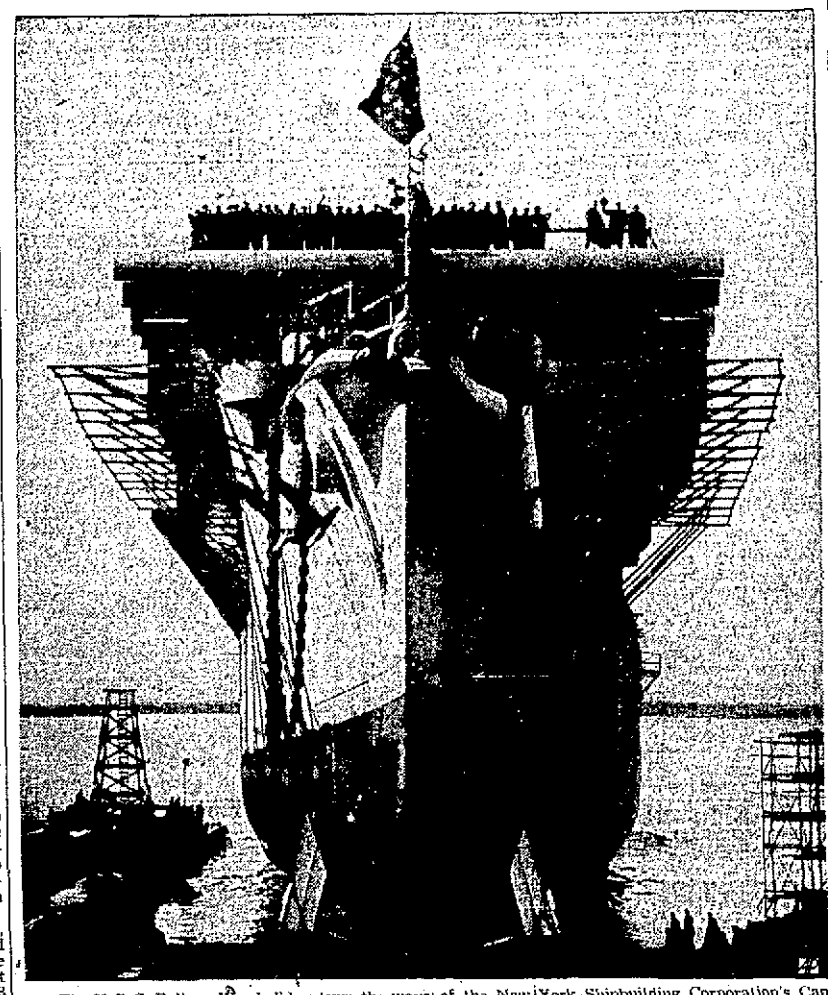

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was grand marshal of the parade which formed on McEntee street, and marched through McEntee to Wurts street, to Hone street, to Hunter street, to Ravine street, to Abeel street to Wurts street, to Cornell Park.

The music for the parade and the exercises that followed was furnished by the newly formed Victory Band composed of air wardens in the city. Marching in the parade were Mayor William F. Edelmuth, Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, service men home on a furlough, the color guard of the American Legion, air raid wardens in charge of Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur Morrill, and the air raid wardens of the Seventh Ward in charge of Warden Al Vogel, Boy Scouts and residents of the ward.

New U. S. Aircraft Carrier Launched

The U. S. S. Belleau Wood slides down the ways of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's Camden, N. J., yards into the Delaware river—the third carrier launched at the yard in 15 weeks. Mrs. Thomas Holcomb, wife of the commandant of the Marine Corps, was the sponsor.

Willkie Says Anglo, American Peoples Can Define War

Their Stand Would Be More Important Than Those of Temporary Heads of Governments

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Wendell Willkie expressed belief today in a message to the people of England on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor that Americans and Britons could reach conclusions as to the purpose of the war "that are sounder than the wisest pronouncements of temporary leaders."

"The right of free expression and all it implies was attacked at Pearl Harbor," Willkie said. "Let's get on with the discussion."

The message was cabled to England and was to appear in today's issue of Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard.

Willkie said it was his opinion that if a common accord of our purposes was not reached "while we fight, we will inevitably fall apart when the fighting is over" and it was for this reason, he added, that he was trying to "prod" the leaders of both nations "into frank statements of their postwar purposes."

"And it is for this reason," he said, "that I fight for the right of your people and of mine to express themselves freely to each other, unhampered by unnecessary censorship."

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate said that international censorship generally was set up for one of two reasons—"either to protect our feelings, as if we were supersensitive children, or to cover up official mistakes."

"For instance," he continued, "a day or two after our collaboration with Darlan was announced I was required to delete from a talk I was making to the American people by condemnation of that policy and no reference to my position was allowed to reach England.

"At the same time similar condemnation of our policy was being made in Parliament and we learned by radio and press that there was grave disapproval of it in England, as there was in America.

"To illustrate still further the deviousness of official censorship, we likewise read in our papers of your government's refusal to allow DeGaulle to broadcast his protest over the Darlan arrangement for fear of embarrassing our government.

"It is all proof, if any is needed, that the people of our two nations must know each other's minds. For I believe that the American and British people can in good temper, unguided by the patri-

U. S. Honors Pearl Harbor With Big Launching Total

(By The Associated Press)

The coming and going of the first New Year's Eve of Pearl Harbor will give the enemy added worries, for busy U. S. shipbuilders were honoring the occasion by sending new ships of war down the ways.

Scheduled to be launched today was one of the mightiest battleships ever built anywhere—the 45,000-ton New Jersey, which will have its first taste of water at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

At Tampa, Fla., seven warships were to be launched and a navy receiving station commissioned today. The Alarm, Apex, Alchemy, Arcade, Arch and Armada—mighty minesweepers all—will slide into water there, and the day will be topped off when the great destroyer tender Piedmont is christened.

At the Fore River yard of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Quincy, Mass., the carrier Bunker Hill, first ship to be dubbed after the revolutionary battle site, will be launched today. The Bunker Hill is a sister ship of the Lexington, which was launched at the same yard September 26.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) will see the cruiser Miami hit water at the Cramp Shipbuilding Company

W.M.C. Lists City As Having Short Supply of Labor

New Statement Is Given to Guide Government Agencies in Giving War Contracts

To guide government agencies in placing war contracts, the War Manpower Commission issued today a new list of 270 industrial areas showing current labor shortages in 102 of them including Kingston; anticipated shortages in 77, and labor surpluses in 91.

The list supercedes an earlier one giving the labor status in 227 areas. The revised list includes all cities of 50,000 or more, and some smaller cities.

Chairman Paul V. McNutt of W.M.C. said the list represented a "positive approach to the need for placing contracts in areas in which workers would be idle, unemployed or employed in producing materials less essential to the war effort."

He conceded that manpower was only one of several considerations that guide procurement officials in negotiating war contracts. Each labor market listed includes not only the city named but also nearby communities. For example, Mo-

New York's Meat Supply Problem Is Critical One, LaGuardia Reports

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The meat supply situation in New York has become "worse" and that of butter "critical," says Mayor La Guardia, who predicts that "the food problem will become increasingly difficult."

"It is necessary, therefore, that we prepare and adjust ourselves to it," he asserted yesterday in his weekly radio address.

Appealing for a cut in general butter consumption, the mayor said this food had been dropped from the menus of correctional institutions and lodging houses here, while supplies for hospitals were being obtained only with much trouble.

Weekly butter consumption by city institutions, he said, had dropped from 19 tons to 10—enough to supply only hospitals where butter is a "very necessary part of the hospital diet."

He disclosed that one day last week the city could get no bids for butter "and we simply had to go from place to place in order to pick up sufficient butter for the coming week."

"Now," he added, "we have assurance for next week for hospitals only, and beyond that I do not know what is going to happen."

In the matter of meat, La Guardia declared:

"In October and November, because of the lack of proper control over the supply of meat sold on the hoof and slaughtered, we used more than 70 per cent of our normal consumption, and that means the supply in December will be very low.

"Now it is difficult to live within a reduced amount unless there is proper control all the way back to the farm where cattle is raised.

"And another thing. When meat is slaughtered in New York or shipped to New York is taken for military or lend-lease purposes, well, the city should be credited with that amount.

"The situation is not good just now, and therefore I want to appeal to the people of the city of New York to reduce their meat consumption until we can reestablish it on a reduced but permanent supply each month."

La Guardia declared also "we're having difficulty in getting sufficient milk now for our penny milk in schools."

Knockout Is Likely Strategy

Axis Is Confronted by Grim Picture as United States Turns on Power

Reds Forge Ahead

Russians Begin Second Winter Offensive in Face of Resistance

By JAMES M. LONG
(Associated Press War Editor)

The fight for Tunisia was erupted from temporary stalemate into a violent new clash involving armored forces near Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, where the allied drive was checked last week by Axis counter-attacks and dive-bombing.

The war department announced today that the heavy fighting broke out yesterday and is continuing. It gave no indication as to which side had the initiative.

Reports that the allied command had planned its next blow and moved up the forces to deliver it suggested that Lieut. Gen Kenneth A. N. Anderson's veteran First Army and its American assault force might be striving for a knockout.

On this anniversary of Pearl Harbor the Axis was beginning to see the size of the bill it must pay as the growing might of the United States at war tipped the scales for the allies on battlefields in the European and Asiatic theatres.

This was the picture, in contrast to that dark December 7 a year ago:

North Africa—"Plans for the final phase of the Tunisian campaign," looking toward a cleanup in North Africa, were reported laid by allied commanders at a candlelight conference in a farmhouse kitchen in the battlezone.

British and American forces held strategic heights dominating Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, and heavy fighting raged near the town and at Mateur, at the approaches to Bizerte, along a front where the allied onslaught had been checked and dive bombed.

And though the allied drive seemed stalled for the moment, reported feverish defense preparations in Sicily indicated that the Axis was well aware that the pause was only temporary, and that the allies might soon be in position to start stepping across the narrow mid-Mediterranean straits to Italian soil.

Russia—The Red army's second winter offensive gained anew in the teeth of stiffened resistance by air-borne Nazi reinforcements, the Russians beat down 20 German counter-attacks west of Rzhev, killed 1,000 Germans in a three-day advance along the Rzhev-Vyazma rail line, and wiped out 1,800 others in one sector of the Stalingrad front.

In the air—A strong force of R.A.F. planes, perhaps 100 or more, followed up yesterday's 600-plane daylight raids with an attack last night on Karlsruhe and Pforzheim in southwestern Germany along the rail system through which the Nazis bolster their flagging Italian allies.

Southwest Pacific — American soldiers supported by Australian artillery drove out of the New Guinea mangrove swamps to the beach east of Buna village, establishing the allies' fourth beach position and cutting up the Japanese last stand into one more pocket.

On Guadalcanal American marines wiped out 400 Japanese with a loss of only 17 of their own men in one of their latest attacks. The navy said that by actual count 6,641 Japanese had been killed on the island, besides the thousands estimated to have perished at sea in landing and reinforcement attempts.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox asserted that Japan's loss of warships, cargo vessels and troop transports—placed at 394 in sunk alone—had reached a point of desperation which imperiled the security of her widely-scattered Pacific island bases.

"The time is actually close," he said, "when the Japanese forces in the occupied islands of the Pacific will suffer for lack of replacements in manpower, weapons, ammunition and medical supplies— for the lack of ships to transport them.

"Patient whittling away of the ship strength of our maritime enemy, Japan, lessens the magnitude of the task our men will have to do with bomb and bayonet along the long, hard road to Tokyo."

Japan, which so far has had only a sample of what is to come, noted the Pearl Harbor anniversary with a week-end of broadcasts ranging from claims that the United States actually "fired the first shot" at Pearl Harbor, to

By DeWITT MACKENZIE

With the British Eighth Army in Libya at Bengasi, Dec. 7—This lull in the fighting on the Libyan front should not be taken as indicating any slackening of the Allied effort to oust the Axis from Northern Africa, for it is merely a period of intensive preparation for resumption of what is one of the decisive battles of the whole war.

Marshal Erwin Rommel knows that, and he is straining every nerve to get set at El Agheila to meet the fresh onslaught which is inevitable. His operations are quite apparent to us on this side of the line for in these days of aerial magic the sky is one huge Cyclopean eye which sees pretty much all that passes beneath.

This whole great desert-splotched zone on both the Allied and Axis sides is swarming with activity like one of the myriad ant-hills which dot its surface. I have been crossing and recrossing hundreds of miles of this inhospitable territory—a killer desert of hills and deep cut gorges which the natives call jebels and waddies—and can testify that the war is moving apace.

The present lull is a perfectly normal thing. In the short period of about a month the Eighth Army chased the fleeing Hitlerites like rabbits across some 700 miles of desert. Now, that is a terrific per-

18-Year-Olds Will Register for U. S. Selective Service

Dates Are From December 11 to 31; Order Is Given by State Draft Leader

Registration of men who have become 18 on and after July 1 of this year will begin on December 11 and end on December 31, in accordance with the proclamations of the President and of Governor Poletti, Brigadier General Ames T. Brown, New York State Director of Selective Service, stated today.

Men who become 18 on and after January 1, 1943, will be required to register on their birthday, General Brown said. If the birthday falls on Sunday or on a holiday, registration will be required on the first succeeding day that is not a Sunday or holiday.

Instructions sent to the local boards in New York state require the registration to be consummated in the following order according to the birthday of the registrant:

July 1 to August 31, 1924, inclusive, December 11 to 17, inclusive.

September 1 to October 31, 1924, inclusive, December 18 to 24, inclusive.

November 1 to December 31, 1924, inclusive, December 26 to 31, inclusive.

"Unless public announcement is given that the local board having jurisdiction over the area in which they live will have additional places of registration," General Brown explained, "registrants should go to the office of the local board for the purpose of registration. They

Tributes were paid Sunday afternoon to a gold star mother and a four star mother at the ceremonies attending the dedication of the service flag for the boys of the Seventh Ward who are now in the armed service of the country. The exercises were held in Cornell Park, following a parade through some of the streets of the ward.

The gold star mother is Mrs. Judson Libby of 24 Spruce street, whose son, Robert Libby, was killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, while the four star mother is Mrs. Richard Smith of 109 Abeel street who has four sons in the services of the nation.

The service flag, which is 15 x 25 feet, is stretched across Wurts street, near Hunter street. It contains the words "7th Ward" at top and in the white field in the center of the flag is a circle of 13 stars with the figures 140 in the center, signifying the nummer of boys in the service from the ward, while at the bottom of the flag are the words "Honor Roll."

Since the flag was purchased by the committee from the ward approximately 14 more boys entered the armed service of the country.

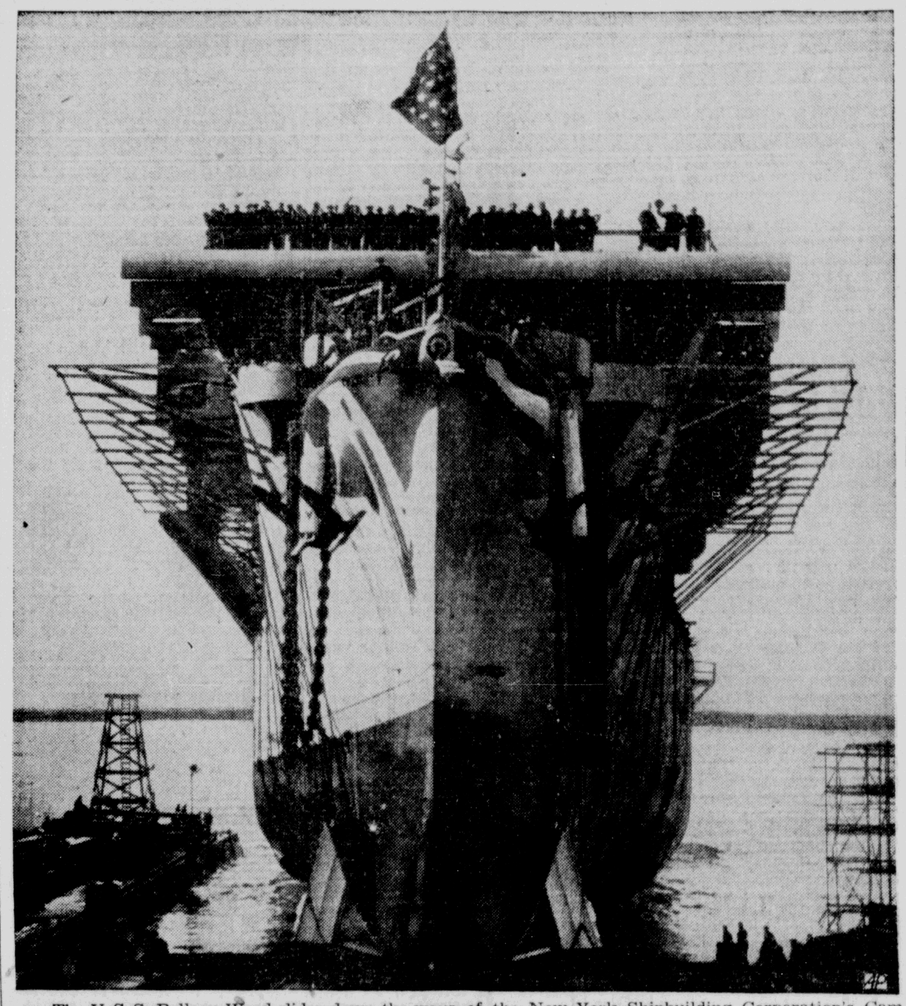

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy was grand marshal of the parade which formed on McEntee street, and marched through McEntee to Wurts street, to Hone street, to Hunter street, to Ravine street, to Abeel street to Wurts street, to Cornell Park.

The music for the parade and the exericses that followed was furnished by the newly formed Victory Band composed of air wardens in the city. Marching in the parade were Mayor William F. Edelmuth, Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, service men home on a furlough, the color guard of the American Legion, air raid wardens in charge of Chief Air Raid Warden Arthur Morrill, and the air raid wardens of the Seventh Ward in charge of Warden Al Vogel, Boy Scouts and residents of the ward.

Willkie Says Anglo, American Peoples Can Define War

Their Stand Would Be More Important Than Those of Temporary Heads of Governments

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Wendell Willkie expressed belief today in a message to the people of England on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor that Americans and Britons could reach conclusions as to the purpose of the war "that are sounder than the wisest pronouncements of temporary leaders."

"The right of free expression and all it implies was attacked at Pearl Harbor," Willkie said. "Let's get on with the discussion."

The message was cabled to England and was to appear in today's issue of Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard.

Willkie said it was his opinion that if a common accord of our purposes was not reached "while we fight, we will inevitably fall apart when the fighting is over" and it was for this reason, he added, that he was trying to "prod" the leaders of both nations "into frank statements of their postwar purposes."

"And it is for this reason," he said, "that I fight for the right of your people and of mine to express themselves freely to each other, unhampered by unnecessary censorship."

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate said that international censorship generally was set up for one of two reasons—"either to protect our feelings, as if we were supersensitive children, or to cover up official mistakes."

"For instance," he continued, "a day or two after our collaboration with Darlan was announced I was required to delete from a talk I was making to the American people by condemnation of that policy and no reference to my position was allowed to reach England.

"At the same time similar condemnation of our policy was being made in Parliament and we learned by radio and press that there was grave disapproval of it in England, as there was in America.

"To illustrate still further the deviousness of official censorship, we likewise read in our papers of your government's refusal to allow DeGaulle to broadcast his protest over the Darlan arrangement for fear of embarrassing our government.

"It is all proof, if any is needed, that the people of our two nations must know each other's minds, for I believe that the American and British people can in good temper, unguided by the pater-

U. S. Honors Pearl Harbor With Big Launching Total

(By The Associated Press)

The coming and going of the first New Year's Eve of Pearl Harbor will give the enemy added worries, for busy U. S. shipbuilders were honoring the occasion by sending new ships of war down the ways.

Scheduled to be launched today was one of the mightiest battleships ever built anywhere—the 45,000-ton New Jersey, which will have its first taste of water at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

At Tampa, Fla., seven warships were to be launched and a navy receiving station commissioned today. The Alarm, Apex, Alchemy, Arcade, Arch and Armada—mighty minesweepers all—will slide into water there, and the day will be topped off when the great destroyer tender Piedmont is christened.

At the Fore River yard of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation at Quincy, Mass., the carrier Bunker Hill, first ship to be dubbed after the revolutionary battle site, will be launched today. The Bunker Hill is a sister ship of the Lexington, which was launched at the same yard September 26.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) will see the cruiser Miami hit water at the Cramp Shipbuilding Company

W.M.C. Lists City As Having Short Supply of Labor

New Statement Is Given to Guide Government Agencies in Giving War Contracts

To guide government agencies in placing war contracts, the War Manpower Commission issued today a new list of 270 industrial areas showing current labor shortages in 102 of them including Kingston; anticipated shortages in 77, and labor surpluses in 91.

The list supercedes an earlier one giving the labor status in 227 areas. The revised list includes all cities of 50,000 or more, and some smaller cities.

Chairman Paul V. McNutt of W.M.C. said the list represented a "positive approach to the need for placing contracts in areas in which workers would be idle, unemployed or employed in producing materials less essential to the war effort."

He conceded that manpower was only one of several considerations that guide procurement officials in negotiating war contracts. Each labor market listed includes not only the city named but also nearby communities. For example, Mo-

New York's Meat Supply Problem Is Critical One, LaGuardia Reports

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The meat supply situation in New York has become "worse" and that of butter "critical," says Mayor La Guardia, who predicts that "the food problem will become increasingly difficult."

"It is necessary, therefore, that we prepare and adjust ourselves to it," he asserted yesterday in his weekly radio address.

Appealing for a cut in general butter consumption, the mayor said this food had been dropped from the menus of correctional institutions and lodging houses here, while supplies for hospitals were being obtained only with much troubles.

Weekly butter consumption by city institutions, he said, had dropped from 19 tons to 10—enough to supply only hospitals where butter is a "very necessary part of the hospital diet."

He disclosed that one day last week the city could get no bids for butter "and we simply had to go from place to place in order to pick up sufficient butter for the coming week."

"Now," he added, "we have assurance for next week for hospitals only, and beyond that I do not know what is going to happen."

In the matter of meat, La Guardia declared:

"In October and November, because of the lack of proper control over the supply of meat sold on the hoof and slaughtered, we used more than 70 per cent of our normal consumption, and that means the supply in December will be very low.

"Now it is difficult to live within a reduced amount unless there is proper control all the way back to the farm where cattle is raised.

"And another thing. When meat is slaughtered in New York or shipped to New York is taken for military or lend-lease purposes, well, the city should be credited with that amount.

"The situation is not good just now, and therefore I want to appeal to the people of the city of New York to reduce their meat consumption until we can reestablish it on a reduced but permanent supply each month."

La Guardia declared also "we're having difficulty in getting sufficient milk now for our penny milk in schools."

Knockout Is Likely Strategy

Axis Is Confronted by Grim Picture as United States Turns on Power

Reds Forge Ahead

Russians Begin Second Winter Offensive in Face of Resistance

By JAMES M. LONG
(Associated Press War Editor)

The fight for Tunisia was erupted from temporary stalemate into a violent new clash involving armored forces near Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, where the allied drive was checked last week by Axis counter-attacks and dive-bombing.

The war department announced today that the heavy fighting broke out yesterday and is continuing. It gave no indication as to which side had the initiative.

Reports that the allied command had planned its next blow and moved up the forces to deliver it suggested that Lieut. Gen Kenneth A. N. Anderson's veteran First Army and its American assault force might be striving for a knockout.

On this anniversary of Pearl Harbor the Axis was beginning to see the size of the bill it must pay as the growing might of the United States at war tipped the scales for the allies on battlefields in the European and Asiatic theatres.

This was the picture, in contrast to that dark December 7 a year ago:

North Africa—"Plans for the final phase of the Tunisian campaign," looking toward a cleanup in North Africa, were reported laid by allied commanders at a candlelight conference in a farmhouse kitchen in the battlezone.

British and American forces held strategic heights dominating Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, and heavy fighting raged near the town and at Mateur, at the approaches to Bizerte, along a front where the allied onslaught had been checked and dive bombed.

And though the allied drive seemed stalled for the moment, reported feverish defense preparations in Sicily indicated that the Axis was well aware that the pause was only temporary, and that the allies might soon be in position to start stepping across the narrow mid-Mediterranean straits to Italian soil.

Russia—The Red army's second winter offensive gained anew in the teeth of stiffened resistance by air-borne Nazi reinforcements, the Russians beat down 20 German counter-attacks west of Rzhev, killed 1,000 Germans in a three-day advance along the Rzhev-Vyazma rail line, and wiped out 1,800 others in one sector of the Stalingrad front.

In the air—A strong force of R.A.F. planes, perhaps 100 or more, followed up yesterday's 600-plane daylight raids with an attack last night on Karlsruhe and Pforzheim in southwestern Germany along the rail system through which the Nazis bolster their flagging Italian allies.

Southwest Pacific — American soldiers supported by Australian artillery drove out of the New Guinea mangrove swamps to the beach east of Buna village, establishing the allies' fourth beach position and cutting up the Japanese last stand into one more pocket.

On Guadalcanal American marines wiped out 400 Japanese with a loss of only 17 of their own men in one of their latest attacks. The navy said that by actual count 6,641 Japanese had been killed on the island, besides the thousands estimated to have perished at sea in landing and reinforcement attempts.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox asserted that Japan's loss of warships, cargo vessels and troop transports—placed at 394 in sunk alone—had reached a point of desperation which imperiled the security of her widely-scattered Pacific island bases.

"The time is actually close," he said, "when the Japanese forces in the occupied islands of the Pacific will suffer for lack of replacements in manpower, weapons, ammunition and medical supplies— for the lack of ships to transport them. . .

"Patient whittling away of the ship strength of our maritime enemy, Japan, lessens the magnitude of the task our men will have to do with bomb and bayonet along the long, hard road to Tokyo."

Japan, which so far has had only a sample of what is to come, noted the Pearl Harbor anniversary with a week-end of broadcasts ranging from claims that the United States actually "fired the first shot" at Pearl Harbor, to

McNutt Says Hershey Is To Continue as Draft Head

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP).—War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt said today that Major General Lewis B. Hershey would continue as director of the selective service system, for the present at least.

This was the first official word and Hershey's position since he and his agency were placed under McNutt by presidential order giving McNutt control over allocation of military and civilian manpower.

Asked if Hershey would continue as draft director, McNutt replied:

"Yes, for the time being, anyway."

McNutt's aides explained that Hershey, like Brigadier General Frank J. McSherry, director of the manpower commission's division of operations, was a regular officer "on loan" from the army for his present work and could be called for the army at any time.

McNutt scheduled an afternoon press conference to discuss his plans for action under the new manpower directive, which was accompanied by announcements of the army and navy that voluntary enlistment of men between 17 and 37 years, inclusive, had been stopped. This applied also to the marines and merchant marine.

The Navy will continue to enlist 17-year-olds, as it has been doing, but the Army has not taken men that young. Both branches will enlist specialists who have passed their 38th birthday, when needed.

Apparently the order did not ban men from volunteering for officers' commissions, but the Army recently announced it would not commission civilians except where there was need for them in some special work.

The War Department announcement said that induction "of men who are 38 years of age and over" was suspended, and explained that experience indicates "that men 38 years of age and over are in general physically less able to withstand the rigors of present-day combat activities."

McNutt, in his first comment on the new manpower setup, said that "all branches of the government, military and civilian, would work together to put" the right war workers in the right war jobs, "determining whether their most useful places were in the armed forces, industry or agriculture."

He said that local draft boards and the United States Employment Service, earlier integrated in the manpower commission, would work together under W. M. C. direction to make the proper placements of manpower, and would cooperate with local employers and labor leaders in doing their jobs.

Although he was silent on his plans pending a press conference this afternoon, McNutt has indicated at other times some of the procedure he will follow in exercising his new authority.

One factor that the 51-year-old manpower director has stressed recently was that he would continue to consult with representatives of both management and labor before making important decisions affecting their welfare.

Another is that local draft boards and appellate draft boards will be given stronger guides by technical experts of the employment service for determining whether individuals in industry or agriculture should be deferred because of their occupation.

He has suggested that this closer tie between the employment service and selective service would insure better compliance with manpower commission directives providing draft boards with instructions on which workers should be deferred on occupational grounds.

He has, however, upheld otherwise the right of local draft boards to pass upon each deferment case without interference.

Another indicated step was a move to strengthen the employment service, which has had considerable difficulty in retaining its own employes, by bringing its state offices under more direct federal control and by adjusting salaries of employes to the federal pay scale.

The pay adjustment, however, would require congressional approval and undoubtedly renew the battle over the employment service between the federal government and the states, which have contended that their units should be returned to state control after the war.

nalistic hand of government through the methods by which they have always functioned so successfully, within themselves reach conclusions as to purpose that are sounder than the wisest pronouncements of temporary leaders."

The question of Britain's rule over millions of people through its colonial system (he said he was not speaking of the commonwealth of free nations), the awakened interest of Americans in the Far East, and the growing recognition of the renaissance going on in China and India "are all subjects of much private and public discussion in America," Willkie declared.

"And sympathy," he added, "is apt to be by instinct and tradition with those who are claiming the right to capital's life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"And by the same token I have no doubt that there are many people in Britain who do not understand and who are critical of many of America's purposes. They justifiably point that some of our excessively high tariffs set up trade barriers that have in the past caused world economic disturbances and will in the future defeat any hope of world economic cooperation."

Sears Will Close Local Store Soon

Manager Says Merchandise Is Depleted by Wartime Restriction on Goods

Effective December 24, the Sears, Roebuck and Co., retail store, Kingston will suspend business activities in this city, it was announced today by Girard W. Gallup, local Sears manager.

Mr. Gallup said that due to the war emergency, restrictions placed on the manufacture of almost every type of merchandise in which the local store specialized has made it impossible to obtain enough goods to enable the store to assure satisfactory service to its customers. Almost without exception, he said, every line of merchandise stocked by Sears local unit has been affected by the various limitations placed on the manufacture and sale of the kind of merchandise handled by the store. The factories which formerly produced Sears Coldspot refrigerators, Kenmore washers and vacuum cleaners, Prosperity stoves Silvertone radios, Craftsman tools, are now fully engaged in the productions of essential war material necessary for the country's welfare. Other lines of merchandise such as plumbing and heating equipment, are restricted in their sale. Shortage of metal used in the production of other "hard line" merchandise not affected by these factors, have so reduced the quantities available as to make them almost unobtainable, Mr. Gallup declared.

"Therefore," he said, "faced with these unavoidable circumstances, and after considerable deliberation, the company has reluctantly decided to discontinue the operation of the local store." At a meeting held last week, the store's employes were notified of the impending store closing. They were told that when possible, the employes desiring to remain with the company will be given first choice of employment in other Sear's retail units. Arrangements are being made to turn all service work over to a local mechanical appliance service company and complete details will be announced shortly. Customers who have time payment accounts with the Sears store in Kingston are asked to forward all future payments to the Philadelphia office, since all outstanding accounts will be transferred to the main office continued Mr. Gallup.

"Circumstances beynod the control of the firm and of this city, forced us to deviate from our original intention," he said. "We feel that we can serve no purpose by maintaining the store with the reduced quantities of goods available.

"Nothing that I have said should be inferred as criticism or complaint of the various restrictions that have been placed on retailers. All of us realize the necessity of these limitations and their importance to the nation's welfare during this emergency. We can only accept them as the misfortune of war and carry on to the best of our ability.

"I am deeply appreciative of the many fine friends that I have made. When I leave this community it will be only with the highest regard and esteem for its people and with pleasant recollections of the time I have made my home here.

"At this time I want to express publicly my appreciation to the employes of the store whose cooperation and earnest efforts have been so important a factor in the store's operation. I also wish to thank the people of Kingston and surrounding vicinity for the loyal support that they have given the Sears store since the day it was first established."

Since his arrival here, Mr. Gallup has been active in the civic affairs of the community. He is a member of St. James Methodist Church, Kingston Kiwanis Club and Kingston Business Men's Association.

Meteorologist Is Heard at Inquest Of Boston Blaze

Boston, Dec. 7 (AP).—A Harvard professor, appearing before an inquest into the Cocoanut Grove night club fire, suggested today that officials "disregard" a report by a fire department lieutenant describing fire prevention conditions in the club as "good," because the humidity was high on the day he made his inspection.

Charles F. Brooks, professor of meteorology at Harvard, said he was appearing voluntarily after reading about the report of Lieut. Frank Linney of Fire Prevention Bureau.

"If the lieutenant had inspected on some other than a very damp day the results would have been different," Brooks said, adding that the day of the fire, November 28, was very dry.

Allies Point Toward Victory

American submarines began taking a heavy toll of ships along Japan's extended supply lines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur started developing Australia as the United Nations bastion in the Far Pacific and Army troops and Marines turned scores of Pacific islands into outposts to guard the MacArthur supply lines.

It was anticipated that Guadalcanal would become the first real battleground in the South Pacific and this proved to be true. For four months the Japs have fought desperately to get it back. American Marines and Army troops and their airforce and the Navy and its airforce have battled with unrelenting tenacity and success to keep it.

The reason for the heavy investments made by both sides in this remote and until recently almost unheard-of place is its strategic location. Using it as an air base and naval station, the Japanese might eventually be able to slash MacArthur's communication lines and isolate Australia. Our possession of it denies them that opportunity.

Another campaign which has cost the Japanese dearly is that waged by American submarines. From the early weeks of the war these raiders of the deep, venturing far into enemy waters, have taken a steady toll of Japanese ships—warcraft, troop transports and supply vessels on which the security of Japan's scores of island bases depends. Japan is not able to replace her shipping as rapidly as this country can.

Both the Germans and Japanese may still make moves of an offensive nature. The Nazis theoretically could invade Spain to acquire new Atlantic naval bases and try for the capture of Gibraltar in an effort to flank the Allied forces in North Africa. They could try to gain the same objective by striking through Turkey in the Middle East.

But Washington strategists consider these moves highly theoretical because the Germans have their hands full on the Russian front and in North Africa. Any drain of forces away from those fronts for adventures elsewhere might leave them fatally weak at vulnerable points.

The Japanese are in a similarly unhappy predicament. Unable to regain their position on Guadalcanal and under pressure in New Guinea by the men of MacArthur's command, they cannot strike anew at Hawaii or the Aleutians or essay a campaign against Russia, which was considered possible as late as last fall, without leaving their vital southern flank perilously unprotected.

Car Is Found, Gas Is Gone

William J. Dwyer of Highland avenue reported to the police department at 11:25 o'clock Saturday night that his Chrysler sedan, which was parked in front of 48 Clinton avenue, had been stolen. At 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Officers Camp and Brophy found the car abandoned on Linderman avenue extension in the rear of the Burgevin greenhouses. Evidently the auto had been taken for a joy ride by the thief, for when it was discovered, there remained but two of the eight gallons of gas that had been in the tank. The automobile was not damaged.

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Selective bidding continued to prop scattered favorites in today's stock market but the rails and many industrial leaders slipped to moderately lower levels.

As in the past week there was less than talk of an allied victory in the near future and recently buoyant shares with a peace-time rating did virtually nothing or turned in a losing score. Belief the war group had been oversold again inspired mild demand for these issues. Rails had to contend with the Byrnes-Henderson plea for cancellation of freight rate and passenger fare boosts granted earlier in the year.

Spotty trends prevailed at the start and, with dealings sluggish, declines of fractions to a point or so were a trifle in the majority near the fourth hour. There was a trickle of tax selling.

Among backward stocks were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Youngstown Sheet and Pheips Dodge. Gains of a point or so were recorded for American Telephone and Norfolk & Western. Lesser improvement was shown for Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Morris & Essex and Douglas Aircraft. About the Folks

Pvt. Homer E. Carter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Carter of 74 Stephan street, who was inducted into the U. S. Army on November 24, is now stationed at Fort Moultrie, S. C.

boastful talk of occupying New York, Washington and London.

A Tokyo broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission based the pointless claim that the United States fired first at Pearl Harbor on a Japanese version of the Roberts report describing the destruction of a Japanese submarine spotted there just before the aerial attack.

Must Annihilate America

In another broadcast to the Japanese people, Foreign minister Masayuki Tani declared that "without the annihilation of America there will be no greater East Asia sphere." Another broadcast by Admiral Sankichi Takahashi said "such thoughts as the entering of Melbourne or Sydney, entering into Seattle or San Francisco, into New York or Washington, even entering the port of London, have been expressed." He acknowledged that Japan would have to do considerably more than she has, to accomplish any such purpose.

Details of land fighting in Tunisia were meager, but it appeared that allied troops were holding high ground positions dominating the Mateur - Tebourba - Djedeira area where their drive was checked. Heavy fighting continued.

All accounts from the battle-front told of terrific German dive-bombing attacks, making it evident that the Allies had not yet been able to move up from the west sufficient fighter strength to the immediate battle zone to win control of the air.

Allied bombers and long-range fighters were hitting hard from Malta and advanced Libyan bases to help offset this. A Cairo communique reported raids ranging from Reggio airport in southern Italy and Gela Airdrome in Sicily to airfields and supply systems at Bizerte, Tunis, Sousse and Sfax.

The weekend aerial blows delivered over western Europe demonstrated the power of the United States and Britain to keep punching on two fronts.

The Friesland and Hilversum radio stations in Holland went off the air for 40 minutes today, indicating that the raids might still be on, around the clock.

Nine British planes were lost in last night's raids which were handicapped by unfavorable weather.

In the Sunday daylight attacks 400 fighters provided cover for 200 British and United States bombers. Squadrons of flying fortresses battered the locomotive and carriage works at Lille while big liberators bombed the German air base at Abbeville. British bombers concentrated their attack on the radio tube factory at Eindhoven, in the Netherlands.

Seventeen allied planes were lost—12 of them RAF bombers. Only two bombers and one fighter were lost in the American raids on Abbeville and Lille. The other two were RAF fighters which failed to return from sweeps over the low countries.

The Russian offensive rolled ahead on the central front and west of Stalingrad, though its pace was slowed.

The Russians said they battered down counterattacks which the Nazis launched one after another in grim defense of their snow blanketed defense lines in the Rzhev-Veleki Luki region of the central front.

Despite the intensity of the German effort, the Russians reported advancing "in the depth of the enemy's defenses."

Northwest of Stalingrad the Red army tightened its hold along both banks of the Don, while south of the Nazi corridor of escape from the Volga stronghold the Germans were dislodged from more of their fortified positions.

Along the northeast cost of New Guinea allied troops held their tightened positions around the segments of the Japanese forces which once threatened Port Moresby and now stand with their backs to the sea on beaches stained with their blood.

One strong Japanese patrol attempted to fight its way out of the death trap. It penetranted American lines at Cape Endaiadere, southeast of Buna, but was beaten back with heavy casualties.

The Allies now have reached the beach at four points, on each side of Buna and each side of Gona.

Captain McGowan Is Found Dead In Barge Cabin

Captain Michael McGowan, formerly of Port Ewen, was found dead in the cabin of his barge at Bridgeport, Conn., this morning. Death was said to be due to a heart attack.

Word of his death was received by Undertaker James M. Murphy of Broadway, who left this afternoon for Bridgeport to bring the body to Kingston when funeral arrangements will be made.

Captain McGowan was in the employ of the McDonald Transportation Corp. of New York city.

Krajewski Is Arrested For Disorderly Conduct

Frank Krajewski of 493 Delaware avenue, was arrested Saturday night by George Foster, who charged Krajewski with disorderly conduct. According to the sworn information Krajewski is accused of opening the car door of the Foster automobile while it was parked on John street, and spitting at Foster. This morning the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday.

Thomas Slade of Accord, charged with public intoxication on the Boulevard, Sunday morning at 1 o'clock, was sentenced to two days in the county jail.

Samuel Estroff of 29 Green street, charged with double-parking on Wall street on Saturday night, forfeited $5 bail when he failed to appear in police court before Judge Matthew V. Cahill today to answer to the charge.

Many Attend Elks' Memorial Service

Mr. Gollnick Is Speaker, Mendelssohn Club Sings

The annual Elks memorial service, conducted at the Elks Home on Fair street Sunday evening was one of the largest attended memorial services in years. Holding the service on the anniversary eve of Pearl Harbor, in memory of eight members of the Lodge who had died since the last service, the ritual was in charge of Exalted Ruler Louis G. Bruhn with officers of the lodge participating.

The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church of this city, in the eulogy said that thinking in terms of "I" had created the monsters of Germany and Japan today. When a man comes to think only of himself, then he becomes an anti-social creature. "In paying tribute to these dead, we must also think of those who are serving our country today," said Mr. Gollnick. "We must give of ourselves and our being," he continued, "for only in this way can this country remain free from the darkness that shrouds Germany and Japan. Only in this way can the tribute of the departed be made a lasting tribute." Mr. Gollnick told of a missionary to Japan who returned to this country shortly after Pearl Harbor and who said that the Japanese people are living only for themselves. They are no longer human beings, but automatons, destroying all that is good and beautiful.

In an old New England cemetery near his home, Mr. Gollnick said, were words upon a tombstone which are the key to the way of life and living that all men should follow. This inscription reads:

"He served himself.

He served his country.

But, above all, he served his God."

During the program three selections were sung by members of the Mendelssohn Club. The invocation was by the Rev. J. W. Hughes of Sawkill and the benediction by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel.

State Continues Nuzzo Prosecution

Six Witnesses Are Brought to Show Auto Purchase

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The state sought through six witnesses today to show that Samuel Nuzzo, 46, on trial on charges of grand larceny and forgery, bought a new automobile and tires and paid a relative's personal note with union money.

Nuzzo, one-time business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union, is on trial before Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath of Ithaca on two indictments containing 35 counts alleging thefts totaling $9,844.

Another indictment, not being tried now, contains 54 counts bringing the total to $35,000.

Fred Yesse, Newburgh auto dealer, testified his firm sold Nuzzo a new car April 19, 1940.

Floyd Johnson, former bookkeeper for Yesse, said the sale price of this car was $1,218. He testified Nuzzo turned in another machine, receiving an allowance of $750, and that the sale was financed by the C. I. T. Corporation.

Kenneth S. Crego, Hyde Park, district manager for the finance company, stated the contract with the C. I. T. was for $495.96, and the account was liquidated June 3, 1940, with payment by a check signed by Nuzzo and drawn on the union's general account.

Crego also testified that the C. I. T. gave a rebate of $13.63 in a check payable to Nuzzo, which was cashed and endorsed by him. The state charges Nuzzo never returned this amount to the union account.

Harold Harvey, Newburgh tire dealer, related that April 23, 1940, Nuzzo bought five tires and paid $100 with a union check. He identified this check which, like the others, was offered in evidence.

Harry La Mothe, manager of a Newburgh personal loan company, testified Nuzzo paid off a $220 note he endorsed for James Hall, Newburgh, his brother-in-law. He said Nuzzo, as co-maker, made payments totaling $184.76 on the overdue note after July 31, 1940, with checks drawn to cash on the union's general fund and signed by Nuzzo.

The trial, which began last week, continues this afternoon.

Local 17 claims some 1,200 members, most of them employed on a $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Mrs. Aikins Dies In Her Apartment

Police Answer Neighbors' Call and Find Body

Mrs. Josephine Aikins, 79, widow of Egbert Aikins, was found dead on a couch in her apartment at 130 Wall street, early Saturday night by Officers Howard Kinch and John Harnen. Death was due to a heart attack, according to the police.

The police department received a telephone call from occupants of the house that night that they believed something had happened to the aged woman, who lived alone. The two officers in one of the police radio cars were sent to the house and obtained entrance to the apartment where they found Mrs. Aikins, fully dressed, lying on a couch.

Dr. Leon Grey was called by the police department and pronounced the woman dead. Coroner Frank J. McCardle, who had been called, removed the body to his undertaking parlors in Rosendale until relatives of the dead woman could be reached.

On a table in the apartment a card was found, which requested that in case of an emergency, L. C. Heidt of Middletown be notified. Mr. Heidt was informed of Mrs. Aikin's death.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Mrs. Della Terpening Cornish, widow of George Cornish who died Thursday evening after a lingering illness, were held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. The Rev. Strivings, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, officiated. Burial was in the St. Remy cemetery.

Karl Joseph Ilert, a resident of Binnewater for several years died at the Benedictine Hospital at an early hour Sunday morning after an illness of about two weeks. He is survived by a brother Fred of this city. Funeral and burial will be private from the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday afternoon from 3-5 and from 7-9 that evening.

Fire Department Has Busy Time Over Week-End

Two fires kept the fire department busy this morning. The first was a still alarm at 9:45 o'clock for a fire in a bedroom in the house of Mrs. Rose Secreto at 384 First avenue, near the city line. The booster pump was used and the fire was confined to the bedroom. A heavy smoke from the burning bed clothing filled the upper floor of the house.

The second fire was in the two-family house at 49 Gill street, owned by Joseph Suskind. The fire was in a clothes closet in the apartment occupied by Leo Landerway and was confined to the closet by the prompt arrival of the fire department who responded to a call from Box 2241.

A fuel oil heater out of order in the home of Chris J. Flanagan at 232 Manor avenue, caused the fire department to respond to a still alarm at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning, and at 5:55 o'clock that afternoon the department was called out for a grass fire on the Boulevard, near the city line.

Officers Are Chosen

At the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the Fair Street Reformed church election of officers was held. Ralph Post was elected president and Al King, vice-president. Howard Minard was re-elected secretary and Joseph Turner was again named treasurer. The new officials will be installed at the next meeting of the club on January 6, by William H. Cornell.

G.O.P. Group Meets

St. Louis, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Republican national committee met to pick a new chairman today in an atmosphere of sharp disagreement between groups supporting Werner W. Schroeder, Chicago lawyer, and the "stop Schroeder" forces representing Wendell L. Willkie, the party's 1940 presidential candidate.

DIED

ILLERT—In this city, December 6, 1942. Karl Joseph Illert of Binnewater, N. Y.

Funeral service and interment, which will be private will be held from the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue, Kingston. Friends may call at the Funeral Home, Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Kindly omit flowers.

(For Your Scrapbook)

By DANIEL J. O'CONNOR

SACRIFICE

Our nation is deep in the sorrows of war
And little we know of the troubles in store . . .
The life that we knew in our happier years
Has lasted the wait of an ocean of tears.
Our boys are engaged in a struggle today
To fashion a world where our children can play
And we who remain . . . must endeavor to smile
For those who are marching in spirited style.

We've learned to deny ourselves comforts we knew
Yet often we murmur whatever we do
Nothing, perhaps, that our personal gain
Has little in common, with others in pain.
The journey to peace may be weary and long
With even the need of a heartening song
For when we decide that we're eager to give
It means that America's freedom will live.

It's time to forget every sacrifice small
And toll for the boys who may struggle and fall
That we, as a nation, in newly-found birth
May banish the darkness . . . that threatens the earth

McNutt Says Hershey Is To Continue as Draft Head

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP).—War Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt said today that Major General Lewis B. Hershey would continue as director of the selective service system, for the present at least.

This was the first official word and Hershey's position since he and his agency were placed under McNutt by presidential order giving McNutt control over allocation of military and civilian manpower.

Asked if Hershey would continue as draft director, McNutt replied:

"Yes, for the time being, anyway."

McNutt's aides explained that Hershey, like Brigadier General Frank J. McSherry, director of the manpower commission's division of operations, was a regular officer "on loan" from the army for his present work and could be called for the army at any time.

McNutt scheduled an afternoon press conference to discuss his plans for action under the new manpower directive, which was accompanied by announcements of the army and navy that voluntary enlistment of men between 17 and 37 years, inclusive, had been stopped. This applied also to the marines and merchant marine.

The Navy will continue to enlist 17-year-olds, as it has been doing, but the Army has not taken men that young. Both branches will enlist specialists who have passed their 38th birthday, when needed.

Apparently the order did not ban men from volunteering for officers' commissions, but the Army recently announced it would not commission civilians except where there was need for them in some special work.

The War Department announcement said that induction "of men who are 38 years of age and over" was suspended, and explained that experience indicates "that men 38 years of age and over are in general physically less able to withstand the rigors of present-day combat activities."

McNutt, in his first comment on the new manpower setup, said that "all branches of the government, military and civilian, would work together to put" the right war workers in the right war jobs, "determining whether their most useful places were in the armed forces, industry or agriculture."

He said that local draft boards and the United States Employment Service, earlier integrated in the manpower commission, would work together under W. M. C. direction to make the proper placements of manpower, and would cooperate with local employers and labor leaders in doing their jobs.

Although he was silent on his plans pending a press conference this afternoon, McNutt has indicated at other times some of the procedure he will follow in exercising his new authority.

One factor that the 51-year-old manpower director has stressed recently was that he would continue to consult with representatives of both management and labor before making important decisions affecting their welfare.

Another is that local draft boards and appellate draft boards will be given stronger guides by technical experts of the employment service for determining whether individuals in industry or agriculture should be deferred because of their occupation.

He has suggested that this closer tie between the employment service and selective service would insure better compliance with manpower commission directives providing draft boards with instructions on which workers should be deferred on occupational grounds.

He has, however, upheld otherwise the right of local draft boards to pass upon each deferment case without interference.

Another indicated step was a move to strengthen the employment service, which has had considerable difficulty in retaining its own employes, by bringing its state offices under more direct federal control and by adjusting salaries of employes to the federal pay scale.

The pay adjustment, however, would require congressional approval and undoubtedly renew the battle over the employment service between the federal government and the states, which have contended that their units should be returned to state control after the war.

nalistic hand of government through the methods by which they have always functioned so successfully, within themselves reach conclusions as to purpose that are sounder than the wisest pronouncements of temporary leaders."

The question of Britain's rule over millions of people through its colonial system (he said he was not speaking of the commonwealth of free nations), the awakened interest of Americans in the Far East, and the growing recognition of the renaissance going on in China and India "are all subjects of much private and public discussion in America," Willkie declared.

"And sympathy," he added, "is apt to be by instinct and tradition with those who are claiming the right to capital's life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

"And by the same token I have no doubt that there are many people in Britain who do not understand and who are critical of many of America's purposes. They justifiably point that some of our excessively high tariffs set up trade barriers that have in the past caused world economic disturbances and will in the future defeat any hope of world economic cooperation."

Sears Will Close Local Store Soon

Manager Says Merchandise Is Depleted by Wartime Restriction on Goods

Effective December 24, the Sears, Roebuck and Co., retail store, Kingston will suspend business activities in this city, it was announced today by Girard W. Gallup, local Sears manager.

Mr. Gallup said that due to the war emergency, restrictions placed on the manufacture of almost every type of merchandise in which the local store specialized has made it impossible to obtain enough goods to enable the store to assure satisfactory service to its customers. Almost without exception, he said, every line of merchandise stocked by Sears local unit has been affected by the various limitations placed on the manufacture and sale of the kind of merchandise handled by the store. The factories which formerly produced Sears Coldspot refrigerators, Kenmore washers and vacuum cleaners, Prosperity stoves Silvertone radios, Craftsman tools, are now fully engaged in the productions of essential war material necessary for the country's welfare. Other lines of merchandise such as plumbing and heating equipment, are restricted in their sale. Shortage of metal used in the production of other "hard line" merchandise not affected by these factors, have so reduced the quantities available as to make them almost unobtainable, Mr. Gallup declared.

"Therefore," he said, "faced with these unavoidable circumstances, and after considerable deliberation, the company has reluctantly decided to discontinue the operation of the local store." At a meeting held last week, the store's employes were notified of the impending store closing. They were told that when possible, the employes desiring to remain with the company will be given first choice of employment in other Sear's retail units. Arrangements are being made to turn all service work over to a local mechanical appliance service company and complete details will be announced shortly. Customers who have time payment accounts with the Sears store in Kingston are asked to forward all future payments to the Philadelphia office, since all outstanding accounts will be transferred to the main office continued Mr. Gallup.

"Circumstances beynod the control of the firm and of this city, forced us to deviate from our original intention," he said. "We feel that we can serve no purpose by maintaining the store with the reduced quantities of goods available.

"Nothing that I have said should be inferred as criticism or complaint of the various restrictions that have been placed on retailers. All of us realize the necessity of these limitations and their importance to the nation's welfare during this emergency. We can only accept them as the misfortune of war and carry on to the best of our ability.

"I am deeply appreciative of the many fine friends that I have made. When I leave this community it will be only with the highest regard and esteem for its people and with pleasant recollections of the time I have made my home here.

"At this time I want to express publicly my appreciation to the employes of the store whose cooperation and earnest efforts have been so important a factor in the store's operation. I also wish to thank the people of Kingston and surrounding vicinity for the loyal support that they have given the Sears store since the day it was first established."

Since his arrival here, Mr. Gallup has been active in the civic affairs of the community. He is a member of St. James Methodist Church, Kingston Kiwanis Club and Kingston Business Men's Association.

Meteorologist Is Heard at Inquest Of Boston Blaze

Boston, Dec. 7 (AP)—A Harvard professor, appearing before an inquest into the Cocoanut Grove night club fire, suggested today that officials "disregard" a report by a fire department lieutenant describing fire prevention conditions in the club as "good," because the humidity was high on the day he made his inspection.

Charles F. Brooks, professor of meteorology at Harvard, said he was appearing voluntarily after reading about the report of Lieut. Frank Linney of Fire Prevention Bureau.

"If the lieutenant had inspected on some other than a very damp day the results would have been different," Brooks said, adding that the day of the fire, November 28, was very dry.

Allies Point Toward Victory

American submarines began taking a heavy toll of ships along Japan's extended supply lines, Gen. Douglas MacArthur started developing Australia as the United Nations bastion in the Far Pacific and Army troops and Marines turned scores of Pacific islands into outposts to guard the MacArthur supply lines.

It was anticipated that Guadalcanal would become the first real battleground in the South Pacific and this proved to be true. For four months the Japs have fought desperately to get it back. American Marines and Army troops and their airforce and the Navy and its airforce have battled with unrelenting tenacity and success to keep it.

The reason for the heavy investments made by both sides in this remote and until recently almost unheard-of place is its strategic location. Using it as an air base and naval station, the Japanese might eventually be able to slash MacArthur's communication lines and isolate Australia. Our possession of it denies them that opportunity.

Another campaign which has cost the Japanese dearly is that waged by American submarines. From the early weeks of the war these raiders of the deep, venturing far into enemy waters, have taken a steady toll of Japanese ships—warcraft, troop transports and supply vessels on which the security of Japan's scores of island bases depends. Japan is not able to replace her shipping as rapidly as this country can.

Both the Germans and Japanese may still make moves of an offensive nature. The Nazis theoretically could invade Spain to acquire new Atlantic naval bases and try for the capture of Gibraltar in an effort to flank the Allied forces in North Africa. They could try to gain the same objective by striking through Turkey in the Middle East.

But Washington strategists consider these moves highly theoretical because the Germans have their hands full on the Russian front and in North Africa. Any drain of forces away from those fronts for adventures elsewhere might leave them fatally weak at vulnerable points.

The Japanese are in a similarly unhappy predicament. Unable to regain their position on Guadalcanal and under pressure in New Guinea by the men of MacArthur's command, they cannot strike anew at Hawaii or the Aleutians or essay a campaign against Russia, which was considered possible as late as last fall, without leaving their vital southern flank perilously unprotected.

Car Is Found, Gas Is Gone

William J. Dwyer of Highland avenue reported to the police department at 11:25 o'clock Saturday night that his Chrysler sedan, which was parked in front of 48 Clinton avenue, had been stolen. At 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning, Officers Camp and Brophy found the car abandoned on Linderman avenue extension in the rear of the Burgevin greenhouses. Evidently the auto had been taken for a joy ride by the thief, for when it was discovered, there remained but two of the eight gallons of gas that had been in the tank. The automobile was not damaged.

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Selective bidding continued to prop scattered favorites in today's stock market but the rails and many industrial leaders slipped to moderately lower levels.

As in the past week there was less than talk of an allied victory in the near future and recently buoyant shares with a peace-time rating did virtually nothing or turned in a losing score. Belief the war group had been oversold again inspired mild demand for these issues. Rails had to contend with the Byrnes-Henderson plea for cancellation of freight rate and passenger fare boosts granted earlier in the year.

Spotty trends prevailed at the start and, with dealings sluggish, declines of fractions to a point or so were a trifle in the majority near the fourth hour. There was a trickle of tax selling.

Among backward stocks were Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Youngstown Sheet and Phelps Dodge. Gains of a point or so were recorded for American Telephone and Norfolk & Western. Lesser improvement was shown for Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Morris & Essex and Douglas Aircraft. Union Carbide was one of the few issues to edge into new high ground for the year.

About the Folks

Pvt. Homer E. Carter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer E. Carter of 74 Stephan street, who was inducted into the U. S. Army on November 24, is now stationed at Fort Moultrie, S. C.

Joseph McNierney of Harwick street and Richard Swark of Poughkeepsie, were the guests of Louis Lieppman, New York branch manager of the Dunlop Tire Corp., at the Dodger-Giant football game at the Polo Grounds in New York on Sunday.

Violent Battle Flares in Desert

boastful talk of occupying New York, Washington and London.

A Tokyo broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission based the pointless claim that the United States fired first at Pearl Harbor on a Japanese version of the Roberts report describing the destruction of a Japanese submarine spotted there just before the aerial attack.

Must Annihilate America

In another broadcast to the Japanese people, Foreign minister Masayuki Tani declared that "without the annihilation of America there will be no greater East Asia sphere." Another broadcast by Admiral Sankichi Takahashi said "such thoughts as the entering of Melbourne or Sydney, entering into Seattle or San Francisco, into New York or Washington, even entering the port of London, have been expressed." He acknowledged that Japan would have to do considerably more than she has, to accomplish any such purpose.

Details of land fighting in Tunisia were meager, but it appeared that allied troops were holding high ground positions dominating the Mateur - Tebourba - Djedeira area where their drive was checked. Heavy fighting continued.

All accounts from the battlefront told of terrific German divebombing attacks, making it evident that the Allies had not yet been able to move up from the west sufficient fighter strength to the immediate battle zone to win control of the air.

Allied bombers and long-range fighters were hitting hard from Malta and advanced Libyan bases to help offset this. A Cairo communique reported raids ranging from Reggio airport in southern Italy and Gela Airdrome in Sicily to airfields and supply systems at Bizerte, Tunis, Sousse and Sfax.

The weekend aerial blows delivered over western Europe demonstrated the power of the United States and Britain to keep punching on two fronts.

The Friesland and Hilversum radio stations in Holland went off the air for 40 minutes today, indicating that the raids might still be on, around the clock.

Nine British planes were lost in last night's raids which were handicapped by unfovarable weather.

In the Sunday daylight attacks 400 fighters provided cover for 200 British and United States bombers. Squadrons of flying fortresses battered the locomotive and carriage works at Lille while big liberators bombed the German air base at Abbeville. British bombers concentrated their attack on the radio tube factory at Eindhoven, in the Netherlands.

Seventeen allied planes were lost—12 of them RAF bombers. Only two bombers and one fighter were lost in the American raids on Abbeville and Lille. The other two were RAF fighters which failed to return from sweeps over the low countries.

The Russian offensive rolled ahead on the central front and west of Stalingrad, though its pace was slowed.

The Russians said they battered down counterattacks which the Nazis launched one after another in grim defense of their snow blanketed defense lines in the Rzhev-Veleki Luki region of the central front.

Despite the intensity of the German effort, the Russians reported advancing "in the depth of the enemy's defenses."

Northwest of Stalingrad the Red army tightened its hold along both banks of the Don, while south of the Nazi corridor of escape from the Volga stronghold the Germans were dislodged from more of their fortified positions.

Along the northeast cost of New Guinea allied troops held their tightened positions around the segments of the Japanese forces which once threatened Port Moresby and now stand with their backs to the sea on beaches stained with their blood.

One strong Japanese patrol attempted to fight its way out of the death trap. It penetranted American lines at Cape Endaiadere, southeast of Buna, but was beaten back with heavy casualties.

The Allies now have reached the beach at four points, on each side of Buna and each side of Gona.

Captain McGowan Is Found Dead In Barge Cabin

Captain Michael McGowan, formerly of Port Ewen, was found dead in the cabin of his barge at Bridgeport, Conn., this morning. Death was said to be due to a heart attack.

Word of his death was received by Undertaker James M. Murphy of Broadway, who left this afternoon for Bridgeport to bring the body to Kingston when funeral arrangements will be made.

Captain McGowan was in the employ of the McDonald Transportation Corp. of New York city.

Krajewski Is Arrested For Disorderly Conduct

Frank Krajewski of 499 Delaware avenue, was arrested Saturday night by George Foster, who charged Krajewski with disorderly conduct. According to the sworn information Krajewski is accused of opening the car door of the Foster automobile while it was parked on John street, and spitting at Foster. This morning the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday.

Thomas Slade of Accord, charged with public intoxication on the Boulevard, Sunday morning at 1 o'clock, was sentenced to two days in the county jail.

Samuel Estroff of 29 Green street, charged with double-parking on Wall street on Saturday night, forfeited $5 bail when he failed to appear in police court before Judge Matthew V. Cahill today to answer to the charge.

Many Attend Elks' Memorial Service

Mr. Gollnick Is Speaker, Mendelssohn Club Sings

The annual Elks memorial service, conducted at the Elks Home on Fair street Sunday evening was one of the largest attended memorial services in years. Holding the service on the anniversary eve of Pearl Harbor, in memory of eight members of the Lodge who had died since the last service, the ritual was in charge of Exalted Ruler Louis G. Bruhn with officers of the lodge participating.

The Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church of this city, in the eulogy said that thinking in terms of "I" had created the monsters of Germany and Japan today. When a man comes to think only of himself, then he becomes an anti-social creature. "In paying tribute to these dead, we must also think of those who are serving our country today," said Mr. Gollnick. "We must give of ourselves and our being," he continued, "for only in this way can this country remain free from the darkness that shrouds Germany and Japan. Only in this way can the tribute of the departed be made a lasting tribute." Mr. Gollnick told of a missionary to Japan who returned to this country shortly after Pearl Harbor and who said that the Japanese people are living only for themselves. They are no longer human beings, but automatons, destroying all that is good and beautiful.

In an old New England cemetery near his home, Mr. Gollnick said, were words upon a tombstone which are the key to the way of life and living that all men should follow. This inscription reads:

"He served himself.
He served his country.
But, above all, he served his God."

During the program three selections were sung by members of the Mendelssohn Club. The invocation was by the Rev. J. W. Hughes of Sawkill and the benediction by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel.

State Continues Nuzzo Prosecution

Six Witnesses Are Brought to Show Auto Purchase

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 7 (AP)—The state sought through six witnesses today to show that Samuel Nuzzo, 46, on trial on charges of grand larceny and forgery, bought a new automobile and tires and paid a relative's personal note with union money.

Nuzzo, one-time business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union, is on trial before Supreme Court Justice Riley H. Heath of Ithaca on two indictments containing 35 counts alleging thefts totaling $9,844.

Another indictment, not being tried now, contains 54 counts bringing the total to $35,000.

Fred Yesse, Newburgh auto dealer, testified his firm sold Nuzzo a new car April 19, 1940.

Floyd Johnson, former bookkeeper for Yesse, said the sale price of this car was $1,218. He testified Nuzzo turned in another machine, receiving an allowance of $750, and that the sale was financed by the C. I. T. Corporation.

Kenneth S. Crego, Hyde Park, district manager for the finance company, stated the contract with the C. I. T. was for $495.96, and the account was liquidated June 3, 1940, with payment by a check signed by Nuzzo and drawn on the union's general account.

Crego also testified that the C. I. T. gave a rebate of $13.63 in a check payable to Nuzzo, which was cashed and endorsed by him. The state charges Nuzzo never returned this amount to the union account.

Harold Harvey, Newburgh tire dealer, related that April 23, 1940, Nuzzo bought five tires and paid $100 with a union check. He identified this check which, like the others, was offered in evidence.

Harry La Mothe, manager of a Newburgh personal loan company, testified Nuzzo paid off a $220 note he endorsed for James Hall, Newburgh, his brother-in-law. He said Nuzzo, as co-maker, made payments totaling $184.76 on the overdue note after July 31, 1940, with checks drawn to cash on the union's general fund and signed by Nuzzo.

The trial, which began last week, continues this afternoon.

Local 17 claims some 1,200 members, most of them employed on a $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Mrs. Aikins Dies In Her Apartment

Police Answer Neighbors' Call and Find Body

Mrs. Josephine Aikins, 79, widow of Egbert Aikins, was found dead on a couch in her apartment at 130 Wall street, early Saturday night by Officers Howard Kinch and John Harnen. Death was due to a heart attack, according to the police.

The police department received a telephone call from occupants of the house that night that they believed something had happened to the aged woman, who lived alone. The two officers in one of the police radio cars were sent to the house and obtained entrance to the apartment where they found Mrs. Aikins, fully dressed, lying on a couch.

Dr. Leon Grey was called by the police department and pronounced the woman dead. Coroner Frank J. McCardle, who had been called, removed the body to his undertaking parlors in Rosendale until relatives of the dead woman could be reached.

On a table in the apartment a card was found, which requested that in case of an emergency, L. C. Heidt of Middletown be notified. Mr. Heidt was informed of Mrs. Aikin's death.

Local Death Record

Funeral services for Mrs. Della Terpening Cornish, widow of George Cornish who died Thursday evening after a lingering illness, were held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. The Rev. Strivings, pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, officiated. Burial was in the St. Remy cemetery.

Karl Joseph Illert, a resident of Binnewater for several years died at the Benedictine Hospital at an early hour Sunday morning after an illness of about two weeks. He is survived by a brother Fred of this city. Funeral and burial will be private from the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue. Friends may call at the funeral home Monday afternoon from 3-5 and from 7-9 that evening.

Fire Department Has Busy Time Over Week-End

Two fires kept the fire department busy this morning. The first was a still alarm at 9:45 o'clock for a fire in a bedroom in the house of Mrs. Rose Secreto at 384 First avenue, near the city line. The booster pump was used and the fire was confined to the bedroom. A heavy smoke from the burning bed clothing filled the upper floor of the house.

The second fire was in the two family house at 49 Gill street, owned by Joseph Suskind. The fire was in a clothes closet in the apartment occupied by Leo Landerway and was confined to the closet by the prompt arrival of the fire department who responded to a call from Box 2241.

A fuel oil heater out of order in the home of Chris J. Flanagan at 232 Manor avenue, caused the fire department to respond to a still alarm at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning, and at 5:55 o'clock that afternoon the department was called out for a grass fire on the Boulevard, near the city line.

Officers Are Chosen

At the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the Fair Street Reformed church election of officers was held. Ralph Post was elected president and Al King, vice-president. Howard Minard was re-elected secretary and Joseph Turner was again named treasurer. The new officials will be installed at the next meeting of the club on January 6, by William H. Cornell.

G.O.P. Group Meets

St. Louis, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Republican national committee met to pick a new chairman today in an atmosphere of sharp disagreement between groups supporting Werner W. Schroeder, Chicago lawyer, and the "stop Schroeder" forces representing Wendell L. Willkie, the party's 1940 presidential candidate.

DIED

ILLERT—In this city, December 6, 1942. Karl Joseph Illert of Binnewater, N. Y.

Funeral service and interment, which will be private will be held from the Kukuk Memorial Funeral Home, 167 Tremper avenue, Kingston. Friends may call at the Funeral Home, Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 o'clock in the evening. Kindly omit flowers.

Evening Verse—

(For Your Scrapbook)

SACRIFICE

Our nation is deep in the sorrows of war
And little we know of the troubles in store . . .
The life that we knew in our happier years
Has tasted the salt of an ocean of tears.
Our boys are engaged in a struggle today
To fashion a world where our children can play
And we who remain . . . must endeavor to smile
For those who are marching in spirited style.

We've learned to deny ourselves comforts we knew
Yet often we murmur whenever we do
Believing, perhaps, that our personal gain
Has little in common, with others in pain.
The journey to peace may be weary and long
With ever the need of a heartening song
For when we decide that we're eager to give
It means that America's freedom will live.

It's time to forget every sacrifice small
And toil for the boys who may struggle and fall
That we, as a nation, in newly-found birth
May banish the darkness . . . that threatens the earth

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Close to Home

Atlantic City, N. J.—Inspectors of the Fire Prevention Bureau, making an inspection tour found that the doors of city hall open toward the inside, constituting a fire hazard.

Change the doors, "or city hall will be closed," they ordered.

Tough Guy

Kansas City—An unidentified street car patron, irked because the motorman didn't stop, scooped up a snowball and sent it crashing through a window.

The car stopped all right—to let an ambulance take Mrs. Nora Fury to a hospital. Seated near the window, she was cut about the face by flying glass.

The thrower fled.

Honest Confession

Pasadena, Calif.—The police department has a 40-gallon backlog of that stuff that makes the wheels go around.

Patrolman Gerald S. Wilson found eight five-gallon containers of gasoline lined up neatly at the curbing on a residential street after safety officials had pointed out the danger of home storage.

Knotty Problem

Los Angeles—County Clerk J. F. Moroney is operating on a shoe string, thanks to the war.

Metal clasps for legal documents are out, so he purchased 20,000 laces to tie them up, family album style.

Lieutenant — Captain—Sergeant?

Chicago—If James B. Folsom has difficulty remembering his various titles, there's a reason.

Folsom was a sergeant in the Chicago motorcycle police until he was given a leave of absence to become a captain in the state highway police. Now he has received orders to report to the army as a lieutenant of the military police.

At home, his wife and three daughters just call him "Dad."

Better Separate 'Em

Newman Grove, Neb.—Lieut. Conrad Erickson was graduated twice from an army officer candidate school on the same day. Lieut. Conrad Erickson, Newman Grove, and Lieut. Conrad Erickson, of Ericson, Neb., both were commissioned at the same ceremonies. The same age, the men are cousins.

4-H Boys and Girls Grow Meat Animals

Ithaca, N. Y.—Production of meat by 4-H club members of New York State has increased greatly in the past ten years. Members who have raised meat animals increased in number from 975 to 2,110 in that time, says Prof. H. A. Willman of the New York State College of Agriculture.

This year, 4-H club members produced 100,000 pounds more pork than in an ordinary year, and plan still greater production for 1943. Sheep, hogs, and baby beef animals have furnished the main output. The 4-H club livestock growers have also raised many dairy cattle and horses.

Records for 18 of the outstanding 4-H club meat producers show that in the past six years they have handled 365 head of livestock, and have sold or used at home animal products valued at $35,095.

In summarizing his 1942 production record, one club member said: "Club work has helped to make me conscious of responsibility to my country as well as to myself and to my home. I have learned that it is important to make the most of opportunities for more and better production by intelligent and practical methods."

In another report a 13-year old 4-H girl wrote: "More meat is needed for our armed forces and our allies. All patriotic citizens living where conditions will permit should raise meat at least for home use. More horses will be required, to do work formerly done by tractors and trucks."

Winning the Army-Navy E award for production also meant winning a $25 war bond for every employe of the American Zinc Company of Monsanto, Ill. Howard I. Young, the president, handed out the bonds. The number was not disclosed but about 400 workers attended the ceremonies.

Teachers' College News

A group of delegates from New Paltz State Teachers College left this week for the Middle Atlantic International Relations Club Conference, to be held at Princeton. The purpose of the conference shall be to discuss the various current problems in connection with international relations.

It is the fourth conference of this nature which has been attended by a delegation from New Paltz State Teachers College. Previously they have been held at Lehigh, Rutgers and Georgetown. The conferences are sponsored by the Carnegie endowment. The states that participate in them are those of the middle Atlantic seaboard, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The conference will be divided into several sections each devoted to some problem of the world today. Among these will be "Latin America," "Post War Problems," and "The Problem of India's Freedom." Delegates from many colleges, universities and state teachers colleges. However, this year quite a serious problem has been presented as to the means of transportation to and from Princeton.

The delegation from New Paltz will be headed by Harry Baine of the senior class and Dr. Verduin of the history department. Mr. Baine will give a paper at the conference. The subject of this will be "United States Relations with Chile and Argentina." It will be given in the Latin American section of the conference. This is quite a distinguished honor. However, Mr. Baine has done similar work at New Paltz State Teachers College, in the way of conducting forums. The most recent of these was on the subject of the independence of India. Last year Mr. Baine also led the radio work done by the New Paltz Forum group. Dr. Verduin recently attended a conference of teachers at Red Hook, where he spoke on post-war problems.

On December 10, at the monthly meeting of the International Relations Club, a report will be given as to the work of the conference. This meeting will be held at the Clio sorority house at the usual time.

Country Life Party

Country Life Club will do its part this coming week-end to make a "bang-up" one before Christmas vacations by holding its annual Christmas Party Friday evening, December 11.

As in the past, the only admission requested is in the form of a 10 cent toy. These toys will be distributed to the local families to help keep children believing in Santa Claus. Any sort of dime store gift which can be used by children will be accepted.

To provide entertainment for its guests, a varied program will be presented. "Why the Chimes Rang," a short dramatic sketch will be acted out by some members. There will be community singing, old carols, Christmas hymns, and holiday ditties. And of course, there will be real old-fashioned country dancing and games.

Aside from the Christmas party the Country Life Club, which is quite active during the Yuletide season, undertakes its annual Christmas Cheer Program. Plans are advancing rapidly under the direction of Gordon Anderson.

The entertainment for the gala party Friday night is under the direction of Rose Tocco, Leonard Misner and Claire Twomey are working with her. Robert Mullroy and Emily Nardone are helping Geraldine Loccy, who is in charge of music and country dancing. Games will be under the supervision of Mildred Williams, chairman; Anne Cuddy and Eileen Usifer.

Ruth Van Steenburg is arranging refreshments with the help of Helen Beresnewicz and Gloria Sorrentino. The final strings of the party, clean-up in particular, are in the hands of Mary Lou Michael, chairman, Oranzo Franchini and Jean Malay.

It promises to be a grand party and reporting the words of students last year—" it was marvelous and something no one should miss."

Pre-School Child

In Assembly Tuesday, December 1, the students at N. P. C. heard Miss Cornelia Goldsmith of Vassar College speak about pre-school children. Miss Goldsmith is the head teacher in charge of the four year old group at Vassar and is the faculty member in charge of the advanced laboratory work.

In her speech, Miss Goldsmith brought out the need for more exact knowledge of the pre-school child. As she stated, more time should be given these children. A child's education begins before he starts kindergarten.

Following her talk, the speaker showed a movie called "A Child Went Forth" which was taken at a summer camp for pre-school children in upper New York. This movie was taken by the father of one of the children in the camp. It has been translated into Spanish and is being circulated throughout South America as well as in this country.

This concluded the program. Miss Goldsmith spoke to a group of parents in New Paltz.

Modern Dancing

Once again the winter activities begin at New Paltz, and heading the list is Modern Dancing. This year Miss Frances Kinney of the Humphrey-Weidman dance group of New York city is to conduct the classes.

Those interested are urged to sign up at once. New Paltz is fortunate in having such inspiring instructors. The members of the Humphrey-Weidman dance group present public performances every winter season.

Modern dancing as well as modern art and music has become increasingly popular with college students.

In keeping with the times, progressive colleges and high schools are presenting courses in Modern Dancing which are replacing the old aesthetic interpreltive type of dance. Modern dancing is usually contrasted with aesthetic dancing which is evolved from a piece of music. In modern dancing, the dancer's emotions are expressed in her movements, and the music used in the dance may be composed afterward.

Trip to Princeton

The International Relations Club will hold its monthly meeting next Monday, December 10, at 7:30 o'clock in the Clionian Sorority house.

There has been no topic set for consideration. The members who went to Princeton will report on the subjects which they have heard discussed there. All persons who are interested in these activities are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Game and Dance

As decreed by Student Council, the social committee will sponsor a dance Friday evening, immediately following the first basketball game of the season.

Plans for a real gala event, will be left Hazel Barger and her social committee. A tentative program consists of Virginia Reels, Conga lines, grand right and llfe and the like.

It is hoped that all students who attend the game will remain and help make the first basketball dance a success.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Dec. 7—A new schedule of hours goes into effect at the school next week. On Monday, busses will deliver pupils at 8:50 o'clock and 9:20. The upper grades and high school will be in their classrooms at 9 o'clock, a half hour later than formerly, while the grades one to six will not go to school until 9:30 o'clock. In the afternoon, the busses will leave at 3:20 and 3:43 since the school hours will be over at 3:43.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Finley were called to Kingston this week by the death and burial of Mr. Finley's brother, Lester Finley.

The program in Assembly at school Friday was put on by the Highland Tillers, directed by their instructor, Arthur Poelma.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilklow quietly celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary on December 2. This was also Mrs. Wilklow's birthday.

John Crowley, a former commercial instructor in the high school, who has recently been transferred from Ft. Bragg, S. C., to Virginia, spent Sunday night as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Poelma. This is Mr. Crowley's first trip back here after a year in the service.

The Friday afternoon study group met this week with Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail.

Plans for the turkey dinner and sale on December 10 were discussed at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Williams and Miss Julia Van Keuren. The latter as chairman of the December committee. Mrs. Oliver Tillson turned in money collected. The report of the activities of her month was incomplete. Mrs. Franklin Welker conducted the business meeting. Those present were: Mrs. Nathan Williams, Mrs. William Waterbury, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. Jennie Abrams, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Bertram Cottine, Mrs. Tillson, Mrs. Lester Simpson, Mrs. J. W. Blakely, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. W. D. Bond, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. Charles Farnham, Mrs. M. P. Busch, Mrs. Harry Colyer, Mrs. Alfred Lane, the hostesses and Mrs. Charles Lockwood, who poured at the tea table.

Court of Claims Rejects 3 Cases

State Aid Tests Are Said to Be Groundless

The State Court of Claims has dismissed on the merits three test cases which were among 728 claims filed by the counties and towns for $1,000,000 which it was claimed was due in highway funds.

In 1941 the state legislature voted the town and county aid for highways as usual but Governor Lehman vetoed the measure which provided for town and county aid. Actions were then brought against the state with Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse representing many towns and counties. Three test cases were brought and among the counties filing claims and being represented was Ulster county.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors it was voted to retain Senator Fearon for $10 and in the event the case was won he was to receive 10 per cent of the recovery.

In dismissing the complaints the Court of Claims held that under the highway law there was no contract on the part of the state to pay this aid and that the state had been within its authority when the money was withheld in 1941. The actions had been brought on the theory of contracted obligation to pay the aid.

Reunion After 15 Years

Enlistment brought a surprise reunion after 15 years to three sisters at an Auxiliary Territorial Service searchlight station in England. Two sisters, Sergeant Sheila Munday and Bombardier Hilda Munday, natives of Leeds, belonged to the A. T. S. unit. One afternoon Sheila had to interview some new girls. Among them was Kathleen Munday who turned out to be Sheila's 24-year-old sister, whom she had not seen in 15 years. Sheila and Hilda lost touch with Kathleen when she was adopted at the age of nine.

Close to Home

Atlantic City, N. J.—Inspectors of the Fire Prevention Bureau, making an inspection tour found that the doors of city hall open toward the inside, constituting a fire hazard.

Change the doors, "or city hall will be closed," they ordered.

Tough Guy

Kansas City—An unidentified street car patron, ired because the motorman didn't stop, scooped up a snowball and sent it crashing through a window.

The car stopped all right—to let an ambulance take Mrs. Nora Bury to a hospital. Seated near the window, she was cut about the face by flying glass.

The thrower fled.

Honest Confession

Pasadena, Calif.—The police department has a 40-gallon backlog of that stuff that makes the wheels go around.

Patrolman Gerald S. Wilson found eight five-gallon containers of gasoline lined up neatly at the curbing on a residential street after safety officials had pointed out the danger of home storage.

Knotty Problem

Los Angeles—County Clerk J. F. Moroney is operating on a shoe string, thanks to the war.

Metal clasps for legal documents are out, so he purchased 20,000 laces to tie them up, family album style.

Lieutenant — Captain—Sergeant?

Chicago—If James B. Folsom has difficulty remembering his various titles, there's a reason.

Folsom was a sergeant in the Chicago motorcycle police until he was given a leave of absence to become a captain in the state highway police. Now he has received orders to report to the army as a lieutenant of the military police.

At home, his wife and three daughters just call him "Dad."

Better Separate 'Em

Newman Grove, Neb.—Lieut. Conrad Erickson was graduated twice from an army officer candidate school on the same day. Lieut. Conrad Erickson, Newman Grove, and Lieut. Conrad Erickson, of Ericson, Neb., both were commissioned at the same ceremonies. The same age, the men are cousins.

4-H Boys and Girls Grow Meat Animals

Ithaca, N. Y.—Production of meat by 4-H club members of New York State has increased greatly in the past ten years. Members who have raised meat animals increased in number from 975 to 2,110 in that time, says Prof. H. A. Willman of the New York State College of Agriculture.

This year, 4-H club members produced 100,000 pounds more pork than in an ordinary year, and plan still greater production for 1943. Sheep, hogs, and baby beef animals have furnished the main output. The 4-H club livestock growers have also raised many dairy cattle and horses.

Records for 18 of the outstanding 4-H club meat producers show that in the past six years they have handled 365 head of livestock, and have sold or used at home animal products valued at $35,096.

In summarizing his 1942 production record, one club member said: "Club work has helped to make me conscious of responsibility to my country as well as to myself and to my home. I have learned that it is important to make the most of opportunities for more and better production by intelligent and practical methods."

In another report a 13-year old 4-H girl wrote: "More meat is needed for our armed forces and our allies. All patriotic citizens living where conditions will permit should raise meat at least for home use. More horses will be required, to do work formerly done by tractors and trucks."

Winning the Army-Navy E award for production also meant winning a $25 war bond for every employe of the American Zinc Company of Monsanto, Ill. Howard I. Young, the president, handed out the bonds. The number was not disclosed but about 400 workers attended the ceremonies.

Teachers' College News

A group of delegates from New Paltz State Teachers College left this week for the Middle Atlantic International Relations Club Conference, to be held at Princeton. The purpose of the conference shall be to discuss the various current problems in connection with international relations.

It is the fourth conference of this nature which has been attended by a delegation from New Paltz State Teachers College. Previously they have been held at Lehigh, Rutgers and Georgetown. The conferences are sponsored by the Carnegie endowment. The states that participate in them are those of the middle Atlantic seaboard, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

The conference will be divided into several sections each devoted to some problem of the world today. Among these will be" Latin America," "Post War Problems," and "The Problem of India's Freedom." Delegates from many colleges, universities and state teachers colleges. However, this year quite a serious problem has been presented as to the means of transportation to and from Princeton.

The delegation from New Paltz will be headed by Harry Baine of the senior class and Dr. Verduin of the history department. Mr. Baine will give a paper at the conference. The subject of this will be "United States Relations with Chile and Argentina." It will be given in the Latin American section of the conference. This is quite a distinguished honor. However, Mr. Baine has done similar work at New Paltz State Teachers College, in the way of conducting forums. The most recent of these was on the subject of the independence of India. Last year Mr. Baine also led the radio work done by the New Paltz Forum group. Dr. Verduin recently attended a conference of teachers at Red Hook, where he spoke on post-war problems.

On December 10, at the monthly meeting of the International Relations Club, a report will be given as to the work of the conference. This meeting will be held at the Clio sorority house at the usual time.

Country Life Party

Country Life Club will do its part this coming week-end to make a "bang-up" one before Christmas vacations by holding its annual Christmas Party Friday evening, December 11.

As in the past, the only admission requested is in the form of a 10 cent toy. These toys will be distributed to the local families to help keep children believing in Santa Claus. Any sort of dime store gift which can be used by children will be accepted.

To provide entertainment for its guests, a varied program will be presented. "Why the Chimes Rang," a short dramatic sketch will be acted out by some members. There will be community singing, old carols, Christmas hymns, and holiday ditties. And of course, there will be real old-fashioned country dancing and games.

Aside from the Christmas party the Country Life Club, which is quite active during the Yuletide season, undertakes its annual Christmas Cheer Program. Plans are advancing rapidly under the direction of Gordon Anderson.

The entertainment for the gala party Friday night is under the direction of Rose Tocco, Leonard Misner and Claire Twomey are working with her. Robert Mullroy and Emily Nardone are helping Geraldine Loccy, who is in charge of music and country dancing. Games will be under the supervision of Mildred Williams, chairman; Anne Cuddy and Eileen Usifer.

Ruth Van Steenburg is arranging refreshments with the help of Helen Beresnewicz and Gloria Sorrentino. The final strings of the party, clean-up in particular, are in the hands of Mary Lou Michael, chairman, Oranzo Franchini and Jean Malay.

It promises to be a grand party and reporting the words of students last year—" it was marvelous and something no one should miss."

Pre-School Child

In Assembly Tuesday, December 1, the students at N. P. C. heard Miss Cornelia Goldsmith of Vassar College speak about pre-school children. Miss Goldsmith is the head teacher in charge of the four year old group at Vassar and is the faculty member in charge of the advanced laboratory work.

In her speech, Miss Goldsmith brought out the need for more exact knowledge of the pre-school child. As she stated, more time should be given these children. A child's education begins before he starts kindergarten.

Following her talk, the speaker showed a movie called "A Child Went Forth" which was taken at a summer camp for pre-school children in upper New York. This movie was taken by the father of one of the children in the camp. It has been translated into Spanish and is being circulated throughout South America as well as in this country.

This concluded the program. Miss Goldsmith spoke to a group of parents in New Paltz.

Modern Dancing

Once again the winter activities begin at New Paltz, and heading the list is Modern Dancing. This year Miss Frances Kinney of the Humphrey-Weidman dance group of New York city is to conduct the classes.

Those interested are urged to sign up at once. New Paltz is fortunate in having such inspiring instructors. The members of the Humphrey-Weidman dance group present public performances every winter season.

Modern dancing as well as modern art and music has become increasingly popular with college students.

In keeping with the times, progressive colleges and high schools are presenting courses in Modern Dancing which are replacing the old aesthetic interpretive type of dance. Modern dancing is usually contrasted with aesthetic dancing which is evolved from a piece of music. In modern dancing, the dancer's emotions are expressed in her movements, and the music used in the dance may be composed afterward.

Trip to Princeton

The International Relations Club will hold its monthly meeting next Monday, December 10, at 7:30 o'clock in the Clionian Sorority house.

There has been no topic set for consideration. The members who went to Princeton will report on the subjects which they have heard discussed there. All persons who are interested in these activities are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Game and Dance

As decreed by Student Council, the social committee will sponsor a dance Friday evening, immediately following the first basketball game of the season.

Plans for a real gala event, will be left Hazel Barger and her social committee. A tentative program consists of Virginia Reels, Conga lines, grand right and life and the like.

It is hoped that all students who attend the game will remain and help make the first basketball dance a success.

HIGHLAND

Highland, Dec. 7—A new schedule of hours goes into effect at the school next week. On Monday, busses will deliver pupils at 8:50 o'clock and 9:20. The upper grades and high school will be in their classrooms at 9 o'clock, a half hour later than formerly, while the grades one to six will not go to school until 9:30 o'clock. In the afternoon, the busses will leave at 3:20 and 3:43 since the school hours will be over at 3:43.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Finley were called to Kingston this week by the death and burial of Mr. Finley's brother, Lester Finley.

The program in Assembly at school Friday was put on by the Highland Tillers, directed by their instructor, Arthur Poelma.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wilklow quietly celebrated their 62nd wedding anniversary on December 2. This was also Mrs. Wilklow's birthday.

John Crowley, a former commercial instructor in the high school, who has recently been transferred from Ft. Bragg, S. C., to Virginia, spent Sunday night as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Poelma. This is Mr. Crowley's first trip back here after a year in the service.

The Friday afternoon study group met this week with Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail.

Plans for the turkey dinner and sale on December 10 were discussed at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Williams and Miss Julia Van Keuren. The latter is chairman of the December committee. Mrs. Oliver Tillson turned in money collected. The report of the activities of her month was incomplete. Mrs. Franklin Welker conducted the business meeting. Those present were: Mrs. Nathan Williams, Mrs. William Waterbury, Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail, Mrs. D. S. Haynes, Mrs. Jennie Abrams, Miss Laura Harcourt, Mrs. Bertram Cottine, Mrs. Tillson, Mrs. Lester Simpson, Mrs. J. W. Blakely, Mrs. Mabel Hasbrouck, Mrs. W. D. Bond, Mrs. W. D. Corwin, Mrs. Charles Farnham, Mrs. M. P. Busch, Mrs. Harry Colyer, Mrs. Alfred Lane, the hostesses and Mrs. Charles Lockwood, who poured at the tea table.

Court of Claims Rejects 3 Cases

State Aid Tests Are Said to Be Groundless

The State Court of Claims has dismissed on the merits three test cases which were among 728 claims filed by the counties and towns for $1,000,000 which it was claimed was due in highway funds.

In 1941 the state legislature voted the town and county aid for highways as usual but Governor Lehman vetoed the measure which provided for town and county aid. Actions were then brought against the state with Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse representing many towns and counties. Three test cases were brought and among the counties filing claims and being represented was Ulster county.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors it was voted to retain Senator Fearon for $10 and in the event the case was won he was to receive 10 per cent of the recovery.

In dismissing the complaints the Court of Claims held that under the highway law there was no contract on the part of the state to pay this aid and that the state had been within its authority when the money was withheld in 1941. The actions had been brought on the theory of contracted obligation to pay the aid.

Reunion After 15 Years

Enlistment brought a surprise reunion after 15 years to three sisters at an Auxiliary Territorial Service searchlight station in England. Two sisters, Sergeant Sheila Munday and Bombardier Hilda Munday, natives of Leeds, belonged to the A. T. S. unit. One afternoon Sheila had to interview some new girls. Among them was Kathleen Munday who turned out to be Sheila's 24-year-old sister, whom she had not seen in 15 years. Sheila and Hilda lost touch with Kathleen when she was adopted at the age of nine.

Y.M.C.A. Operates With Small Staff Because of War

Without the services of a paid physical director since the first of the month the local Y. M. C. A. is still able to carry on all of the activities of the physical department with a volunteer emergency staff.

Owing to the war it is practically impossible to obtain the services of a physical director, it was said today at the local "Y."

Dick Thomas, who has been serving as physical director at the "Y," held his last gym class on Tuesday evening, December 1, and is now with the Newburgh Y. M. C. A.

Secretary Burt Tandy of the local "Y" said that the association has been fortunate in having an efficient corps of volunteer workers including Theodore Conwicke, football coach at the high school, who is looking after the junior boys' groups; Mrs. Gertie Smith, who is serving the business girls; Miss Jane Ward, who is instructing the younger girls in swimming once a week; Warren Smith, who is caring for a group of boys in the Rotary Club, and Edward Lacey, who is looking after an afternoon group of boys.

In addition the members of the regular staff of the "Y" are doubling up while the Boys' Volunteer Leaders' Corps are also helping in the physical program, as well as the Hi-Y Club.

Secretary Tandy said that if it had not been for this group of volunteer workers it would not have been possible to carry on the physical department of the association. As it is all of the usual activities of the department are being carried on.

Volunteers Appreciate Tag Day Assistance

Adjt. A. Noble, officer in charge of the work of the Volunteers of America, today expressed his appreciation to the people of Kingston for their splendid cooperation in connection with the Tag Day held Saturday. While a nice sum was raised there is still an additional amount needed to take care of the taxes on the Nursery building and to purchase coal, etc., for the winter months.

Last week letters asking for funds were sent out to friends of this organization and some replies have been received. It is requested that all those who haven't yet answered these requests will do so immediately. Any friends who may not have received their letters are asked to mail in their contributions for this fund.

Seventh Ward

A regular meeting of the air raid wardens of the Seventh Ward will be held tonight in Cornell fire house at 8 o'clock. An invitation is extended to all men and women of the ward who are interested in air raid work to attend the meeting.

Eleventh Ward

Air raid wardens of the Eleventh Ward will meet on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Community Hall, corner Franklin and Fair streets. Wardens who have not yet completed their V-Home canvass are urged to do so in order that a complete report can be made. Stickers can be obtained from the home of the zone warden at 19 Pine street or sector wardens can get them at civilian defense headquarters on Clinton avenue for the wardens in their sector. All sector wardens are asked to have a new list of all the wardens in their sector for the meeting.

Eighth Ward Wardens

Air raid wardens of the Eighth Ward will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Rapid Hose Engine House. All members are requested to be present as matters of importance will be discussed.

U. S. Honors Pearl Harbor With Big Launching Total

yard in Philadelphia—the yard's first fighting ship since 1924.

Yesterday, the aircraft carrier Belleau Wood, 10,000 tons, skidded down into the Delaware from the New York Shipbuilding Yard at Camden, N. J., where the Independence was launched August 22 and the Princeton christened November 9.

At Bath, Me., yesterday, the Bath Iron Works launched the destroyer Thatcher.

In Boston, three combat vessels were launched—a special ship and two escort craft.

While exact specifications of the New Jersey remained a closely-guarded wartime secret, the fourth naval district public relations office called attention to this unofficial description in "Jane's fighting ships:"

Length 880 feet, beam 108 feet.

Displacement at full load approximately 52,000 tons.

A main battery of nine 16-inch guns.

Speed "over 30 knots."

And, to draw further comparison, the navy reported of the New Jersey:

The bow, at the time of launching, stands higher than a five-story building.

Each of the massive anchors weighs more than an army light tank.

The area of all her decks and platforms is 9½ acres.

She required 400,000 pounds of paint, 800 miles of welding along seams, more than one million driver rivets.

Significantly, on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the navy noted that "Janes fighting ships and other unofficial sources have indicated that the ship carries far greater anti-aircraft batteries and protective armor than her sisterships of World War I design which were victimized by planes at Pearl Harbor."

Navy Gets Cooperation

Corona, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP)—Lieut. D. R. Rutter of Dobbs Ferry, enroute from Quonset Point, R. I., to the Los Alamitos aviation base near Long Beach, was stricken with pneumonia and removed from a train to the naval hospital here. Anxious to let his wife and daughter, driving west from New York city, know his whereabouts, he telephoned the long distance operator. All he could tell her was that they were somewhere west of Missouri. He described the automobile they were driving and hung up. Police were asked to relay a description of the automobile. An hour and 15 minutes later Mrs. Rutter was on the phone from Albuquerque. A garage mechanic who was servicing her car heard a broadcast of its description.

Esopus Committee Meets

formance both for the pursuer and pursued, since the movement of an army even 20 miles with all its supplies is a mighty job. These difficulties are multiplied in the Libyan desert because even drinking water must be transported long distances and there are few highways to accommodate this movement of men and materials.

Then, too, Rommel was running towards his home territory where he had not only a favorable place to make a stand but also supplies and reinforcements. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Eighth Army commander, on the other hand was racing away from his bases as fast as he could go and it must be logged as one of the great tactical achievements of this war that he was able to cover such a distance and arrive strong enough to oust the Germans from their strategic port of Bengasi.

Things Look Good

Things look good now in Eighth Army territory. Naturally I cannot give details about military movements but the most important things which could possibly be recorded is that the morale of the army is absolutely top hole. That includes our Yankee airmen who are doing such a grand job on this front.

From my own observation I know the men are confident they will drive the Boche into the sea and they are eager to get ahead with the job. That fighting spirit is the first requisite for victory.

At the same time there is no disposition to underrate the striking power still in the enemy's hands. Indications are that there will be a hard, bloody battle.

Rommel's line at El Alamein was shattered by surprise tactics. Montgomery outsmarted him. There was a fierce engagement there which at times produced hand to hand fighting and Axis casualties were heavy. But that clash wasn't protraced for the Nazi marshal took to his heels to save himself.

Now, however, the Axis commander is in a strategically strong position. He has had time to get his breath after his headlong retreat and he has been receiving reinforcements and supplies from the continent, although it is highly likely that some of the aid intended for him, especially warplanes, has been diverted to support Axis forces in Tunisia.

In any event, whether Rommel likes it or not he must make the stand of his life at El Agheila. He is being made the goat to perform the holding operation in Northern Africa while his lord and master has a chance to get set to defend himself on the continent. Hitler is in an uncomfortable position at the moment for he is not only being attacked heavily on the Russian front, but there is a threat to Italy, southern France and the English channel coastline. Der Fuehrer must re-line his forces so as to meet these contingencies.

There is no doubt in my mind that the ever self-confident Montgomery expects to take the measure of Hitler's desert captain who is ranked by many experts as the outstanding German general of the war. It is interesting as I sit here in this bomb-shattered port of Bengasi not so far from Rommel's front line defenses to recall Montgomery's message to his troops November 11 after the Eighth Army had driven the Axis forces from Egypt:

"Our task is not finished yet. The Germans are out of Egypt but there are still some left in North Africa. There is some good hunting to be had farther west in Libya and our leading troops are now in Libya ready to begin.

"And this time, having reached Bengasi and beyond, we shall not come back."

Well, here we are in "Bangasi and beyond."

This is the best time of year for operations in the desert. The weather is good and the temperature on the whole is comfortable. What with Allied armies finding the going a bit sticky in Tunisia. It strikes me that Rommel must be watching anxiously for the explosion which will precipitate what may be the final phase of the North African conflict for control of the Mediterranean.

Swiss Paper Believes War Is in Its Decisive Phase

Bern, Switzerland, Dec. 7 (AP)—The growing offensive of allied armies, one year after Pearl Harbor, is creating a striking effect upon Europe and the hopes of Europeans for an end to war.

Slower moving armies have replaced blitz tactics, but the crescendo of events that culminated with the entrance of American troops into North Africa inspired the Swiss newspaper, Weltwoche, to write: "Everything points to the fact that the war has entered its last and decisive phase."

Official voices from Berlin say action is underway to stabilize positions on the eastern front, but they do not minimize the driving power or tremendous reserves behind the Russian winter offensive that began earlier than expected.

Spokesmen in Rome say that delaying counter-actions in Tunis have now checked the immediate danger of allied attack on Italian home soil but they no longer discuss last year's plans for driving through Egypt and the Caucasus toward the Suez Canal and an eventual junction with the Japanese.

Italian efforts to evacuate civilians from bomb-endangered cities have extended to Rome and Italian censorship last Saturday passed a neutral dispatch discussing plans for evacuating government ministries and the possibility that some have already been transferred.

Leaders among Balkan satellites of the Axis are reported concentrating their thoughts upon conflicting territorial claims and what would be their best course if allied offensives pushed into the Balkans.

No Lessening of Unrest

There appears no lessening of unrest in occupied countries, which led Dienst Aus Deutschland, Nazi political news service, to discuss at length last week where Germany had assumed too many tasks, concluding that the Nazi organization could be counted on to handle the job with the aid of native administrations.

German and Italian propaganda six months ago began preaching the theory of Europe as a fortress, with an iron defense line from Norway to Spain, behind which the organization of the continent could be carried on while Germany waited to "win the peace."

The allies altered that idea, for no fortress is safe if the enemy can control a back door like the Mediterranean.

The story is told in Vichy that just after the African offensive began, Germany suggested the French fleet could be used for one trip to Africa to transfer Rommel's forces, and thereafter return to its neutral status at Toulon.

Now, allied military observers say, the decisive battle in Africa may be delayed until early January because of the time needed to move up big forces, but the result should open the way for direct attacks on Sardinia and Sicily by early spring.

In Russia, the German retreat is now directed at establishing a new defense line from Rostov to Voronezh, or at worst, Kursk, private foreign advices say.

Stockholm reports, originating from sources close to the Axis, assert that, in ordering the Stalingrad offensive, Hitler was opposed by his generals—as he was on the Moscow drive in 1941—and the delay in withdrawal has created a critical situation with vast quantities of German war materials at stake.

Weltwoche noted that Russian claims of captured equipment approximated one third of the mobile equipment of the French army before its collapse and German losses on the Stalingrad front alone were estimated at 140,000. Weltwoche said German casualties were now "high enough to be seriously felt."

Wickard Is Boss Of American Foods

Agriculture Secretary Is to Take Charge of Supply Program

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, who grew up on the farm and who believes bread is as important as bullets in winning a war, today was in complete charge of supplying the greatest food needs in American history.

President Roosevelt directed the 49-year-old Wickard yesterday to assume "full responsibility for and control over" the nation's food program, an undertaking that must reach unprecedented proportions next year in order to help feed the armed forces, the Allies and liberated countries.

In another week-end move to centralize wartime authority, President Roosevelt put control of civilian and military manpower in the hands of Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission.

An executive order transferred the Selective Service System, heretofore an independent agency, to McNutt's office, suspended voluntary enlistments in the armed forces and directed both the army and navy to get their recruits hereafter from Selective Service, and empowered McNutt to direct that hiring of workers in any occupation or area he might designate should be done through the United States Employment Service, which he also directs. The order also permits McNutt to channel workers into the most essential jobs, from those less essential.

Even before the order was released the army announced it had stopped inducting men over 38 years of age and had paved the way for honorable discharge of such men already inducted if they can serve the war effort better as civilians.

The navy may still enlist volunteers 17 years of age, as it has been doing, and both the army and navy may enlist specialists over 38 years old, but the order was designed to give unified supervision over military and civilian manpower procurement and disposition for all men between the ages of 18 and 38.

Wickard, who estimates that up to 25 per cent of the 1943 output will be required for lend-lease and the armed forces, takes over the marketing and distribution supervision formerly exercised by the War Production Board.

Included in this is supervision of food rationing, although the transfer of authority is not expected to mean any changes in the present rationing programs of sugar and coffee and the prospective rationing of meat. These programs will continue to be administered through the Office of Price Administration.

Wickard, a Hoosier farmer who says that "good food and plenty of it is one of the best missionaries for democracy that I know of," becomes the fourth single director of a national resource in President Roosevelt's official war family.

The others are: Manpower, Paul V. McNutt; rubber, William M. Jeffers, and petroleum, Harold Ickes.

Although he receives no new title, Mr. Roosevelt's order placed Wickard on an equal footing with W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson in case of conflict, with the President as final arbiter.

should register during the week designated and they should remember the local board offices will not be open for registration on Saturday afternoon or Sunday. They should register early."

It was stated that the registration cards will be gray and the letter "W" used as a prefix to the serial number of the registrant.

General Brown emphasized that the greatest consideration should be given by the registrant to his selection of a permanent address. He said:

"The permanent address given on line two of the registration card will determine which local board will have jurisdiction over the registrants. Certain functions may be transferred temporarily to another board but the home board will always have jurisdiction over the registrant's classification. For instance, it is better that the home address, rather than the school address, of the registrant be given. The registrant has, of course, the right of determination, but he should remember that his choice will be permanent."

With a gasoline shortage already handicapping transportation, India faces a scarcity of charcoal, which is used in making the substitute, producer gas.

Farmers May Get Supplemental 'T' Book Gas Coupons

Ithaca, N. Y.—Farmers and truckers of farm commodities for a two-month period may get supplemental "T" book gasoline coupons from their local War Price and Rationing Board in event their certificates of war necessity do not permit them enough gasoline for essential operation, according to ruling of the Office of Price Administration.

The allotment of additional "T" book coupons will be provided to the farmers for the period through January 31, to enable them to operate during the time they appeal for revised mileage and gasoline quotas in their certificates of war necessity for truck operations. All farm truckers may apply for temporary allotment of gasoline on O. P. A. farm R-536, at the office of their local rationing board.

In the meantime, Ralph DeWolfe, chairman of the New York State U. S. D. A. War Board, advises all farmers and truckers of essential agricultural commodities to appeal for a revision of their certificates of war necessity, if they feel they cannot operate on the mileage alloted to them.

In each county of the state, the county farm transportation committee, located in the county A. A. A. office, will shortly have the appeal forms which farmers and truckers can fill out to obtain revised travel quotas. Appeals must be brought to the farm transportation committee, and not direct to a regional Office of Defense Transportation. The Office of Defense Transportation will follow the recommendations made by the local farm transportation committees, whose members know local transportation needs, when they issue the revised certificates of war necessity.

After February 1, when the newly alloted temporary gasoline rations end, truckers of farm products must present their revised certificates of war necessity to their local rationing board, in order to receive their quarterly allowance of gasoline coupons.

PEARL HARBOR

There is no official observance of "Pearl Harbor Day" by the nation, but it is celebrated nevertheless in every American community and every American heart.

December 7 is the day of the Great Betrayal—the day when envoys of a professedly friendly nation, against which the United States had no hostile intentions, came purring to the President's office while their fighting forces rained sudden death upon the unsuspecting guardians of our Pacific outpost. It was the most unforgivable crime ever committed against this nation, and one of the most shameful acts in the history of civilization.

From that moment there could be no American attitude toward the Japanese military despotism other than hostility and contempt, no arbitrament but war, no abandonment of national purpose until the government and nation that perpetrated the barbarous crime should be rendered incapable of further offense.

COTTON PICKER

For several years there have been stories at intervals about a new mechanical cotton picker which was expected to be one of the great labor-saving devices of the century. The announcement has now been made that the invention has arrived at a workable stage. It has taken about forty years of perfecting to get it there, but the manufacturers say it is now ready for use as a commercial machine.

The present situation as regards priorities will prevent the device from being made in any great numbers until the war is over, so perhaps its introduction can be made gradually, and cause less disturbance to the southern labor situation than sometimes has been feared. But any invention which will do the work of fifty to eighty laborers is bound to be upsetting in its immediate effect, no matter how beneficial in the long run.

The production of other new things after the war will doubtless take up the labor slack, in time, and southern prosperity should be greatly increased in the long run. But if cotton is handled on an ever larger scale, certainly more and more fertilizers will be needed. The South has suffered too much loss of fertility already. It must prepare in a serious way to restore its depleted soil.

LOST ITALIAN EMPIRE

The United Nations' gains in Tunisia must worry the Italians in Tripoli. Once Tunisia is gone, their own fate cannot be long delayed. If they do lose Tripoli, it will be a case of justice done, even if somewhat tardily.

Tripoli has not been Italian more than thirty years. Italy had long begrudged the French their possession of Tunis, and wanted an easy and spectacular conquest to heal her wounded national self-esteem. Tripoli appeared to offer just that. Turkey, its owner, was trying to recover from the revolution of 1908, which replaced the decayed sultanate of Abdul Hamid by a government of so-called Young Turks, ambitious men with training in Western Europe. Turkish institutions were in collapse, and needed time for overhauling. Time was just what Italy was determined not to give. So she made war on Turkey, and had a fairly easy time with that country, but a good deal of trouble from the desert tribesmen.

The country has not begun to repay its cost in money and blood. But it added to the area of Italian territory on the map and, when Ethiopia was added, could be made to look like an African empire.

Ethiopia and the rest of Red Sea Italy have been lost for some time, and the prospects are that Tripoli will follow.

RABBIT SO RARE

The Ladies Home Journal, so renowned for all its piety and wit, not to mention its leadership in righteous causes, will be taking a good ribbing from friend and foe alike this month. Its December Line a Day is all out of line.

A housewife calls attention to it. And it really is crammed with suggestions to use cream, sour cream, whipped cream, scrambled eggs, omelets and unlimited cheese. Butter melts and spreads bountifully in and over everything in the fairyland of the Line A Day. Cheese bubbles and browns as in the days gone by. Coffee is served with the baked bean supper and eggs go into the fishcakes. But with eggs at more than a nickel apiece, it looks as if the lobster with mushrooms would have to get along without an omelet on the side. And oh, lady, lady, the rest may have been due to some queer crimp in the usual foresight, but with no milk to spare, cheese rapidly disappearing into the holds of ships bound overseas, eggs high, sugar scarce and tomatoes functioning only in the stratosphere, how can you bear to suggest Welsh rabbit with broiled tomatoes, sprinkled with salt, pepper and brown sugar? The mere mention is downright cruelty!

THE HALF SHIFT

Professional men and white-collar workers who do not use their muscles enough on their regular jobs, and some of whom are not busy now in their offices, are experimenting with half-shift work in war plants. They may work from four to eight in the evening, or from eight to twelve. Some professional men can take morning shifts, doing their own work afterward. The factory jobs seem to be good for them, and they acquire new skills and new viewpoints. Production is increased by the employment of these men, as it is by the half-time women, who work in pairs to complete whole shifts.

So far the half-shift employment is on an experimental basis, but it has interesting possibilities of development. Full-time workers in any market should be given their chance first, of course.

CURES BAD BREATH

One of the meanest ailments known is the third stage of catarrh, dry catarrh, atrophic rhinitis as it is variously called.

This disease with its drying up or wasting of the lining of the nose, formation of crusts taking place of lining and a foul odor from these crusts makes it practically impossible for many of these sufferers to mix with others. Thus to their physical suffering is added the mental suffering which may lead even to mental illness.

I have spoken before about the use of ovary extract or female sex hormones having helped a number of cases of bad breath as reported by research physicians and nose and throat specialists in Philadelphia, Chicago, New York, and Nashville. The hormones were given by injection, by mouth, and in weak solution sprayed up the nose.

As taking the hormones by mouth was found to be less effective than by hypodermic and some patients felt that they could do the spraying without consulting their physician, these two methods have not been in general use. While the hypodermic method has been found most satisfactory to date, it means several visits to the physician before relief from symptoms is obtained.

What may prove a great boon to sufferers is the placing of these hormones under the skin which means no effort whatever on the part of the patient after the simple operation. I have spoken of this method before but a recent report by Science Service states that female hormone "banks" are being established by burying pills of sex hormones in the fat over the abdomen. Definite improvement following this treatment in 13 out of 20 women and one of four men is reported by Dr. Lloyd K. Rosenvold of the College of Medical Evangelists, Los Angeles.

The advantage of the "bank" method is that enough hormone to last for many months can be given at a single operation. Improvement seems to last from four months to almost two years.

The failure of sex hormones to correct this condition in some cases is likely due to not continuing the use of the sex hormones long enough.

This treatment is for bad breath due to dry catarrh. Many cases of bad breath not due to mouth and throat conditions are thought to be due to eating too much fat food.

"A DAY TO BE REMEMBERED IN INFAMY" By Bressler

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

It was during the administration of Palmer Canfield as mayor that the Board of Public Works was organized, and took over control of the streets, sewers, lights and parks of the city, and during the 1920's there was considerable agitation among the aldermen to abolish the board, and restore to the Common Council the duties exercised by it.

It was at the meeting of the Common Council on July 3, 1928, that the matter was brought to a head when Alderman James T. O'Reilly of the Ninth Ward introduced a resolution directing Corporation Counsel Harry H. Flemming to draft a local law abolishing the board and restoring its powers to the hands of the aldermen.

The resolution was adopted after considerable oratory, both for and against, by a vote of 7 to 5.

On July 6, three days later, Mayor E. J. Dempsey filed with City Clerk George W. Moore his veto of the O'Reilly resolution and the veto was later sustained by the council.

I recall that at a meeting of the Common Council a few years after it had been organized that Alderman George Schick of the Third Ward made the remark "the council is now a purely legislative body" and he was correct, for today the council has no control over the streets and its principal duties are to pass laws and ordinances and pass on the city budget.

In the days before there was a Board of Public Works the council had full control of all street work, and that was one of the reasons why the board came into existence for Mayor Canfield pointed out that with such a board operating it would be possible to have a program of street building that would not be influenced by politics.

And speaking of the Board of Public Works I recall that on July 1, 1918, the board bought the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle for $1,200. It had cost $2,500 to build when it was used during the Peacock evangelistic services that were sponsored by three downtown churches, the Rondout Presbyterian, Trinity Methodist and the Wurts Street Baptist.

I recall that on July 2, 1928, Edward Coykendall was elected president of the board of managers of the Kingston Hospital to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge James A. Betts, who had served as president for many years. The board also elected D. N. Mathews as vice president, and the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley as a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by Judge Betts' death.

It was on July 2, 1908, that the local Salvation Army took possession of the Hoffman property on North Front street, which has served as headquarters for the local corps ever since.

Dairy Glassware Is Checked Before Use

Geneva, N. Y.—The testing of milk and cream in New York state for butter fat and for bacterial content is safeguarded in various ways, including the licensing of all persons making the tests and accurate checking of all glassware used in the various operations. The testing of the dairy glassware, such as Babcock and Gerber bottles and pipettes for butter fat determinations and pipettes designed for use in making bacterial counts, is done in the laboratory of the Dairy Division at the Experiment Station here.

According to a report on this work for the period of June 16, 1941, to May 15, 1942, which appears in the sixty-first annual report from the Experiment Station, a total of 46,963 pieces of dairy glassware of all types was examined in the testing laboratory. Of this number, only 716 pieces, or about 1.5 per cent, were rejected as being defective. A total of 106 pieces was broken upon receipt.

Babcock milk and cream bottles of different types and Babcock pipettes totalled 39,985, and of this number 114, or about three tenths of one per cent, were rejected. Of the 525 Gerber milk and cream butyrometers and pipettes received, 25 were rejected. The bacteriological pipettes showed the highest percentage of rejections, 577 pieces out of a total of 6,584. This is not surprising, however, in view of the extreme accuracy required in this equipment.

Experiment Station officials point out that the significant thing about the report on the testing of dairy glassware at the Station so far as dairy farmers are concerned is that only accurate glassware can be used in this state for the making of tests upon which depend payments to producers. This eliminates one possible source of error in these important tests.

IF: The Japs Had Invaded Pearl Harbor After The Sneak Attack, Experts Say They Might Easily Have Crippled Us

(AP Features Writer)

Washington — Army and Navy authorities privately agree that Japan had—and missed—her golden opportunity to seize Hawaii in the hectic hours after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor last December 7.

The failure of the Japs to follow up their airborne attack with an invasion force is accounted a colossal blunder only equaled by Hitler's failure to invade England after the collapse of France.

If—and it's an "if" that might have decided the war—Japan had moved on the disorganized and shattered defenses immediately after the initial attacks, it's generally admitted the U. S. would have faced almost insuperable odds in carrying on the war.

Defenses Inadequate

The President's investigating commission found that Hawaii had inadequate "personnel, material and equipment to put it on a war footing" before Pearl Harbor. Even those inadequate defenses were disrupted in the bombing.

Representative Wolcott (R., Mich.) reported that nearly 500 bombing planes were destroyed on Hawaiian airfields in the sneak attack. Navy units in the harbor were badly damaged, as official reports admitted.

The investigating commission also found that there was lack of cooperation between Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Lieut. Gen. Walter C. Short, both since relieved of their commands.

Had a Jap invasion force moved in, in the wild hours after the first attack, they would have found defenses officially judged inadequate even further depleted by the bombings. The invaders would have found both the air and sea protection badly crippled, and the army and navy commands not in harmony.

Never again will the Hawaiian outpost be such a soft touch.

President Roosevelt recently said that all the naval units damaged at Pearl Harbor had been repaired.

Civilian defense of the islands has been put on full war footing. All inhabitants have poison gas protection. Air raid wardens have been trained. Most non-residents and many non-essential citizens have been evacuated.

John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war, said an invader would "certainly get hurt" in any new attack. The Japs found that out in their disastrous defeat off Midway Island, where an invasion force with Hawaii as its ultimate goal was smashed.

Unified Defense

The defense command of the islands has been unified under Admiral Nimitz. War correspondents have been shown vastly expanded defense emplacements. The lost planes and ships have been replaced and augmented. Men and materiel have been rushed to our all-important Pacific base. New secret airfields have been rushed to completion. Oahu is an armed camp, bristling with armaments.

If the Japs come now, they'll find the islands "all set," to quote McCloy.

It would have been a different story had they moved right in with an invasion force last December 7. Hirohito's boys, like Hitler in failing to move against virtually helpless Britain, missed a golden opportunity to inflict a crippling blow on the U. S. when they didn't jump on the prostrate islands a year ago.

Literary Guide

"BLOOD AND BANQUETS," by Bella Fromm.

I got a good deal more information and satisfaction from Bella Fromm's "Blood and Banquets" than from most recent information of the sort that fills in the background of a picture and makes the central figures more understandable. It is probably because Mrs. Fromm is a good reporter.

In any case, she kept a diary, and from it she has made her book. The first entry she quotes is dated in 1917, and from there through to the events of the early 'thirties the entries are rather scant, but indicative. Some of the entries read as if the diarist were clairvoyant, and once or twice I thought I detected a statement that might have been added after the event. But there is no question in my mind but that the body of the record is correct, and that Mrs. Fromm's connections made it possible for her to meet and to know practically every important person in Berlin. It is our good luck that she is highly intelligent and a remarkably shrewd observer.

She is from a wealthy German Jewish family. But the family money disappeared in the inflation and she had to work. She had connections, and she capitalized them by becoming a kind of German Cholly Knickerbocker, plus certain duties as a diplomatic specialist for the Ullstein papers.

From this remarkably good vantage point she watched the brown wave of Germany's future sweep over the land. She and other "non-Aryans" met and ate with Hitler and his entourage many times. She was close to Hindenberg and watched senility overpower the old man. She watched, too, little German boys sent to England for the summer and saw them tricked into making secret sketches of harbors and airports. She knew in advance that the Third Reich was making Argentine a present of a new embassy building. All the hidden skeletons in Nazi closets shook their bones at her as she passed and for five years after 1933 her influence was great enough to keep her reasonably safe, and to enable her to help hundreds of her mistreated friends.

Then she was persuaded to leave—just in time. "Blood and Banquets" closes with a pretty startling picture of further persecution in New York by the Nazi and with the satisfactory disposition of her persecutors.

PORT EWEN

Port Ewen, Dec. 7 — The dedication of a service flag followed by Holy Communion, made an impressive service at the Methodist Church, Sunday morning. The subject of the address by the pastor, the Rev. F. W. Coutant was: "The Triple Cord—Faith, Hope and Love." Special music consisted of a patriotic song, "Lord While for All Mankind We Pray," by the junior choir and a solo, "Come Thou Weary One," by Henry Deane, Jr. The names represented by the stars on the flag are: Percy Bovee, Lester Bovee, William Clark, Walter Clark, Frederick Clark, Joseph Clark, Donald Decker, Jack Goldsmith, Roger Mabie, Leslie Munson, George Minkler, Daniel Mack, David Mannello, Joseph Mannello, John Mannello, Vincent Secor, Raymond Semon, Richard Tinnie, Culver Ten Broeck, John Thomas, Oakley Maynard and Lester Stagg.

John Potter and Basil Potter, Jr., sons of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Potter, Sr., have entered the U. S. Army and left for Camp Upton today.

Hope Temple No. 80, Pythian Sisters, will meet Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock for a business meeting which will be followed by a social hour. The hostesses will be Mrs. Edith Van Vliet and Mrs. Lester Ferguson.

Members of the Ever Ready Club who wish to attend the annual holiday dinner tonight, are reminded to be at Card's drug store in time to take the 6:25 o'clock bus.

The Rev. F. W. Coutant and Henry Deane, Sr., attended the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Rifton Methodist Church, Sunday afternoon.

At the Men's Candlepin Bowling League game tonight, Team 3 will play against Team 4.

The Dorcas Society will not hold the regular meeting Tuesday night on account of the Christmas party the following week.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Here (and elsewhere) are rumblings that may break forth any minute into one of the major manpower problems of the war—the growing shortage of physicians and dentists to care for civilians.

Topflight dentists recently met in Washington. The whole business was off the record, but the principal speaker at the closing session, a civilian topnotcher in the dental ranks, fairly yanked the molars out of the military men for their raids on the profession.

According to figures made public here recently, about one-third of all the able-bodied physicians in the country (exclusive of non-practicing physicians and most of those over 65) are now serving the armed forces.

If there is any state left that has the ratio of one doctor to 1,000 persons, it hasn't been reported here and in states hardest hit by enlistments and the "voluntary draft" of medical men, the ratio is rapidly approaching one doctor to each 3,000 persons.

Compare this with apportionment in the military forces of one medical man to approximately 135 men. That doesn't mean, of course, that every physician has only 135 men to look after. With specialists, surgeons, etc., devoting themselves to special treatments, every Army or Navy doctor's brood is much larger than that. Now is there any quarrel with giving the fighting men the ultimate in medical care.

The point is that somehow the health of the home front must be kept up, too, and that the 85,000 (more or less) physicians left in civilian practice are just about absolute minimum provided they were equally distributed in all states, cities and defense centers, which they aren't.

It's certainly borrowing trouble to contemplate what might happen if we had a recurrence of (or something similar to) the "flu" epidemic of World War I, but contemplating just such a possibility with the prospect of losing another 15,000 medicos to the armed services is what has health officials between a fit and a faddle.

One partial remedy suggested is the compulsory allocation of medical manpower.

But behind the scenes here is that old bugaboo of organized medicine: the fear that any such national regulation will lead to "socialized medicine."

The solution isn't anywhere near in sight, but there isn't a crowded community in the country (Washington included and close to the top) where members of any family in which there is a seriously ill child, a pregnant wife, an outbreak of colds, or a week-end toothache, fail to realize that this is one of America's critical wartime problems.

Officers Elected At D. of A. Party

Highland, Dec. 7—The party at Ida McKinley Council, Daughters of America, Wednesday evening, given by Councilor Mrs. Hazel Palmer, was enjoyed by nearly 50 guests. A recess was called in the business meeting at which time the following program was given: Clarinet and flute duets, Grace and Robert Brucklacher, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Taylor at the piano; recitation and song, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," Richard Post; duet, Grace and Robert Brucklacher; tap trio, "East Side, West Side," Eileen MacCormac, Lucille Anzevino, and Audrey Burke, Miss Taylor accompanist, dance under direction of Mrs. Viola Sherow; humorous song, Frank Relyea. The councilor presented gifts to the entertainers.

Election of officers took place with Mrs. Cecile Petersen, judge; Mrs. Mackey and Mrs. Millie Schoonmaker, tellers, and Mrs. Florence E. Cotant, clerk. Mrs. Grace Relyea withdrew as nominee for councilor and Mrs. Palmer was selected for six months. Others are Mrs. Carrie Atkins, associate councilor; Miss Henrietta Woolsey, vice councilor; Mrs. Fannie Heaton, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Bertha Freer, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Jennie Reddy, conductor; Mrs. Minnie Peller, warden; Mrs. Ethel Minard, inside sentinel; Mrs. Alexander, outside sentinel; Mrs. Mabel Lent, trustee for 18 months. Installation will be held Wednesday, January 6, with Deputy Ethel Beedle of Kingston in charge.

At the meeting substitute officers were Mrs. Mabel Lent, junior past councilor in place of Mrs. Charlotte Salomon; Mrs. Viola Constable, vice councilor for Mrs. Grace Relyea; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Carrie Jordan for Mrs. Bertha Freer and outside sentinel, Mrs. Rowley for Mrs. Katie Tompkins.

Acknowledgement received from Edward J. Hulse, chairman of the Service Cheer fund for sponsoring a card party, also appreciation from the Orphans home, Tiffin, O., for gift. Mrs. Harriet Alexander, chairman of the fur committee, reported two large boxes had been sent to New York for making seamens' vests and more will be collected. The quilt top made by Mrs. Terpening and Mrs. Schantz will be set up at the home of Mrs. Ella Grissard, Grand street, and members will assist in quilting.

Plans were made for the Christmas party December 16, with Mrs. Daisy Mackey and Mrs. Mamie Wood, co-chairmen; councilor to have charge of the tree. There will be an early business meeting preceding the party for members and families. Inexpensive gifts will be exchanged.

District Deputy Mrs. Cecile Petersen expressed appreciation for the degree, drill, gifts and kindnesses extended at the reception, November 18. The members thanked the councilor for the party, entertainment and roses which were presented to all present. Refreshments were served by the councilor, assisted by Virginia and Gloria Heaton and members.

Mrs. McKeon is the former Miss Natalie Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Roland Fuller and the late Mr. Fuller of 55 Lafayette avenue. They were married by the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D. D.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. McSpirit were married at St. Peter's Church, in Rosendale, October 25. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Farrell of Rosendale, the former Miss Marguerite Farrell.

Miss Fuller Wed To G. T. McKeon

The marriage of Miss Natalie June Fuller, daughter of Mrs. Adelaide Fuller of 55 Lafayette avenue and the late Roland T. Fuller, to George Thomas McKeon, of 61 Smith avenue, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKeon of Bloomfield, N. J., was performed, Sunday afternoon, December 6, at 2 p. m. The Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., officiated at the Fair Street Reformerd Church. Mrs. William S. Eltinge, organist, played the wedding music and Guy d'Hardelot's "Because."

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, William Davis Hawk. She wore an aqua street length dress with accessories to match and a a corsage of white roses. Miss Grace Cater of Maiden Lane, as maid of honor, wore a gold street length dress with black accessories and a corsage of talisman roses. The bride's mother wore black chiffon dress with Persian lamb coat and hat to match. Edward Noonan of Green street, acted as best man for the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Hawk on Downs street where the wedding party received 25 guests. Mr. and Mrs. McKeon left for a short wedding trip to New York city and will make their home at 55 Lafayette avenue for the present time.

Mrs. McKeon is a graduate of Kingston High School and of the Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, class of 1942. Mr. McKeon also attended Kingston High School and is employed at Electrol Incorporated.

Coterie Has Special Speaker To Illustrate Study of Mexico

Satuday afternoon, Coterie met with Mrs. Arthur H. Russell at her home on Brewster street. Continuing with the study of the year's topic, Mexico, the paper of the day on Mexican art both ancient and modern, was given by Mrs. Eugene Pembleton. She gave a historical sketch of the different periods of art in ancient civilization and around Colonial times.

Special speaker of the day was Miss Ethel Mauterstock who told of her own travels in Mexico and who displayed articles from the country. She showed the costumes of the land, examples of laces, embroideries, and articles all of which were hand made.

The Christmas party will be held Wednesday evening, December 16, with Mrs. M. R. Coutant, 24 Emerson street. The next meeting of the club for study will be January 9, at the home of Mrs. Irving Scott, 38 West Chester street.

McSpirit-Farrell

The marriage of Miss Marguerite V. Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Farrell of Rosendale, to Edward H. McSpirit of Kingston, son of Mrs. E. McSpirit and the late John McSpirit, was performed at St. Peter's R. C. Church, Rosendale, October 25, by the Rev. William J. McDonald.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a sweetheart neckline and long train. Her veil was fingertip length and caught by a seed pearl crown. She carried a prayer book covered with white roses and shower ribbons. Miss Marie McSpirit, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a dusty pink gown trimmed with maroon velvet. Her head piece was a dusty pink net with halo of deep red roses. She carried pink chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bridegroom's cousin, Thomas Byrnes of Kingston, was best man and ushers were Ralph Cappetta of Brooklyn and George Kolz of New York city. Miss Lucille Winters of Rosendale played the organ. Her selections included "Oh, Promise Me" and "Ave Maria."

The bride is a former employe of the Bell Laboratories, New York city, and the bridegroom is employed in Kingston. Following the ceremony, a bridal dinner was served for the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents, followed by a reception at Kristic Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. McSpirit left for a wedding trip upstate and are now making their home in Kingston.

P.-T. A. NEWS

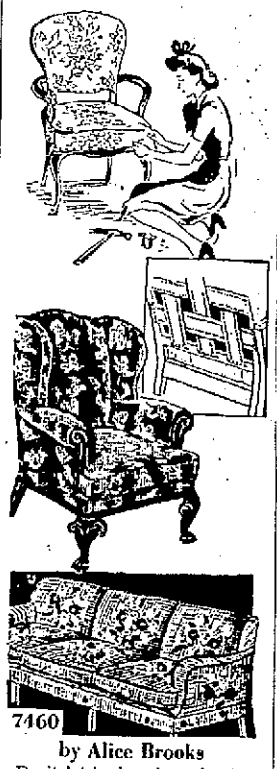

Kerhonkson, Dec. 7—The third regular meeting of the Kerhonkson P-T. A. was held Wednesday evening, December 2. Mrs. Millard Davis, program chairman of the association, introduced Frederic Snyder, principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Snyder used as the theme of his talk the number nine, as the number of letters in significant words and names of the present era. Some of the names noted briefly were: Australia, Aleutian, Chungking, MacArthur, Doolittle, Mark Clark, Roosevelt and Churchill. Key terms were: treachery, submarine, petroleum, commandos, logistics and synthetic. Continuing his talk, Mr. Snyder called this "a war for decency where scenes for civilization and education must be seen." "Victory" he said, "will be his final reward."

At the business meeting, Mrs. Joseph Brody was elected vice-president to succeed Mrs. Nat Zaifert. For the adult education program, Mrs. Irving West, president, appointed Mrs. Abrams as head. Refreshments were served under the direction of the school faculty.

Cows For Beef

Tulsa, Okla., (AP) — Worried about meat rationing? Well, says Dr. T. W. Stallings of Tulsa, you needn't be. There are enough cows in the United States to fill the gap caused by a temporary beef and pork crisis, he says, and he adds: "Eating cows is not bad at all. In fact, young cows are swell eating."

Glass Industry Workers Engage in Bond Buying

Pittsburgh, Pa. — The National Association of Manufacturers of Pressed and Plain Glassware and the American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America, for 55 years joint custodians over the labor and management relations of thousands of workers in this highly skilled field, took on a new job for Uncle Sam today. They agreed to turn over the job of topping 10 per cent of gross payroll by New Year's to their well-seasoned negotiating committee.

About 35,000 union members now are on a payroll savings plan. Only a small percentage of workers and manufacturers fail to belong to their respective organizations. As a by-product of the War Bond drive the two groups will try to enroll the non-members to make certain that 100 per cent of all companies are reached.

Because of the fact that the association headquarters are in Pittsburgh and the union offices are in Toledo, Ohio, it was decided to have two co-chairmen and two executive secretaries for the drive.

Too Many Serve Tea

Too many young women of Ulster are now engaged in serving tea in the military service canteens, the Duchess of Abercorn told a recent meeting of the National Association of Girls' Training Corps held in Belfast, Northern Ireland. While this is valuable, more women should train for land service, nursing or industry, she said. Work of the Ulster girls is praiseworthy the Duchess said, but more persons are needed in the specialized services.

England has had a shortage of full fashioned stockings for several months.

Good Taste Today

DAUGHTER TO HAVE SAME NAME AS FATHER

A really puzzling question—and one that I have never had put to me before—is asked by the mother of a new baby: "My husband's name is Leslie Brown Blank, and we want to name our newly born daughter for her father. Had she been a boy he would have been junior. Of course "Leslie" is just as suitable for a girl as for a boy. But may she also be called Junior?"

In answer to this, there is no possible reason why she may not be named Leslie Brown Blank. But she could not possibly be called junior because she is not a boy. Not only has a son the only right to be junior to his father, but the suffix junior is itself masculine. For that matter there could be no necessity for resorting to its use since Miss will quite clearly distinguish father and daughter.

It is true that occasionally, daughters named for their mothers have been known to call themselves Mary Jr. This however, does not alter the fact that using this suffix is much the same as willfully having their visiting cards engraved "Mr." A daughter named for her mother may properly call herself "younger." This is according to the approval of the editors of the Standard Dictionary.

50th Wedding Anniversary Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: Can you suggest general presents to give on a golden wedding anniversary? That is, suitable presents for that celebration and for their age. With such a list at hand I will, I'm sure, be able to choose the one which I think especially acceptable to these friends.

Answer: Anything made of gold—real gold, gold plating or gilt, or brass, or yellow. In other words, a piece of jewelry, a piece of gold lustre china, or any china with gilt ornamentation. Any ornament made of gilt, a gilt clock, gilt picture frame, a mirror in a gilded frame, a yellow canary in a brass cage, brass fire irons or screen, or desk set; anything of gold brocade or anything made of material that is yellow. Or, as a last resort, tie the package in gilt or yellow wrappings.

Dear Mrs. Post: I write to a man who is at a naval reserve training station and when he finishes he will be an ensign. But as long as he is in this school what title shall I give him on the envelope?

Answer: At present he has no title other than Mr. Therefore, it's best to put no title on at all and merely write him "John Jones" and on the line below "Naval Reserve Training Station." Introducing him to someone you call him Mister.

Are you trying to make plans to be married to a man in the service?

If you are, you'll be glad to know that you can get a reprint of Mrs. Post's recent article "Furlough Wedding Details" if you send your request with a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

U. S. Farm Women Asked to Assist Poultry Campaign

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The nation's farm women were called upon today to play a major part in meeting the vast wartime goals of nearly 4,800,000,000 dozen eggs and 4,000,000,000 pounds of chicken meat next year.

This was urged by W. D. Termohlen, assistant chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's dairy and poultry branch, in a speech written for a conference preceding the 24th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He said:

"Far be it from me to add any further burdens to those that the farm housewife already has. But here's a case where production is vitally needed. Consequently, through supervision of unexperienced help, the farmer's wife today can do a great deal more toward turning out the required quantities of eggs and poultry."

As markets for the vast egg production goal, Termohlen listed the A.M.A. purchase programs for dried and shell eggs and extensive buying by the Army and Navy. He said present prospects indicated civilian needs would provide an outlet over and above lend-lease and military requirements. He explained:

"Lack of red meat for civilian use adds assurance to this prospect and suggests that there probably will be little need to resort to price support programs, even during periods of flush production."

The milking machine is one of the greatest labor savers on the dairy farm. As both new machines and parts are scarce, good care of the machines will pay even greater dividends to the farmer than usual. Cornell has a War Emergency bulletin, No. 33, "Milking Machines, Washing and Care," single copies of which are available to residents of New York State who write to the office of Publication at the New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Y.M.C.A. Operates With Small Staff Because of War

Without the services of a paid physical director since the first of the month the local Y. M. C. A. is still able to carry on all of the activities of the physical department with a volunteer emergency staff.

Owing to the war it is practically impossible to obtain the services of a physical director, it was said today at the local "Y."

Dick Thomas, who has been serving as physical director at the "Y," held his last gym class on Tuesday evening, December 1, and is now with the Newburgh Y. M. C. A.

Secretary Burt Tandy of the local "Y" said that the association has been fortunate in having an efficient corps of volunteer workers including Theodore Conwicke, football coach at the high school, who is looking after the junior boys' groups; Mrs. Gertie Smith, who is serving the business girls; Miss Jane Ward, who is instructing the younger girls in swimming once a week; Warren Smith, who is caring for a group of boys in the Rotary Club, and Edward Lacey, who is looking after an afternoon group of boys.

In addition the members of the regular staff of the "Y" are doubling up while the Boys' Volunteer Leaders' Corps are also helping in the physical program, as well as the Hi-Y Club.

Secretary Tandy said that if it had not been for this group of volunteer workers it would not have been possible to carry on the physical department of the association. As it is all of the usual activities of the department are being carried on.

Volunteers Appreciate Tag Day Assistance

Adjt. A. Noble, officer in charge of the work of the Volunteers of America, today expressed his appreciation to the people of Kingston for their splendid cooperation in connection with the Tag Day held Saturday. While a nice sum was raised there is still an additional amount needed to take care of the taxes on the Nursery building and to purchase coal, etc., for the winter months.

Last week letters asking for funds were sent out to friends of this organization and some replies have been received. It is requested that all those who haven't yet answered these requests will do so immediately. Any friends who may not have received their letters are asked to mail in their contributions for this fund.

More than 120,000,000 sheep are being raised in Australia this year.

Home Defense

Seventh Ward

A regular meeting of the air raid wardens of the Seventh Ward will be held tonight in Cornell fire house at 8 o'clock. An invitation is extended to all men and women of the ward who are interested in air raid work to attend the meeting.

Eleventh Ward

Air raid wardens of the Eleventh Ward will meet on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Community Hall, corner Franklin and Fair streets. Wardens who have not yet completed their V-Home canvass are urged to do so in order that a complete report can be made. Stickers can be obtained from the home of the zone warden at 19 Pine street or sector wardens can get them at civilian defense headquarters on Clinton avenue for the wardens in their sector. All sector wardens are asked to have a new list of all the wardens in their sector for the meeting.

Eighth Ward Wardens

Air raid wardens of the Eighth Ward will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Rapid Hose Engine House. All members are requested to be present as matters of importance will be discussed.

U. S. Honors Pearl Harbor With Big Launching Total

yard in Philadelphia—the yard's first fighting ship since 1924.

Yesterday, the aircraft carrier Belleau Wood, 10,000 tons, skidded down into the Delaware from the New York Shipbuilding Yard at Camden, N. J., where the Independence was launched August 22 and the Princeton christened November 9.

At Bath, Me., yesterday, the Bath Iron Works launched the destroyer Thatcher.

In Boston, three combat vessels were launched—a special ship and two escort craft.

While exact specifications of the New Jersey remained a closely-guarded wartime secret, the fourth naval district public relations office called attention to this unofficial description in "Jane's fighting ships:"

Length 880 feet, beam 108 feet.

Displacement at full load approximately 52,000 tons.

A main battery of nine 16-inch guns.

And, to draw further comparison, the navy reported of the New Jersey:

The bow, at the time of launching, stands higher than a five-story building.

Each of the massive anchors weighs more than an army light tank.

She required 400,000 pounds of paint, 800 miles of welding along seams, more than one million driven rivets.

Significantly, on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the navy noted that "Janes fighting ships and other unofficial sources have indicated that the ship carries far greater anti-aircraft batteries and protective armor than her sisterships of World War I design which were victimized by planes at Pearl Harbor."

Navy Gets Cooperation

Corona, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP)—Lieut. D. R. Rutter of Dobbs Ferry, enroute from Quonset Point, R. I., to the Los Alamitos aviation base near Long Beach, was stricken with pneumonia and removed from a train to the naval hospital here. Anxious to let his wife and daughter, driving west from New York city, know his whereabouts, he telephoned the long distance operator. All he could tell her was that they were somewhere west of Missouri. He described the automobile they were driving and hung up. Police were asked to relay a description of the automobile. An hour and 15 minutes later Mrs. Rutter was on the phone from Albuquerque. A garage mechanic who was servicing her car heard a broadcast of its description.

formance both for the pursuer and pursued, since the movement of an army even 20 miles with all its supplies is a mighty job. These difficulties are multiplied in the Libyan desert because even drinking water must be transported long distances and there are few highways to accommodate this movement of men and materials.

Then, too, Rommel was running towards his home territory where he had not only a favorable place to make a stand but also supplies and reinforcements. Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Eighth Army commander, on the other hand was racing away from his bases as fast as he could go and it must be logged as one of the great tactical achievements of this war that he was able to cover such a distance and arrive strong enough to oust the Germans from their strategic port of Bengasi.

Things Look Good

Things look good now in Eighth Army territory. Naturally I cannot give details about military movements but the most important things which could possibly be recorded is that the morale of the army is absolutely top hole. That includes our Yankee airmen who are doing such a grand job on this front.

From my own observation I know the men are confident they will drive the Boche into the sea and they are eager to get ahead with the job. That fighting spirit is the first requisite for victory.

At the same time there is no disposition to underrate the striking power still in the enemy's hands. Indications are that there will be a hard, bloody battle.

Rommel's line at El Alamein was shattered by surprise tactics. Montgomery outsmarted him. There was a fierce engagement there which at times produced hand to hand fighting and Axis casualties were heavy. But that clash wasn't protraced for the Nazi marshal took to his heels to save himself.

Now, however, the Axis commander is in a strategically strong position. He has had time to get his breath after his headlong retreat and he has been receiving reinforcements and supplies from the continent, although it is highly likely that some of the aid intended for him, especially warplanes, has been diverted to support Axis forces in Tunisia.

In any event, whether Rommel likes it or not he must make the stand of his life at El Agheila. He is being made the goat to perform the holding operation in Northern Africa while his lord and master has a chance to get set to defend himself on the continent. Hitler is in an uncomfortable position at the moment for he is not only being attacked heavily on the Russian front, but there is a threat to Italy, southern France and the English channel coastline. Der Fuehrer must re-line his forces so as to meet these contingencies.

There is no doubt in my mind that the ever self-confident Montgomery expects to take the measure of Hitler's desert captain who is ranked by many experts as the outstanding German general of the war. It is interesting as I sit here in this bomb-shattered port of Bengasi not so far from Rommel's front line defenses to recall Montgomery's message to his troops November 11 after the Eighth Army had driven the Axis forces from Egypt:

"Our task is not finished yet. The Germans are out of Egypt but there are still some left in North Africa. There is some good hunting to be had farther west in Libya and our leading troops are now in Libya ready to begin.

"And this time, having reached Bengasi and beyond, we shall not come back."

Well, here we are in "Bangasi and beyond."

This is the best time of year for operations in the desert. The weather is good and the temperature on the whole is comfortable. What with Allied armies finding the going a bit sticky in Tunisia. It strikes me that Rommel must be watching anxiously for the explosion which will precipitate what may be the final phase of the North African conflict for control of the Mediterranean.

Put a war savings stamp on every Christmas card you send.

Swiss Paper Believes War Is in Its Decisive Phase

Bern, Switzerland, Dec. 7 (AP)—The growing offensive of allied armies, one year after Pearl Harbor, is creating a striking effect upon Europe and the hopes of Europeans for an end to war.

Slower moving armies have replaced blitz tactics, but the crescendo of events that culminated with the entrance of American troops into North Africa inspired the Swiss newspaper, Weltwoche, to write: "Everything points to the fact that the war has entered its last and decisive phase."

Official voices from Berlin say action is underway to stabilize positions on the eastern front, but they do not minimize the driving power or tremendous reserves behind the Russian winter offensive that began earlier than expected.

Spokesmen in Rome say that delaying counter-actions in Tunis have now checked the immediate danger of allied attack on Italian home soil but they no longer discuss last year's plans for driving through Egypt and the Caucasus toward the Suez Canal and an eventual junction with the Japanese.

Italian efforts to evacuate civilians from bomb-endangered cities have extended to Rome and Italian censorship last Saturday passed a neutral dispatch discussing plans for evacuating government ministries and the possibility that some have already been transferred.

Leaders among Balkan satellites of the Axis are reported concentrating their thoughts upon conflicting territorial claims and what would be their best course if allied offensives pushed into the Balkans.

No Lessening of Unrest

There appears no lessening of unrest in occupied countries, which led Dienst Aus Deutschland, Nazi political news service, to discuss at length last week where Germany had assumed too many tasks, concluding that the Nazi organization could be counted on to handle the job with the aid of native administrations.

German and Italian propaganda six months ago began preaching the theory of Europe as a fortress, with an iron defense line from Norway to Spain, behind which the organization of the continent could be carried on while Germany waited to "win the peace."

The allies altered that idea, for no fortress is safe if the enemy can control a back door like the Mediterranean.

The story is told in Vichy that just after the African offensive began, Germany suggested the French fleet could be used for one trip to Africa to transfer Rommel's forces, and thereafter return to its neutral status at Toulon.

Now, allied military observers say, the decisive battle in Africa may be delayed until early January because of the time needed to move up big forces, but the result should open the way for direct attacks on Sardinia and Sicily by early spring.

In Russia, the German retreat is now directed at establishing a new defense line from Rostov to Voronezh, or at worst, Kursk, private foreign advices say.

Stockholm reports, originating from sources close to the Axis, assert that, in ordering the Stalingrad offensive, Hitler was opposed by his generals—as he was on the Moscow drive in 1941—and the delay in withdrawal has created a critical situation with vast quantities of German war materials at stake.

Weltwoche noted that Russian claims of captured equipment approximated one third of the mobile equipment of the French army before its collapse and German losses on the Stalingrad front alone were estimated at 140,000. Weltwoche said German casualties were now "high enough to be seriously felt."

Wickard Is Boss Of American Foods

Agriculture Secretary Is to Take Charge of Supply Program

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, who grew up on the farm and who believes bread is as important as bullets in winning a war, today was in complete charge of supplying the greatest food needs in American history.

President Roosevelt directed the 49-year-old Wickard yesterday to assume "full responsibility for and control over" the nation's food program, an undertaking that must reach unprecedented proportions next year in order to help feed the armed forces, the Allies and liberated countries.

In another week-end move to centralize wartime authority, President Roosevelt put control of civilian and military manpower in the hands of Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission.

An executive order transferred the Selective Service System, heretofore an independent agency, to McNutt's office, suspended voluntary enlistments in the armed forces and directed both the army and navy to get their recruits hereafter from Selective Service, and empowered McNutt to direct that hiring of workers in any occupation or area he might designate should be done through the United States Employment Service, which he also directs. The order also permits McNutt to channel workers into the most essential jobs, from those less essential.

Even before the order was released the army announced it had stopped inducting men over 38 years of age and had paved the way for honorable discharge of such men already inducted if they can serve the war effort better as civilians.

The navy may still enlist volunteers 17 years of age, as it has been doing, and both the army and navy may enlist specialists over 38 years old, but the order was designed to give unified supervision over military and civilian manpower procurement and disposition for all men between the ages of 18 and 38.

Wickard, who estimates that up to 25 per cent of the 1943 output will be required for lend-lease and the armed forces, takes over the marketing and distribution supervision formerly exercised by the War Production Board.

Included in this is supervision of food rationing, although the transfer of authority is not expected to mean any changes in the present rationing programs of sugar and coffee and the prospective rationing of meat. These programs will continue to be administered through the Office of Price Administration.

Wickard, a Hoosier farmer who says that "good food and plenty of it is one of the best missionaries for democracy that I know of," becomes the fourth single director of a national resource in President Roosevelt's official war family.

The others are: Manpower, Paul V. McNutt; rubber, William M. Jeffers, and petroleum, Harold Ickes.

Although he receives no new title, Mr. Roosevelt's order placed Wickard on an equal footing with W. P. B. Chairman Donald M. Nelson in case of conflict, with the President as final arbiter.

Club Will Meet

The Townsend Business Men's Club, No. 2, will hold a regular meeting Tuesday, December 8, at the Uptown Community Center, corner Fair and Franklin streets, at 8 p. m. Election of officers will take place and all members are requested to be present.

should register during the week designated and they should remember the local board offices will not be open for registration on Saturday afternoon or Sunday. They should register early."

It was stated that the registration cards will be gray and the letter "W" used as a prefix to the serial number of the registrant.

General Brown emphasized that the greatest consideration should be given by the registrant to his selection of a permanent address. He said:

"The permanent address given on line two of the registration card will determine which local board will have jurisdiction over the registrants. Certain functions may be transferred temporarily to another board but the home board will always have jurisdiction over the registrant's classification. For instance, it is better that the home address, rather than the school address, of the registrant be given. The registrant has, of course, the right of determination, but he should remember that his choice will be permanent."

Farmers May Get Supplemental 'T' Book Gas Coupons

Ithaca, N. Y.—Farmers and truckers of farm commodities for a two-month period may get supplemental "T" book gasoline coupons from their local War Price and Rationing Board in event their certificates of war necessity do not permit them enough gasoline for essential operation, according to ruling of the Office of Price Administration.

The allotment of additional "T" book coupons will be provided to the farmers for the period through January 31, to enable them to operate during the time they appeal for revised mileage and gasoline quotas in their certificates of war necessity for truck operations. All farm truckers may apply for temporary allotment of gasoline on O. P. A. farm R-536, at the office of their local rationing board.

In the meantime, Ralph DeWolfe, chairman of the New York State U. S. D. A. War Board, advises all farmers and truckers of essential agricultural commodities to appeal for a revision of their certificates of war necessity, if they feel they cannot operate on the mileage alloted to them.

In each county of the state, the county farm transportation committee, located in the county A. A. office, will shortly have the appeal forms which farmers and truckers can fill out to obtain revised travel quotas. Appeals must be brought to the farm transportation committee, and not direct to a regional Office of Defense Transportation. The Office of Defense Transportation will follow the recommendations made by the local farm transportation committees, whose members know local transportation needs, when they issue the revised certificates of war necessity.

After February 1, when the newly alloted temporary gasoline rations end, truckers of farm products must present their revised certificates of war necessity to their local rationing board, in order to receive their quarterly allowance of gasoline coupons.

India Expands Phones

India has started a $24,000,000 "telecommunication development" to provide for greater civilian traffic, it is revealed in New Delhi. Between principal cities trunk telephone lines will be increased from 65 to 300. It is believed that industrial development and added telephone and telegraph communication will make it necessary to retain many of the new circuits after the war."

Bombs Change Rules

Experience with fire bombs in Britain has changed the blackout rules. So that any such bombs which have fallen in houses may be seen at once by fire guards, householders are asked to uncover blacked-out windows in unoccupied rooms as soon as fire bombs begin to fall. The Ministry of Home Security in London reports that fire bombs destroyed one entire building because the fire could not be seen from the street until too late.

Government officials have ordered destruction of the entire 1942 midcrop of cocoa grown in the African Gold Coast and are setting up destruction dumps throughout the country.

Armor of a Soldier

Ephesians, 6: 13 to 19 inc.

Your armor is beside you, Soldier Boy!
Don it, for on this day you must withstand
The fury foes have loosed on every hand;
And fight the force which knows but to destroy.
Yet . . . truth is treasure you may still employ
As girding for your loins. The firebrand
Of righteousness still burns as you demand
A goal in which the Prince of Peace may joy.
Behind the shining shield of faith, then go
Where fiery darts of evil men are bright.
Salvation forms a helmet; and, aglow,
A Spirit sword shall guard you through the night.
Fight on, and pray unceasingly; but know
That hate must die . . . when Love has won the fight!
—Ida Josephine Brittain.

Junior—Why do you say there's too much favoritism in your family?

Friend—Well, when I bite my nails, I get into trouble; but when baby puts his foot in his mouth, it's cute.

Obligation — Any government that seeks to control business in the public interest is duty bound to encourage it in the public interest . . . Else it is too bad for business, and worse for the public. . . . He who accepts command must also assume obligations.

"What Am I?"

I have destroyed more than all the wars of the nations.
I steal in the United States alone hundreds of millions of dollars each year.
I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and the weak.
I loom up in such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of a grind stone to the moving of every railroad train and ocean-going ship.
I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.
I give nothing, and take all.
I am your worst enemy.
I am not drink, hatred or selfishness.
"What am I" . . . "I am carelessness."

Junior—Say, Dad, can I ask you a question?

Dad—I suppose so—let's have it.

Why Editors Are Wealthy

A child is born in the neighborhood; the attending physician gets $10. The editor gives the loud-mouthed baby and the happy parents a send-off and gets $0. When it is christened the minister gets $10, the editor gets $0. It grows up and marries. The editor publishes another long-winded article, and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake. The editor gets $000. In the course of time it dies. The doctor gets from $25 to $100, the editor published a notice of the death and obituary two columns long, lodge and society resolutions, a lot of poetry and a free card of thanks and gets $0000. No wonder so many editors are rich.

Experiment Station Bulletins in Demand

Geneva, N. Y.—A total of 145,397 bulletins and circulars published by the State Experiment Station at Geneva were mailed out during the past fiscal year, according to J. D. Luckett, Station editor, in summarizing the year's publication activities in the sixty-first annual report of the Station.

Of this number, about half were mailed direct to persons whose names appear on the Station mailing list. By far the greater part of this direct mailing is made up of "Farm Research," the Station's quarterly magazine, explains Mr. Luckett. A limited number of bulletins and copies of the Station's annual report are also mailed direct to an official group and to a few others who receive all Station publications. The remaining publications were mailed in response to individual requests received in the bulletin room.

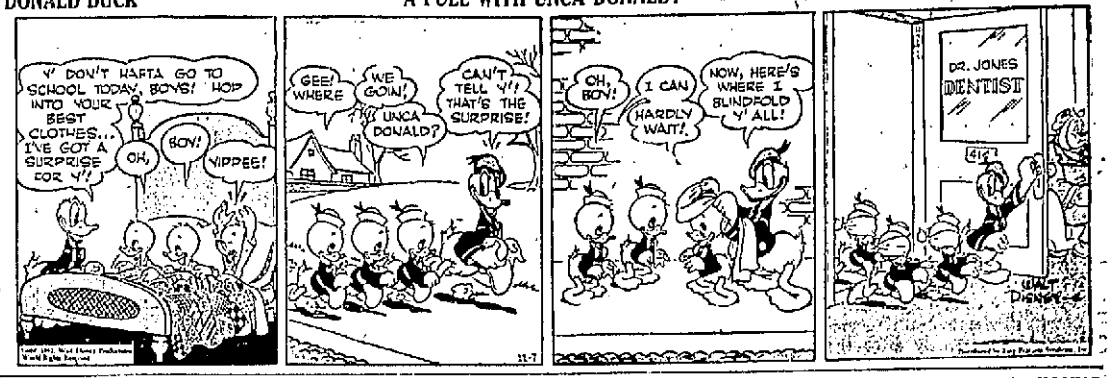

"The need to economize in the printing and distributing of the Station's bulletins and circulars has made it necessary for us to limit distribution very largely to direct requests for specific publications rather than to resort to broadcast distribution," says Mr. Luckett, adding that, "The only exception to this rule is with respect to 'Farm Research' which will be mailed to anyone who asks to have it sent regularly. In this quarterly magazine an effort is made to keep the farmers of the state informed on the most recent developments in various lines of research under way at the station.

The formal publications of the Station include technical bulletins; general bulletins and circulars. The technical bulletins are written primarily for investigators, while the general bulletins and circulars stress the practical application of the subjects on which they treat. Newspaper and radio announcements of new publications are resorted to regularly to inform the public of these publications as they appear. In addition, each year a number of technical and semi-technical articles prepared by members of the Station, each year a number of technals and trade papers. A list of titles of all bulletins, circulars, and journal articles published during the fiscal year are appended to the annual report.

Ancient Gem Dug Up

Dug up by a plough, a jewel has just been pronounced a 2,000-year-old necklet by a jury in King's Lynn, England. Alfred Hare, foreman of a farm, saw something flash on the tines of a cultivator and retrieved the gem. He gave it to his employer, G. W. Wilson, who put it in the back of his car and forgot it. That was in April last year. It is an electrum torque or neck ornament, and weighs three pounds. The necklet's value is about $800.

Officers Elected At D. of A. Party

Highland, Dec. 7—The party at Ida McKinley Council, Daughters of America, Wednesday evening, given by Councilor Mrs. Hazel Palmer, was enjoyed by nearly 50 guests. A recess was called in the business meeting at which time the following program was given: Clarinet and flute duets, Grace and Robert Brucklacher, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Taylor at the piano; recitation and song, "Santa Claus is Coming to Town," Richard Post; duet, Grace and Robert Brucklacher; tap trio, "East Side, West Side," Eileen MacCormac, Lucille Anzevina, and Audrey Burke, Miss Taylor accompanist, dance under direction of Mrs. Viola Sherow; humorous song, Frank Relyea. The councilor presented gifts to the entertainers.

Election of officers took place with Mrs. Cecile Petersen, judge; Mrs. Mackey and Mrs. Millie Schoonmaker, tellers, and Mrs. Florence E. Cotant, clerk. Mrs. Grace Relyea withdrew as nominee for councilor and Mrs. Palmer was relected for six months. Others are Mrs. Carrie Atkins, associate councilor; Miss Henrietta Woolsey, vice councilor; Mrs. Fannie Heaton, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Bertha Freer, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Jennie Reddy, conductor; Mrs. Minnie Peller, warden; Mrs. Ethel Minard, inside sentinel; Mrs. Alexander, outside sentinel; Mrs. Mabel Lent, trustee for 18 months. Installation will be held Wednesday, January 6, with Deputy Ethel Beedle of Kingston in charge.

At the meeting substitute officers were Mrs. Mabel Lent, junior past councilor in place of Mrs. Charlotte Salomon; Mrs. Viola Constable, vice councilor for Mrs. Grace Relyea; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Carrie Jordan for Mrs. Bertha Freer and outside sentinel, Mrs. Rowley for Mrs. Katie Tompkins.

Acknowledgement received from Edward J. Hulse, chairman of the Service Cheer fund for sponsoring a card party, also appreciation from the Orphans home, Tiffin, O., for gift. Mrs. Harriet Alexander, chairman of the fur committee, reported two large boxes had been sent to New York for making seamens' vests and more will be collected. The quilt top made by Mrs. Terpening and Mrs. Schantz will be set up at the home of Mrs. Ella Grissard, Grand street, and members will assist in quilting.

Plans were made for the Christmas party December 16, with Mrs. Daisy Mackey and Mrs. Mamie Wood, co-chairmen; councilor to have charge of the tree. There will be an early business meeting preceding the party for members and families. Inexpensive gifts will be exchanged.

District Deputy Mrs. Cecile Petersen expressed appreciation for the degree, drill, gifts and kindnesses extended at the reception, November 18. The members thanked the councilor for the party, entertainment and roses which were presented to all present. Refreshments were served by the councilor, assisted by Virginia and Gloria Heaton and members.

McSpirit-Farrell

The marriage of Miss Marguerite V. Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Farrell of Rosendale, to Edward H. McSpirit of Kingston, son of Mrs. E. McSpirit and the late John McSpirit, was performed at St. Peter's R. C. Church, Rosendale, October 25, by the Rev. William J. McDonald.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory satin with a sweetheart neckline and long train. Her veil was fingertip length and caught by a seed pearl crown. She carried a prayer book covered with white roses and shower ribbons. Miss Marie McSpirit, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a dusty pink gown trimmed with maroon velvet. Hed head piece was a dusty pink net with halo of deep red roses. She carried pink chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bridegroom's cousin, Thomas Byrnes of Kingston, was best man and ushers were Ralph Cappetta of Brooklyn and George Kolz of New York city. Miss Lucille Winters of Rosendale played the organ. Her selections included "Oh, Promise Me" and "Ave Maria."

The bride is a former employe of the Beel Laboratories, New York city, and the bridegroom is employed in Kingston. Following the ceremony, a bridal dinner was served for the wedding party at the home of the bride's parents, followed by a reception at Kristic Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. McSpirit left for a wedding trip upstate and are now making their home in Kingston.

"Y" Couples Club Holds Christmas Party and Meeting

Saturday evening at the December meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Couples Club, the group held its annual Christmas party. Special guests of honor and new members were Mr. and Mrs. Burt Tandy. Mr. Tandy is the new secretary at the "Y".

At 6 o'clock a Turkey dinner was served followed by a short business meeting. The evening was spent in playing a group of most interesting games arranged and directed by John Pope. There were 18 members present.

Hosts and hostesses for the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. S. Maxwell Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. George Dingee, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward DeWitt.

P.-T. A. NEWS

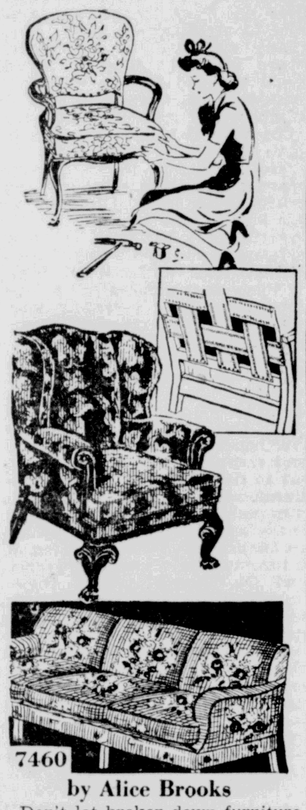

Kerhonkson, Dec. 7—The third regular meeting of the Kerhonkson P-T. A. was held Wednesday evening, December 2. Mrs. Millard Davis, program chairman of the association, introduced Frederic Snyder, principal speaker of the evening. Mr. Snyder used as the theme of his talk the number nine, as the number of letters in significant words and names of the present era. Some of the names noted briefly were: Australia, Aleutian, Chungking, MacArthur, Doolittle, Mark Clark, Roosevelt and Churchill. Key terms were: treachery, submarine, petroleum, commandos, logistics and synthetic. Continuing his talk, Mr. Snyder called this "a war for decency where scores for civilization and education must be won." "Victory" he said, "will be his final reward."

At the business meeting, Mrs. Joseph Brody was elected vice-president to succeed Mrs. Nat Zaifert. For the adult education program, Mrs. Irving West, president, appointed Mrs. Abrams as head. Refreshments were served under the direction of the school faculty.

Crow For Beef

Tulsa, Okla., (AP) — Worried about meat rationing? Well, says Dr. T. W. Stallings of Tulsa, you needn't be. There are enough crows in the United States to fill the gap caused by a temporary beef and pork crisis, he says, and he adds: "Eating crow is not bad at all. In fact, young crows are swell eating."

Glass Industry Workers Engage in Bond Buying

Pittsburgh, Pa. — The National Association of Manufacturers of Pressed and Plain Glassware and the American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America, for 55 years joint custodians over the labor and management relations of thousands of workers in this highly skilled field, took on a new job for Uncle Sam today. They agreed to turn over the job of topping 10 per cent of gross payroll by New Year's to their well-seasoned negotiating committee.

About 35,000 union members now are on a payroll savings plan. Anly a small percentage of workers and manufacturers fail to belong to their respective organizations. As a by-product of the War Bond drive the two groups will try to enroll the non-members to make certain that 100 per cent of all companies are reached.

Because of the fact that the association headquarters are in Pittsburgh and the union offices are in Toledo, Ohio, it was decided to have two co-chairmen and two executive secretaries for the drive.

Too Many Serve Tea

Too many young women of Ulster are now engaged in serving tea in the military service canteens, the Duchess of Abercorn told a recent meeting of the National Association of Girls' Training Corps held in Belfast, Northern Ireland. While this is valuable, more women should train for land service, nursing or industry, she said. Work of the Ulster girls is praiseworthy the Duchess said, but more persons are needed in the specialized services.

England has had a shortage of full fashioned stockings for several months.

DAUGHTER TO HAVE SAME NAME AS FATHER

A really puzzling question—and one that I have never had put to me before—is asked by the mother of a new baby: "My husband's name is Leslie Brown Blank, and we want to name our newly born daughter for her father. Had she been a boy he would have been junior. Of course "Leslie" is just as suitable for a girl as for a boy. But may she also be called Junior?"

In answer to this, there is no possible reason why she may not be named Leslie Brown Blank. But she could not possibly be called junior because she is not a boy. Not only has a son the only right to be junior to his father, but the suffix junior is itself masculine. For that matter there could be no necessity for resorting to its use since Miss will quite clearly distinguish father and daughter.

It is true that occasionally, daughters named for their mothers have been known to call themselves Mary Jr. This however, does not alter the fact that using this suffix is much the same as willfully having their visiting cards engraved "Mr." A daughter named for her mother may properly call herself "younger." This is according to the approval of the editors of the Standard Dictionary.

50th Wedding Anniversary Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: Can you suggest general presents to give on a golden wedding anniversary? That is, suitable presents for that celebration and for their age. With such a list at hand I will, I'm sure, be able to choose the one which I think especially acceptable to these friends.

Answer: Anything made of gold—real gold, gold plating or gilt, or brass, or yellow. In other words, a piece of jewelry, a piece of gold lustre china, or any china with gilt ornamentation. Any ornament made of gilt, a gilt clock, gilt picture frame, a mirror in a gilded frame, a yellow canary in a brass cage, brass fire irons or screen, or desk set; anything of gold brocade or anything made of material that is yellow. Or, as a last resort, tie the package in gilt or yellow wrappings.

Dear Mrs. Post: I write to a man who is at a naval reserve training station and when he finishes he will be an ensign. But as long as he is in this school what title shall I give him on the envelope?

Answer: At present he has no title other than Mr. Therefore, it's best to put no title on at all and merely write him "John Jones" and on the line below "Naval Reserve Training Station." Introducing him to someone you call him Mister.

Are you trying to make plans to be married to a man in the service?

If you are, you'll be glad to know that you can get a reprint of Mrs. Post's recent article "Furlough Wedding Details" if you send your request with a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

U. S. Farm Women Asked to Assist Poultry Campaign

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The nation's farm women were called upon today to play a major part in meeting the vast wartime goals of nearly 4,800,000,000 dozen eggs and 4,000,000,000 pounds of chicken meat next year.

This was urged by W. D. Termohlen, assistant chief of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's dairy and poultry branch, in a speech written for a conference preceding the 24th annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He said:

"Far be it from me to add any further burdens to those that the farm housewife already has. But here's a case where production is vitally needed. Consequently, through supervision of unexperienced help, the farmer's wife today can do a great deal more toward turning out the required quantities of eggs and poultry."

As markets for the vast egg production goal, Termohlen listed the A.M.A. purchase programs for dried and shell eggs and extensive buying by the Army and Navy. He said present prospects indicated civilian needs would provide an outlet over and above lend-lease and military requirements. He explained:

"Lack of red meat for civilian use adds assurance to this prospect and suggests that there probably will be little need to resort to price support programs, even during periods of flush production."

The milking machine is one of the greatest labor savers on the dairy farm. As both new machines and parts are scarce, good care of the machines will pay even greater divideneds to the farmer than usual. Cornell has a War Emergency bulletin, No. 33, "Milking Machines, Washing and Care," single copies of which are available to residents of New York State who write to the office of Publication at the New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Nation-Wide Sports Interest Continued in Year of War

Remodeled in Spots and Revamped in Others Athletics Go On in Three-Fold Purpose

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A year ago today . . . Pearl Harbor.

Despite the early-death rumors for sports immediately after the Japs' unannounced visit to Hawaii, the nation-wide interest in athletics continues today and the sports world—remodeled in spots and revamped in others—goes on in its three-fold war purpose of (1) furnishing entertainment and bolstering morale, (2) raising relief funds and (3) conditioning prospective fighters.

So let's make a brief check to see what has happened to sports and what sports has made happen in the past 12 months.

Boxing—One of the most maligned peace time sports contributed spectacularly . . . Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis twice put his title on the line for war relief without charge . . . In all, boxing has given approximately $500,000 to relief . . . Louis, Challenger Billy Conn, Light-Heavyweight King Gus Lesnevich, Middleweight Champion Tony Zale and Welterweight Champion Fred (Red) Cochrane, among others, in the service . . . But despite all that, interest and attendance has kept up.

Barney Ross, former welterweight and lightweight champion, is the sport's newest hero . . . Only last week he was recommended for an award. He guarded three wounded Marines in a Gundalcanal foxhole all night, firing an estimated 450 shots and killing at least seven Japs.

Racing—Another often discredited sports in times of peace . . . Made cash contribution of $2,500,000 to war relief . . . Furnished such star jockeys as Basil James to the army and such a topflight owner, breeder and official as Al Vanderbilt to the Navy.

Baseball—Received now famous "green-light" letter from President Roosevelt last January and its sturdy determination last spring probably carried entire sports program in early months of war . . . Major league service list now numbers 150, that of minor leagues more than 2,000 . . . Its cash gifts near half million . . . Also provided free tickets for service men at home and endless debates for those over seas.

Football—Contributed hundreds of coaches to the services "physical development departments, untold thousands of Athletic young men to the ranks and an unestimated sum of cash to relief . . . Maj. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, once a West Point footballer, carried his gridiron tactics to the Philippines where they won him the Distinguished Service Cross.

Golf—Ruling body gave up its national championship program but sent its professionals out for relief exhibitions and its amateurs to digging divots for same cause . . . Relinquished such players as Bob Jones and Bud Ward to the air force, Sam Snead to the Navy, Dick Chapman, Pat Abbott, Ed Oliver and Jim Turnesa to the Army.

All the other branches of sport contributed—both in cash and manpower—in proportion.

Virtually the only outright casualties were the Pan American games, automobile and boat racing. And they were dropped only because they consumed gasoline which Uncle Sam needs for his fighting nephews.

Napanoch Institution Quintet Desires Games

The Recreation Department this morning received a letter from Harold Heebo, who has charge of recreation for the institution at Napanoch. He states that he has booked up on basketball games until January 3, 1943. He desires games from Kingston clubs after that date. They play Sunday afternoons. Managers of local teams who desire games may communicate with him for dates.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, firemen topped 10 per cent of payroll for war bonds to help their city achieve an outstanding war bond record.

MODENA

Modena, Dec. 7 — The Public Health Nursing Committee will meet this evening at Mrs. Weygant Courter's home. Eleven children were treated at the regular clinic held Tuesday in the community hall, when members of the nursing committee assisted public health officers.

The Modena Home Bureau unit will meet Wednesday, December 9, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, at 10:30 o'clock. Projects under discussion will be: "Foods" in the morning session, led by Mrs. Weygant Courter and Mrs. Frank Coy, in "Mental Health" in the afternoon.

Members of the Modena Methodist Church will meet at 6:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, when all those who possess 'talent dollars,' will describe the manner in which those dollars were increased. A pot luck supper and sandwiches for each family, will be supplied by those attending.

The W.S.C.S. held a meeting in the Methodist parsonage, Thursday afternoon, when the annual election of officers was made as follows: President, Mrs. Wilbur Williams; Vice-president, Mrs. Earl DeWitt; Secretary, Mrs. Floyd Wells and Treasurer, Mrs. Weygant Courter. Mrs. Frank Venable was appointed as superintendent of the missionary division; Mrs. Hallock Harris, secretary of literature and supplies; Mrs. Ira Hyatt, chairman of the flower committee. Others attending were the Rev. Frank Venable, Mrs. Myron Shultis and Miss Marguerite Smith.

Thirty-three people attended the card and game party held Thursday evening in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, under the direction of the hall committee. Those receiving awards for holding high scores were: bridge, Louis Hyatt; pinochle, Floyd Wells; dominoes, Mrs. Myron Shultis. Irving Davis, of Syracuse, won the electric blanket.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Lozier of Jersey City and Gordon Lozier of Scotch Plains, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lozier, recently.

DICK GILMAN GEORGE GRAY

These crack shots of the West Point Field Artillery team are expected to be two of the big problems for the Kingston Recreations Wednesday night at the Auditorium, when the two clubs meet in the benefit basketball game for the Ulster County U. S. O. Fund. Gilman, captain of the Artillerymen, although only 24, has had a wealth of experience playing both amateur and semi- pro basketball, and Gray, too, has stacked up against some of the leading quintets that travel around barnstorming in the Hudson Valley. These soldiers play forward on the West Point club, and their scores are always in the higher brackets.

In addition to these stars, the other forwards on the team are Pat Torterello,Charlie Adamski; Center Stanley Shustin and Captain H. Gist and Lou Panzanaro, guards. Captain Gist was an All-American choice when he played with the University of Virginia, and Shustin was a member of the team that scored 56 victories in a row for Panzer College. Torterello was New Jersey All State forward in 1939 and Adamski won his letter for basketball with the U. S. Army in the Hawaiian Islands in 1936.

HEIN BIDS FAREWELL TO PRO FOOTBALL

Captain Mel Hein, veteran New York Giants center, reaches up to shake hands with a fan as the Giants' ace retired to the dressing room after warming up or his farewell appearance as a player in the Giants-Brooklyn Dodger game. After 12 seasons as a star player, Hein will become football coach at Union College January 1.

Mailed Accidentally

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 7 (AP)—Colorado University alumni received chatty letters from Coach Jim Yeager throughout the season after each football game. But the alumnus who found a blank sheet of white paper in his letter after Colorado took a 13-0 licking from Utah got the wrong idea. Yeager was not speechless, he defended. The mimeograph machine skipped a beat and the blank sheet was mailed accidentally. The letter that week, in fact, was extra long.

The light and power company of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, has started the manufacture of producer gas equipment to offset the gasoline shortage and is reported to be operating 24 trucks and 16 buses on producer gas.

A Thoroughbred

Kansas City, Dec. 7 (AP)—Jack, the skillful pointer which helps Charles Green bring in the quail, is a thoroughbred. Peppered with about 50 bird shot and blinded in one eye by Green's hunting companion who fired too low into a covey of quail, Jack wouldn't leave the field. After a little first aid, he was on point again.

Co-Manager of Fordham

Robert Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Noble of 19 Davis street, Kingston, has been elected co-manager of the Fordham football team. He will share the managership with Joseph Barnwell of New York city. Joe Andrejco, junior of Beaver Meadows, Pa., has been elected captain of the 1943 team.

Pay Discrepancy Hit

Girls employed to mend Australian uniforms receive more than the soldiers who wear them, it is pointed out in Brisbane in a protest against the present system employed by Army Ordnance Stores. Employment of girls enlisted as seamstresses in the auxiliary service of the Army would provide a substantial savings, it was pointed out. The civilian employes working under union award wages and conditions make $16 a week.

Australians are enthusiastic in their praise of American soldiers and sailors who on "American Day" removed their caps and stood at attention when a band playing "The Star Spangled Banner" passed by.

Statistics Favor Chicago Over Washington in Title

Final Standings of the Eastern and Western Divisions; Results of Sunday Games

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The tale of statistics, which may or may not tell the true story of a team's ability, greatly favors the Chicago Bears over the Washington Redskins in their championship playoff Sunday at the nation's capital.

The figures were gathered during a season whose theme song was the broken record which repeated itself right down to the end of the regular National Football League campaign yesterday.

The Bears, who trimmed the Chicago Cardinals 21 to 7—allowing a freak touchdown in the last quarter to spoil chances for the best defensive scoring record in 15 years—hold these statistical advantages over the Redskins for the 11-game season:

155 first downs to 149; 3,579 yards gained to 3,121; 1,898 yards by rushing to 1,529; 1,981 by passing to 1,592; 376 points scored to 227; 84 points given up to opponents to 102; 519 yards gained against them by rushing to 848.

Washington's margin: 257 attempted forwards to 192; 137 completions to 94 (completion percentage is lower, however); 17 of their passes intercepted to 28; 45-yard punting average to 39; 610 yards lost by penalties to 905; 1,093 yards gained against them by passing to 1,179.

Final standings of the league:

Eastern Division

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Washington	10	1	0	.909
Pittsburgh	7	4	0	.636
New York	5	5	1	.500
Brooklyn	3	5	0	.273

India Expands Phones

India has started a $24,000,000 "telecommunication development" to provide for greater civilian traffic, it is revealed in New Delhi. Between principal cities trunk telephone lines will be increased from 65 to 300. It is believed that industrial development and added telephone and telegraph communication will make it necessary to retain many of the new circuits after the war."

Bombs Change Rules

Experience with fire bombs in Britain has changed the blackout rules. So that any such bombs which have fallen in houses may be seen at once by fire guards, householders are asked to uncover blacked-out windows in unoccupied rooms as soon as fire bombs begin to fall. The Ministry of Home Security in London reports that fire bombs destroyed one entire building because the fire could not be seen from the street until too late.

Government officials have ordered destruction of the entire 1942 midcrop of cocoa grown in the African Gold Coast and are setting up destruction dumps throughout the country.

Armor of a Soldier

Ephesians, 6: 13 to 19 inc.

Your armor is beside you, Soldier Boy!
Don it, for on this day you must withstand
The fury foes have loosed on every hand;
And fight the force which knows but to destroy.
Yet . . . truth is treasure you may still employ
As girding for your loins. The firebrand
Of righteousness still burns as you demand
A goal in which the Prince of Peace may joy.
Behind the shining shield of faith, then go
Where fiery darts of evil men are bright.
Salvation forms a helmet; and, aglow,
A Spirit sword shall guard you through the night.
Fight on, and pray unceasingly; but know
That hate must die . . . when Love has won the fight!
—Ida Josephine Brittain.

Junior—Why do you say there's too much favoritism in your family?

Friend—Well, when I bite my nails, I get into trouble; but when baby puts his foot in his mouth, it's cute.

Obligation — Any government that seeks to control business in the public interest is duty bound to encourage it in the public interest. . . . Else it is too bad for business, and worse for the public. . . . He who accepts command must also assume obligations.

"What Am I?"

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.
I have destroyed more than all the wars of the nations.
I steal in the United States alone hundreds of millions of dollars each year.
I spare no one, and I find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and the weak.
I loom up in such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of a grind stone to the moving of every railroad train and ocean-going ship.
I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.
I give nothing, and take all.
I am your worst enemy.
I am not drink, hatred or selfishness.
"What am I" . . . "I am carelessness."

Junior—Say, Dad, can I ask you a question?

Dad—I suppose so—let's have it.

Junior—Where is the wind when it don't blow?

The genius of a certain Arkansas editor showed itself recently when he printed the following news item in the local columns of his paper:

"Miss Beulah Blank, a Batesville belle of 20 summers, is visiting her twin brother, age 32."

Why Editors Are Wealthy

A child is born in the neighborhood; the attending physician gets $10. The editor gives the loud-mouthed baby and the happy parents a send-off and gets $0. When it is christened the minister gets $10, the editor gets $0. It grows up and marries. The editor publishes another long-winded article, and tells a dozen lies about the beautiful and accomplished bride. The minister gets $10 and a piece of cake. The editor gets $000. In the course of time it dies. The doctor gets from $25 to $100, the editor published a notice of the death and obituary two columns long, lodge and society resolutions, a lot of poetry and a free card of thanks and gets $0000. No wonder so many editors are rich.

Experiment Station Bulletins in Demand

Geneva, N. Y.—A total of 145,397 bulletins and circulars published by the State Experiment Station at Geneva were mailed out during the past fiscal year, according to J. D. Luckett, Station editor, in summarizing the year's publication activities in the sixty-first annual report of the Station.

Of this number, about half were mailed direct to persons whose names appear on the Station mailing list. By far the greater part of this direct mailing is made up of "Farm Research," the Station's quarterly magazine, explains Mr. Luckett. A limited number of bulletins and copies of the Station's annual report are also mailed direct to an official group and to a few others who receive all Station publications. The remaining publications were mailed in response to individual requests received in the bulletin room.

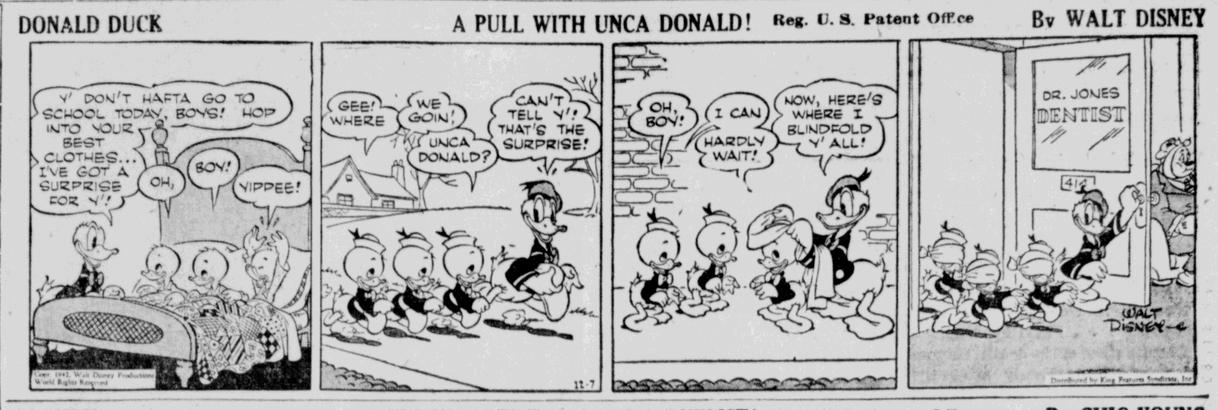

"The need to economize in the printing and distributing of the Station's bulletins and circulars has made it necessary for us to limit distribution very largely to direct requests for specific publications rather than to resort to broadcast distribution," says Mr. Luckett, adding that, "The only exception to this rule is with respect to 'Farm Research' which will be mailed to anyone who asks to have it sent regularly. In this quarterly magazine an effort is made to keep the farmers of the state informed on the most recent developments in various lines of research under way at the station.

The formal publications of the Station include technical bulletins, general bulletins and circulars. The technical bulletins are written primarily for investigators, while the general bulletins and circulars stress the practical application of the subjects on which they treat. Newspaper and radio announcements of new publications are resorted to regularly to inform the public of these publications as they appear. In additiono, each year a number of technical and semi-technical articles prepared by members of the Station, each year a number of technicals and trade papers. A list of titles of all bulletins, circulars, and journal articles published during the fiscal year are appended to the annual report.

Ancient Gem Dug Up

Dug up by a plough, a jewel has just been pronounced a 2,000-year-old necklet by a jury in King's Lynn, England. Alfred Hare, foreman of a farm, saw something flash on the tines of a cultivator and retrieved the gem. He gave it to his employer, G. W. Wilson, who put it in the back of his car and forgot it. That was in April last year. It is an electrum torque or neck ornament, and weighs three pounds. The necklet's value is about $800.

Monthly Report Is Given for City's Service Building

Following is the report of Kings- ton Service Men's Center for No- vember:

The committee acknowledges the following donations:

Canteen supplies—Clinton Ave- nue Methodist Church, Mrs. Alfred Jones, Evelyn Fagher, Mrs. Charles Bruno, Ralph Cohen, Miss Jean Mack, W. C. T. U., Harry Beck, Mrs. Clifford Davis, Mrs. H. Buddington, Mrs. D. H. Dunbar, Mrs. S. Bonesteel, Mrs. W. Coutant, Miss Mary Coniglio, Miss Helen Elgo, Mrs. Clarence Wolfer- steig, Mrs. Luther, Ladies' Aid Al- bany Avenue Baptist, Babcock Dairy, Beatty Dairy, Carnright Dairy, Sorosis, Lowell Club, Schwenks Bakery, Central Bakery, Friedel Bakery.

Other donations—Records, Den- nis Barnhart; dishes, White Ele- phant Shop; Black Alderberries, John Garbarino; signs, William Meliert; T. B. Christmas seals, anonymous; piano tuned, Mrs. Lau- ra Winters; laundry work, Gar- land's laundry.

The following scouts from Troop 19, Port Ewen, collected 91 pounds of grease, sold it and turned over the money to the center: The Misses Dorothy Hornbeck, Janice Fowler, Ruth Webster, Ann Win- chell, Gertrude Beichert, Elnora Houghtaling, Ruth Buddenhagen, Ann McConnell, Dolores O'Don- nell, Annette Beaver, Dorothy Ellsworth.

Scout Troops No. 5, 7, 11 are also collecting and selling grease for the center.

The following letters were re- ceived at the center this month:

753 Dayton Street
Akron, Ohio
November 18, 1942

Dear Mrs. Mac Connell:

I received your letter and wish I could have the opportunity to personally express the gratitude that I feel. Richard always liked to spend a lot of time at home here, and the thought of his having a chance to do the same so far away brings his family great hap- piness. He has sent pictures of the Center and were it not for the uniform he would have seemed the same familiar boy of yesterday.

It is a great pity that all our boys' mothers cannot be sure that their sons are being aided and comforted by groups such as yours. God bless you in your work.

A War Mother.

(Signed)
HARRIET GRAY
(MRS. W. H. GRAY)

Dear Ladies:

I wish to thank you for being so kind to me and the rest of the boys. They really think you are all real nice people. So for the time being I'll say good-bye, and thanks again for everything.

(Signed)
NORMAN MAROTTE.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Low Cost Summer Hot Water

WHEN the heating plant is closed down for the summer the question of domestic hot water heating becomes a serious one. Hot water can be heated in a number of ways, but wouldn't you be interested in heating one hundred gallons of water for less than a nickel? Wouldn't you like to go away for the weekend with no worries about the fire going out? Wouldn't you like to keep the water as hot as you want with no sudden boiling to churn up sediment and rust, and receive clean, clear hot water at all times, at just the temperature you want?

This can easily be obtained with the modern coal burning water heaters on the market to- day. Do not confuse these heat- ers with the old style pot stoves or bucket-a-day stoves. The new heaters are nearly automatic in operation, requiring very little attention. Magazine principles of design have been applied, the coal feeding down gradually as needed, thus requiring very few firings.

Air tight receptacles to catch the refuse are located below the grates. These receptacles are easy to handle and are large enough to accommodate a full week's supply of ashes. You can be assured of continuous hot water requiring no manual at- tention, the drafts being con- trolled by means of an automatic regulator. These regulators re- quire no electrical energy or me- chanical movement by springs. The regulator controls the water temperature in such a way as to eliminate overheating the water. This assures clean water at all times, and properly heated water for all purposes.

To those homeowners who al- ready have coal burning tank heaters installed, most coal dealers can furnish at small cost, up-to-date hot water regu- lators. These regulators auto- matically control the draft, are easy to install and offer a great- er automatic operation than pre- viously enjoyed.

There is no need today to change to more expensive fuels in order to obtain automatic heating of domestic water. By installing one of these modern heaters or by merely adding a regulator to the present coal heater, oceans of hot water can be had at a much lower cost than with many other more ex- pensive fuels. McSpaden's Victory Nets $1,000 War Bonds

By JOHN WILDS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—A thousand dollars in war bonds was Harold McSpaden's regard today for a hard-earned victory in what may have been the last golf tour- nament for the duration to bear a reasonable resemblance to peace- time resort events.

Only a handful of name profes- sionals matched shots with McSpa- den in the four-day, $5,000 Miami open, and most of them told of plans for joining the numerous link stars who already have entered the armed forces or undertaken de- fense work.

The tournament was the only one on schedule before Pinehurst's north and south open next March, and few of the players felt sure they would be on hand by then.

A stranger to Miami galleries, young Bob Hamilton of Evans- ville, In., turned in a 67 to pocket the $500 third prize with 277.

McSpaden, who has a wife and two children, said he planned to remain in golf unless he should be summoned by the army. "I have offered to make a tour for the Red Cross or for war relief, paying my own expenses," he said. "I want to do my part."

Reports Loss

John Creamer of 55 Washington avenue reported the loss Thurs- day on Route 28 between the Ava- lon and Kingston of a wallet con- taining New York and Connecti- cut operator's licenses, social se- curity card and approximately $50 in cash.

Donkeys are replacing automo- biles on North Ireland farms.

Byrd to Broadcast

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U.S.N., (Ret.), pioneer in naval aviation, will deliver a special message to 2,000 newly-enlisted naval aviation cadets, gathered in radio studios in 128 cities across the United States and in Honolulu, Hawaii, on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, tonight at 7 o'clock.

Speaking from the Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, D. C., Admiral Byrd's words will be broadcast over the NBC network as a climax to the first nation-wide induction ceremony by radio in na- val or military history.

Because of the demand in air- plane construction for balsa wood, which normally grows wild in Ecuador, balsa plantations are be- ing established in that country.

Nation-Wide Sports Interest Continued in Year of War

Remodeled in Spots and Revamped in Others Athletics Go On in Three-Fold Purpose

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—A year ago today . . . Pearl Harbor.

Despite the early-death rumors for sports immediately after the Japs' unannounced visit to Hawaii, the nation-wide interest in athletics continues today and the sports world—remodeled in spots and revamped in others—goes on in its three-fold war purpose of (1) furnishing entertainment and bolstering morale, (2) raising relief funds and (3) conditioning prospective fighters.

So let's make a brief check to see what has happened to sports and what sports has made happen in the past 12 months.

Boxing—One of the most maligned peace time sports contributed spectacularly . . . Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis twice put his title on the line for war relief without charge . . . In all, boxing has given approximately $500,000 to relief . . . Louis, Challenger Billy Conn, Light-Heavyweight King Gus Lesnevich, Middleweight Champion Tony Zale and Welterweight Champion Fred (Red) Cochrane, among others, in the service . . . But despite all that, interest and attendance has kept up.

Barney Ross, former welterweight and lightweight champion, is the sport's newest hero . . . Only last week he was recommended for an award. He guarded three wounded Marines in a Guadalcanal foxhole all night, firing an estimated 450 shots and killing at least seven Japs.

Racing—Another often discredited sports in times of peace . . . Made cash contribution of $2,500,000 to war relief . . . Furnished such star jockeys as Basil James to the army and such a topflight owner, breeder and official as Al Vanderbilt to the Navy.

Baseball—Received now famous "green-light" letter from President Roosevelt last January and its sturdy determination last spring probably carried entire sports program in early months of war . . . Major league service list now numbers 150, that of minor leagues more than 2,000 . . . Its cash gifts near half million . . . Also provided free tickets for service men at home and endless debates for those over seas.

Football—Contributed hundreds of coaches to the services "physical development departments, untold thousands of Athletic young men to the ranks and an unestimated sum of cash to relief . . . Maj. Thomas J. H. Trapnell, once a West Point footballer, carried his gridiron tactics to the Philippines where they won him the Distinguished Service Cross.

Golf—Ruling body gave up its national championship program but sent its professionals out for relief exhibitions and its amateurs to digging divots for same cause . . . Relinquished such players as Bob Jones and Bud Ward to the air force, Sam Snead to the Navy, Dick Chapman, Pat Abbott, Ed Oliver and Jim Turnesa to the Army.

All the other branches of sport contributed—both in cash and manpower—in proportion.

Virtually the only outright casualties were the Pan American games, automobile and boat racing. And they were dropped only because they consumed gasoline which Uncle Sam needs for his fighting nephews.

Napanoch Institution Quintet Desires Games

The Recreation Department this morning received a letter from Harold Heebo, who has charge of recreation for the institution at Napanoch. He states that he has booked up on basketball games until January 3, 1943. He desires games from Kingston clubs after that date. They play Sunday afternoons. Managers of local teams who desire games may communicate with him for dates.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, firemen topped 10 per cent of payroll for war bonds to help their city achieve an outstanding war bond record.

MODENA

Modena, Dec. 7 — The Public Health Nursing Committee will meet this evening at Mrs. Weygant Courter's home. Eleven children were treated at the regular clinic held Tuesday in the community hall, when members of the nursing committee assisted public health officers.

The Modena Home Bureau unit will meet Wednesday, December 9, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, at 10:30 o'clock. Projects under discussion will be: "Foods" in the morning session, led by Mrs. Weygant Courter and Mrs. Frank Coy, in "Mental Health" in the afternoon.

Members of the Modena Methodist Church will meet at 6:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, when all those who possess 'talent dollars,' will describe the manner in which those dollars were increased. A pot luck supper and sandwiches for each family, will be supplied by those attending.

The W.S.C.S. held a meeting in the Methodist parsonage, Thursday afternoon, when the annual election of officers was made as follows: President, Mrs. Wilbur Williams; Vice-president, Mrs. Earl DeWitt; Secretary, Mrs. Floyd Wells and Treasurer, Mrs. Weygant Courter. Mrs. Frank Venable was appointed as superintendent of the missionary division; Mrs. Hallock Harris, secretary of literature and supplies; Mrs. Ira Hyatt, chairman of the flower committee. Others attending were the Rev. Frank Venable, Mrs. Myron Shultis and Miss Marguerite Smith.

Thirty-three people attended the card and game party held Thursday evening in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall, under the direction of the hall committee. Those receiving awards for holding high scores were: bridge, Louis Hyatt; pinochle, Floyd Wells; dominoes, Mrs. Myron Shultis. Irving Davis, of Syracuse, won the electric blanket.

A regular meeting of the Modena fire department was held Thursday evening.

A meeting of the Plattekill Grange kitchen committee was held Wednesday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Hedges' home.

Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Powell were among the guests entertained recently by Miss Bertha Sutton at New Hurley.

Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck attended a club meeting at New Paltz Wednesday afternoon.

Anthony Denton of Kingston, visited relatives here Thursday.

Mrs. Lester Arnold is taking a course on inspection of war materials, in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Alice Harcourt is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lozier at Savilton.

Mrs. Anna Miller, who left three months ago for Norfolk, Va., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miller, expects to remain in the South.

PLATTEKILL

Plattekill, Dec. 7 — Plattekill Grangers will hold a modern and old-fashioned dance, Wednesday evening in the Grange Hall, with music furnished by the Catskill Mountaineers. The annual clean-up will be held in the hall on Wednesday, commencing at 10 o'clock. A pot luck lunch will be served.

The annual installation of officers recently elected in the Plattekill Grange, will be held Saturday evening, December 12. Mrs. Evelyn Sahler and degree team of Rosendale, will officiate.

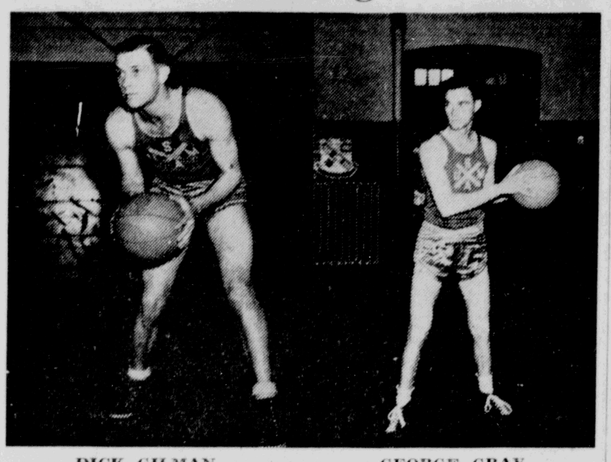

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Van Duzer were recent guests of the Rev. and Mrs. George Chant of Amity, former residents of this village. The Rev. Mr. Chant has enlisted in the U. S. Army and expects to leave soon for training.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Dransfield and daughter Barbara of Teaneck, N. J., were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dransfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Lozier of Jersey City and Gordon Lozier of Scotch Plains, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lozier, recently.

Four new motion picture theatres will be opened in Stockholm, Sweden.

DICK GILMAN GEORGE GRAY

These crack shots of the West Point Field Artillery team are expected to be two of the big problems for the Kingston Recreations Wednesday night at the Auditorium, when the two clubs meet in the benefit basketball game for the Ulster County U. S. O. Fund. Gilman, captain of the Artillerymen, although only 24, has had a wealth of experience playing both amateur and semi- pro basketball, and Gray, too, has stacked up against some of the leading quintets that travel around barnstorming in the Hudson Valley. These soldiers play forward on the West Point club, and their scores are always in the higher brackets.

In addition to these stars, the other forwards on the team are Pat Tortorello,Charlie Adamski; Center Stanley Shustin and Captain H. Gist and Lou Panzanaro, guards. Captain Gist was an All-American choice when he played with the University of Virginia, and Shustin was a member of the team that scored 56 victories in a row for Panzer College. Tortorello was New Jersey All State forward in 1939 and Adamski won his letter for basketball with the U. S. Army in the Hawaiian Islands in 1936.

HEIN BIDS FAREWELL TO PRO FOOTBALL

Captain Mel Hein, veteran New York Giants center, reaches up to shake hands with a fan as the Giants' ace retired to the dressing room after warming up or his farewell appearance as a player in the Giants-Brooklyn Dodger game. After 12 seasons as a star player, Hein will become football coach at Union College January 1.

Mailed Accidentally

Boulder, Colo., Dec. 7 (AP)—Colorado University alumni received chatty letters from Coach Jim Yeager throughout the season after each football game. But the alumnus who found a blank sheet of white paper in his letter after Colorado took a 13-0 licking from Utah got the wrong idea. Yeager was not speechless, he defended. The mimeograph machine skipped a beat and the blank sheet was mailed accidentally. The letter that week, in fact, was extra long.

The light and power company of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, has started the manufacture of producer gas equipment to offset the gasoline shortage and is reported to be operating 24 trucks and 16 buses on producer gas.

A Thoroughbred

Kansas City, Dec. 7 (AP)—Jack, the skillful pointer which helps Charles Green bring in the quail, is a thoroughbred. Peppered with about 50 bird shot and blinded in one eye by Green's hunting companion who fired too low into a covey of quail, Jack wouldn't leave the field. After a little first aid, he was on point again.

Co-Manager of Fordham

Robert Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Noble of 19 Davis street, Kingston, has been elected co-manager of the Fordham football team. He will share the managership with Joseph Barnwell of New York city. Joe Andrejco, junior of Beaver Meadows, Pa., has been elected captain of the 1943 team.

Pay Discrepancy Hit

Girls employed to mend Australian uniforms receive more than the soldiers who wear them, it is pointed out in Brisbane in a protest against the present system employed by Army Ordnance Stores. Employment of girls enlisted as seamstresses in the auxiliary service of the Army would provide a substantial savings, it was pointed out. The civilian employes working under union award wages and conditions make $16 a week.

Australians are enthusiastic in their praise of American soldiers and sailors who on "American Day" removed their caps and stood at attention when a band playing "The Star Spangled Banner" passed by.

Statistics Favor Chicago Over Washington in Title

Final Standings of the Eastern and Western Divisions; Results of Sunday Games

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The tale of statistics, which may or may not tell the true story of a team's ability, greatly favors the Chicago Bears over the Washington Redskins in their championship playoff Sunday at the nation's capital.

The figures were gathered during a season whose theme song was the broken record which repeated itself right down to the end of the regular National Football League campaign yesterday.

The Bears, who trimmed the Chicago Cardinals 21 to 7—allowing a freak touchdown in the last quarter to spoil chances for the best defensive scoring record in 15 years—hold these statistical advantages over the Redskins for the 11-game season:

155 first downs to 149; 3,879 yards gained to 3,121; 1,898 yards by rushing to 1,521; 1,981 by passing to 1,600; 376 points scored to 227; 84 points given up to opponents to 102; 519 yards gained against them by rushing to 848.

Washington's margin: 257 attempted forwards to 192; 137 completions to 94 (completion percentage is lower, however); 17 of their passes intercepted to 28; 45-yard punting average to 39; 610 yards lost by penalties to 905; 1,093 yards gained against them by passing to 1,179.

Final standings of the league:

Eastern Division

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Washington	10	1	0	.909
Pittsburgh	7	4	0	.636
New York	5	5	1	.500
Brooklyn	3	8	0	.273
Philadelphia	2	9	0	.182

Western Division

Team	W	L	T	Pct.
Chicago Bears	11	0	0	1.000
Green Bay	8	2	1	.800
Cleveland	5	6	0	.455
Chicago Card.	3	8	0	.273
Detroit	1	11	0	.000

Yesterday's Results

Chicago Bears 21, Chicago Cardinals 7
Green Bay 24, Pittsburgh 21
New York 10, Brooklyn 0

Monthly Report Is Given for City's Service Building

Following is the report of Kingston Service Men's Center for November:

Approximately 200 men visited the center during the month. On Armistice Day the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary at an appropriate ceremony presented the center with an American flag.

The committee acknowledges the following donations:

Canteen supplies—Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Mrs. Alfred Jones, Evelyn Fagher, Mrs. Charles Bruno, Ralph Cohen, Miss Jean Mack, W. C. T. U., Harry Beck, Mrs. Clifford Davis, Mrs. H. Buddington, Mrs. D. H. Dunbar, Mrs. S. Bonesteel, Mrs. W. Coutant, Miss Mary Coniglio, Miss Helen Eigo, Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig, Mrs. Luther, Ladies' Aid Albany Avenue Baptist, Babcock Dairy, Beatty Dairy, Carnright Dairy, Sorosis, Lowell Club, Schwenks Bakery, Central Bakery, Friedel Bakery.

Other donations—Records, Dennis Barnhart; dishes, White Elephant Shop; Black Alderberries, John Garbarino; signs, William Mellert; T. B. Christmas seals, anonymous; piano tuned, Mrs. Laura Winters; laundry work, Garland's laundry.

The following scouts from Troop 19, Port Ewen, collected 91 pounds of grease, sold it and turned over the money to the center: The Misses Dorothy Hornbeck, Janice Fowler, Ruth Webster, Ann Winchell, Gertrude Beichert, Elnora Houghtaling, Ruth Buddenhagen, Ann McConnell, Dolores O'Donnell, Annette Beaver, Dorothy Ellsworth.

Scout Troops No. 5, 7, 11 are also collecting and selling grease for the center.

The following letters were received at the center this month:

753 Dayton Street
Akron, Ohio

Dear Mrs. Mac Connell:

I received your letter and wish I could have the opportunity to personally express the gratitude that I feel. Richard always liked to spend a lot of time at home here, and the thought of his having a chance to do the same so far away brings his family great happiness. He has sent pictures of the Center and were it not for the uniform he would have seemed the same familiar boy of yesterday.

It is a great pity that all our boys' mothers cannot be sure that their sons are being aided and comforted by groups such as yours. God bless you in your work.

A War Mother.

(Signed)
HARRIET GRAY
(MRS. W. H. GRAY)

Dear Ladies:

I wish to thank you for being so kind to me and the rest of the boys. They really think you are all real nice people. So for the time being I'll say good-bye, and thanks again for everything.

(Signed)
NORMAN MAROTTE.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home
AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Low Cost Summer Hot Water

WHEN the heating plant is closed down for the summer the question of domestic hot water heating becomes a serious one. Hot water can be heated in a number of ways, but wouldn't you be interested in heating one hundred gallons of water for less than a nickel? Wouldn't you like to go away for the weekend with no worries about the fire going out? Wouldn't you like to keep the water as hot as you want with no sudden boiling to churn up sediment and rust, and receive clean, clear hot water at all times, at just the temperature you want?

This can easily be obtained with the modern coal burning water heaters on the market today. Do not confuse these heaters with the old style pot stoves or bucket-a-day stoves. The new heaters are nearly automatic in operation, requiring very little attention. Magazine principles of design have been applied, the coal feeding down gradually as needed, thus requiring very few firings.

Air tight receptacles to catch the refuse are located below the grates. These receptacles are easy to handle and are large enough to accommodate a full week's supply of ashes. You can be assured of continuous hot water requiring no manual attention, the drafts being controlled by means of an automatic regulator. These regulators require no electrical energy or mechanical movement by springs. The regulator controls the water temperature in such a way as to eliminate overheating the water. This assures clean water at all times, and properly heated water for all purposes.

To those homeowners who already have coal burning tank heaters installed, most coal dealers can furnish at small cost, up-to-date hot water regulators. These regulators automatically control the draft, are easy to install and offer a greater automatic operation than previously enjoyed.

There is no need today to change to more expensive fuels in order to obtain automatic heating of domestic water. By installing one of these modern heaters or by merely adding a regulator to the present coal heater, oceans of hot water can be had at a much lower cost than with many other more expensive fuels. McSpaden's Victory Nets $1,000 War Bonds

Miami, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—A thousand dollars in war bonds was Harold McSpaden's regard today for a hard-earned victory in what may have been the last golf tournament for the duration to bear a reasonable resemblance to peacetime resort events.

Only a handful of name professionals matched shots with McSpaden in the four-day, $5,000 Miami open, and most of them told of plans for joining the numerous link stars who already have entered the armed forces or undertaken defense work.

The tournament was the only one on schedule before Pinehurst's north and south open next March, and few of the players felt sure they would be on hand by then.

McSpaden fired a four under par 66 yesterday to total a 72-hole card of 272 — four strokes ahead of Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill.

Revolta, the 36-hole leader, needed a final round of 68 and lost his opportunity to nab the biggest cash prize of the winter, but got $700 for second money.

A stranger to Miami galleries, young Bob Hamilton of Evansville, In., turned in a 67 to pocket the $500 third prize with 277.

McSpaden, who has a wife and two children, said he planned to remain in golf unless he should be summoned by the army. "I have offered to make a tour for the Red Cross or for war relief, paying my own expenses," he said. "I want to do my part."

Reports Loss

John Creamer of 55 Washington avenue reported the loss Thursday on Route 28 between the Avalon and Kingston of a wallet containing New York and Connecticut operator's licenses, social security card and approximately $50 in cash.

Byrd to Broadcast

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U.S.N., (Ret.), pioneer in naval aviation, will deliver a special message to 2,000 newly-enlisted naval aviation cadets, gathered in radio studios in 128 cities across the United States and in Honolulu, Hawaii, on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor, tonight at 7 o'clock.

Speaking from the Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, D. C., Admiral Byrd's words will be broadcast over the NBC network as a climax to the first nation-wide induction ceremony by radio in naval or military history.

Because of the demand in airplane construction for balsa wood, which normally grows wild in Ecuador, balsa plantations are being established in that country.

Seventh Ward Dedicates Flag

Freeman Photos

A large gathering watched the parade and flag dedication at Wurts and Hunter streets yesterday, to honor the boys from the Seventh ward who are with the armed forces.

local civilian defense marched behind the bearers of the service flag.

At the exercises Mayor Edelmuth on behalf of the residents of the Seventh Ward, presented Mrs. Smith with a four star service pin.

Jacob J. Schneider presided as chairman in the exercises in Cornell Park, and in dedicating the service flag he said:

Dedicates Flag

"At this time we come to the part of the ceremonies for which we have gathered here today. This is, in truth, a most solemn occasion, and it is most fitting indeed that our dedication of this flag take place here in Cornell Park, in the very heart of the Seventh Ward. For here the men who have gone from us to join the armed forces of our country, were raised. Here they spent their time as playing youngsters. Here they walked and talked with their friends and sweethearts as they grew to be men.

"It is also fitting at this time to publicly voice our sympathy to Mrs. Judson Libby, our gold star mother, whose son, Robert Libby, was killed in action at sea. Her loss is our loss. We share her pride in the great sacrifice she has made for us all, and in the heroic contribution of her son to the cause for which our country fights.

"Nor can we refrain from mentioning Mrs. Richard Smith, our four star mother. Rare indeed is the opportunity for such devotion and self sacrifice. Blessed indeed is she who can so gloriously aid her country.

"To the mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, wives, relatives, sweethearts and friends of those who have gone into our armed forces, and for those who (like myself) will soon follow, this flag, which we here dedicate, will ever represent the nobility and love which these men bear for their country. Their willingness to bear hardships and even, if necessary, suffer death itself, that the ideals of liberty and democracy may survive, and that the homes of our country be kept safe and free for our children and loved ones.

"This flag also will serve as a symbol for those who remain, to remind them daily of the great things for which our country fights and to inspire all of us to greater efforts and sacrifices on the home front.

"And so, with a prayer in our hearts for the early and victorious conclusion of the war, and the safe and speedy return of these, our boys, we here and now dedicate this service flag in their honor."

Others Who Spoke

Mayor Edelmuth, Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, and the Rev. Lewine A. Weaver, pastor of the Progressive Baptist Church, also spoke.

Mayor Edelmuth said:

"Friends:

"We gather here this afternoon for a solemn purpose—for more than the dedication of a service flag to the Seventh Ward men serving in the armed forces. We are here, too, to rededicate all our efforts and our energies, yes life itself, to the defeat of the enemies of freedom, to the defeat of the forces of avarice whose hunger for power and territory plunged the world into this most terrible of all wars, to the defeat of the armies of the godless who have replaced the hope-inspiring cross of Christ with the emblem of the pagan.

"The dedication of this service flag means much to you fathers and mothers, brothers and sisters and friends of the men in service. Just as hundreds of thousands of other Americans are doing in thousands of other communities throughout the land, are giving public expression of your gratitude to, and your admiration of the splendid men who are fighting to preserve our liberty and to return to all men the God-given right to live free and at peace with his neighbors.

"We are on the eve of the first anniversary of the greatest naval disaster in the history of our country. One year ago today, even as her sleek agents talked peace in Washington, Japan was sending warships and warplanes for the attack on Pearl Harbor. Never has history recorded an act so vile. Japan's treachery never has been matched.

We suffered staggering losses at Pearl Harbor. Very wisely, our government hid from the world the actual extent of that defeat; both our enemies and ourselves were kept in ignorance of the fact that a large section of our Pacific fleet was knocked out of action.

A year ago we were about to enter upon the darkest days in the history of our republic. Those days have passed, and the sun appears to be breaking through the fog of seeming disaster.

"We know now that our freedom hung in the balance for many months after Pearl Harbor; we know now why it was not possible for us to send supplies and reinforcements to the American and Filipino forces at Bataan and Corrigidor; we know now why United Nations forces were forced out of one stronghold after another, until practically all of the south Pacific was in the hands of the Japs.

"We give thanks to God that a brighter day is breaking. From the Solomons to the Aleutians, from Dakar to Iceland, on every fighting front, the enemy is feeling American power to produce mighty weapons of war. In Russia and Libya and Tunis, in Guadalcanal and New Guinea, the Japs and the Huns know that an angry Uncle Sam is a fighting man.

"These are times, too, to think of the peace that is to follow the war. Will the next peace treaty be worth more than a scrap of paper? Will it be more than a truce permitting the enemy to rearm for another try? Will it be based on the assumption that to the victor belong the spoils and the consequent prosperity of the winner at the expense of the political and economic well-being of the vanquished?

"The world prays for a lasting peace. Such an agreement will be built on those things the enemy scorns—on God and the normal rights of man. Hate and selfishness and desires for personal honors must be left outside the peace conference; there is no room for them among men who really want to cure the world's ills. It is my humble belief that the foundation for tomorrow's peace will be a recognition by the victor that God has given man certain rights and that those rights must be respected, regardless of all other considerations.

"A new order is just over the horizon, but it will be an order based on equal rights for all men and all nations. We must keep on working to attain that goal—there must be no let-down even on the home front. Victory is within our grasp; we must not let it slip away because of over-confidence or carelessness.

"I am happy to be among you people of the Seventh Ward and to have had a part in this program. I know all of us hope for the early and safe return of the men we honor here today."

The dedication service was opened with the invocation by Rabbi Bernard Gershuny of the Congregation Ahavath Israel, while the Benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Martin Schwalbenberg of St. Peter's Church.

Japanese Is Killed In Pro-Axis Riot

Outbreak Occurs in Manzanar Center in California

Manzanar, Calif., Dec. 7 (AP)—One Japanese was killed and nine wounded last night when soldiers, rushed by a mob of rioting Nipponese at the Manzanar relocation center, fired on the crowd, project director Ralph P. Merritt said today.

The flare-up came shortly after Merritt asked military police to place the camp, housing approximately 10,000 Japanese, under martial law.

Merritt attributed the trouble to "a celebration of Pearl Harbor by the pro-Axis group among the Japanese." Merritt gave this picture:

One other Japanese was badly beaten and another jailed in earlier phases of the disorder which mounted in violence until the frenzied mob rushed a cordon of military police with stones and clubs.

Troops had entered the camp in response to Merritt's earlier demands that the military take over policing of the camp where police duties are usually entrusted to a staff of Japanese and Caucasian peace officers.

The soldiers with fixed bayonets and mounted machine guns were successful in quelling the early stages of the rioting, but later as the crowd gathered into a mob, they were forced to resort to firing a barrage of tear gas.
